July 2020

Hello to all!

Well, ready or not, 2020 is half over. And as bad as I hate to even say this, I must say that I sincerely believe things are going to get much, much worse before this year is over. And folks, I feel certain that if we have an election, no matter who wins, violence is going to erupt nationwide. Please take this statement to heart! NOW is the time to make sure that we are all living, trusting in, and obeying Christ with all our hearts, souls, minds, and strength! We are going to need an increase in faith in order not to be deceived by Satan in the near future!

Also, I want to let you know that our newest catalog is now available. If you would like a copy, please give us a call with your mailing information and we will be pleased to mail one out to you.

We hope you are enjoying our Minuteman magazine. If you don't mind, when you receive it in your email, please forward it to all your contacts. Perhaps if we all work together, we can reach a few souls for Christ and educate many others. Thanks for helping us reach as many people as possible.

Please don't forget to pray for us that we can continue to bring the Gospel of Christ to the world and try to teach them the "whole" council of His Word so they will be fully equipped to stand against and withstand the wiles of our enemy.

God bless all of you as you endeavor to serve our Heavenly Father.

In Christ's service,

Pastor Butch Paugh

Three "C"s of Tyranny and Damnation

Cowardliness, Complacency and Compliance

Let's get the first "C" covered and exposed quickly. As we will endeavor to do for the other two "C"s.

(Partial definition) (1) Cowardliness – coward – 1828 Webster's Dictionary – A person who wants for courage to meet danger. Destitute of courage. Timid; base; as a "coward" wretch. Fearful.

The fearful (cowardly) are the first to be cast into the lake of fire (Rev. 21:8) Their fear of standing for righteousness because of fear of persecution or perhaps compromising truth and righteousness for fear (cowardliness) of losing material gain, or even death are proof that they have fallen short on total and sincere faith in God! I do not know one individual who doesn't feel fear from time to time! No one enjoys being ridiculed, mocked, or persecuted. Christ himself didn't enjoy it! He even asked His Father if there was any other way but being nailed to a cross that He could do to fulfill His work on earth. But He overcame that fear by knowing His Father's promise to Him. Courage is not the absence of fear, but the overcoming of fear through faith! Remember, to please God we must have the faith not to be a coward! To face our fears through faith in Him and His promises to us. In order to "please" Him we have to have faith in Him! (Heb. 11:6, James 2:17,18) The following scriptures may be of a help to all of us. (Deut. 3:16, Prov. 29:25, Matt. 6:24-34, Matt. 20:28, Heb. 2:5, Heb. 3:17-19) Now the first "C" has been explained. The rest is up to you! Your soul depends on your response!

(2) Complacency – 1828 Webster's Dictionary (partial definition) "pleasure, satisfaction, gratification, softness of manner, "approbation" or the act of approving, liking, assenting to the propriety of a thing." If an act or issue is morally correct, we are complacent with it as righteous men. But when an act or issue is immoral, to be complacent is a sin that leads to damnation! Indeed, is an act of cowardliness! We become "complacent", apathetic, and indeed "pathetic" in the eyes of God. Complacency with evil leads to the same destination as cowardliness! We have all been massively guilty of this one! That is why America is decaying before our very eyes! (Ps. 97:19, Prov. 24:11-12, Prov. 25:26, Romans 12:9, Eph. 6:10-12, James 4:17, I John 4:20, Rev. 3:16.)

(3) Compliance – 1828 Webster’s Dictionary (partial definition) “The act of complying; a yielding to a demand or proposal, (submission), obedience, compliance to a command or precept. Yielding, bending to be compliant to an act or issue show consent to that act or issue.” An act or issue that is Godly and morally right, we are commanded to obey! But an ungodly and immoral act or issue we are commanded not to obey! God alone is sovereign! His laws supersede all other laws made by all other powers or authorities! Any law, dictate, order, request or command is null and void if not in line with His Word! True followers of Yahweh, Jehovah God through His son Yashua, Jesus the Christ are duty bound to obey Him over any other power or authority! (Acts 5:29) To comply with an ungodly or unrighteous (unlawful) decrees made by any entity is sin, and shows cowardliness and complacency!

You will find in God’s Word and throughout history that the masses all over the world preferred to play the coward, be complacent and comply with immoral acts and decrees just to keep the “peace”. They would rather suffer inhumane and tyrannical edicts than stand for truth and righteousness in society! The masses have always suffered from the “Hezekiah Syndrome.” Even after God healed Hezekiah and added fifteen years to his life he still committed a great sin by trusting in “ambassadors” from Babylon (worldly, evil powers). Because of his sin, Isaiah told him that his kingdom would be lost to Babylon and his own sons would be castrated servants to the King of Babylon. Hezekiah, showing the type of man he really was, cowardly, complacent and compliant made the following statement to Isaiah: II Kings 20:19, “Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, Good is the word of LORD (Yahweh) which thou hast spoken. And he said, “Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?” In other words, isn’t it a good thing that there will be peace and truth as long as I’m alive? Let my children pay for my ignorance and apathy! The same exact thing we here in America have been saying for at least 150 years! We had better give thanks and praise God that He is merciful and forgiving to those who will NOW repent and take a stand!! [1 John 2:1-4] Read verses three and four VERY carefully!! Also read Ezek. 18:20-24.

Some fruits of the three “C’s” are, tolerance of unjust wars, tolerance of a police state, the destruction of children’s minds and souls in the public “fool” system, the slaughter of nearly 100 million children in their mother’s wombs and allowing the supreme court to decree that sexual deviant and perverts have a Constitutional right to seduce, rape and pervert our children!! REPENT OR PERISH!! Payday IS coming for ALL of us!!

Stand and LIVE, or bow and BURN!! [11 Kings 18:21, Jos. 24:15, 11 Sam. 10:12]

BE WITHOUT FEAR IN THE FACE OF YOUR ENEMIES

STAND BRAVE AND UPRIGHT, THAT THE LORD MAY LOVE THEE,

Maryland Child Behavioral Specialist Placed on Leave After Being Indicted on Bestiality Charges

By Heather Clark on May 14, 2013 | Comment

Jarrettsville, Maryland — A child behavioral specialist at a public school system in Maryland was recently indicted on bestiality charges after investigators allegedly found numerous video tapes at her home capturing her engaging in sexual acts with a dog.

Stephanie Mikles, 45, was placed on leave without pay this month by the Harford County Public School District after she was indicted in April for engaging in “unnatural and perverted sex practice.” According to reports, the allegations stem from incidents occurring in August 2008, which were not discovered until late last year. There is no statute of limitations involving the crime in the state.

A complaint against Mikles regarding a separate issue led to an official investigation by the child advocacy center, which resulted in the discovery of a number of videos. The shocking videos were then removed from the woman’s home and reviewed by investigators. Harford County States Attorney Joseph Cassilly told the Baltimore Sun that the footage “took a while to go through.”

“As a result of what they found, they placed the charges,” he said, noting that he believed the sexual acts occurred on “more than one instance.”

A grand jury then indicted Mikles of having “sexual intercourse with a dog,” according to court records and still photographs presumably taken from the videos.

Mikles was released on $5,000 bond following the indictment. She faces up to 10 years in prison and a $1,000 fine. The dog is stated to still live at the Mikles household.

Mikles has been working as a behavioral specialist for the past four years, providing strategies for helping children that struggle with abnormal behavior. She was moved to a non-instructional position late last year when the district became aware of the charges against her, then put on leave with pay following her indictment in April. This month, she was placed on leave without pay.

Moral Low Ground notes that Mikles’ case is not unique, but is rather one of a string of bestiality cases to come to light just this year.

“Last month, North Carolina animal shelter volunteer Seadon Collins Etienne Henrich of Zebulon was arrested and charged with four felony counts of crime against nature and three felony counts of disseminating obscenity for allegedly abusing dogs in his care and photographing the incidents," it outlines. "In March, 38-year-old Derwayne Wesley Sharp of Greensboro, North Carolina was charged with raping a young girl and having sex with a dog, crimes that allegedly occurred at the same time back in 2005."

"In February, 23-year-old Kara Vandereyk was arrested by Las Vegas police who witnessed her having sex with a pit bull in her backyard," the report continues. "In January, Charles Ralph Horton, 57, of Cedar Springs, Michigan was charged with sodomy after allegedly raping a lab/shepherd mix on multiple occasions last year. Also in January, Milford, Delaware couple Samantha L. Golt, 24, and her 25-year-old boyfriend James P. Crow were arrested and charged with bestiality. Golt allegedly had sex with a dog while Crow is accused of filming the action." A scheduling conference will be held on May 20th regarding Mikles' case as she remains under investigation.

DOD Awards $138 Million Contract, Enabling Prefilled Syringes for Future COVID-19 Vaccine

May 12, 2020

Statement attributed to Lt. Col. Mike Andrews, Department of Defense spokesman:

"Today the Department of Defense and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, announce a $138 million contract with Apiject Systems America for "Project Jumpstart" and "RAPID USA," which together will dramatically expand U.S. production capability for domestically manufactured, medical-grade injection devices starting by October 2020.

Spearheaded by the DOD's Joint Acquisition Task Force (JATF), in coordination with the HHS Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response, the contract will support "Jumpstart" to create a U.S.-based, high-speed supply chain for prefilled syringes beginning later this year by using well-established Blow-Fill-Seal (BFS) aseptic plastics manufacturing technology, suitable for combatting COVID-19 when a safe and proven vaccine becomes available.

By immediately upgrading a sufficient number of existing domestic BFS facilities with installations of filling-line and technical improvements, "Jumpstart" will enable the manufacture of more than 100 million prefilled syringes for distribution across the United States by year-end 2020.

The contract also enables Apiject Systems America to accelerate the launch of RAPID USA manufactured in new and permanent U.S.-based BFS facilities with the ultimate production goal of over 500 million prefilled syringes (doses) in 2021. This effort will be executed initially in Connecticut, South Carolina and Illinois, with potential expansion to other U.S.-based locations. RAPID will provide increased lifesaving capability against future national health emergencies that require population-scale vaccine administration on an urgent basis.

RAPID's permanent fill-finish production capability will help significantly decrease the United States' dependence on offshore supply chains and its reliance on older technologies with much longer production lead times. These supplies can be used if a successful SARS-COV-2 vaccine is oral or intranasal rather than injectable."

ABOUT US APPLICATIONS PRESS CONTACT

Introducing the BFS Prefilled Syringe.

It's time to improve how we inject medicines and vaccines. Ultra-low cost. Single-use safety. Rapid scalability.

Low Cost and Patient Safety are No Longer a Tradeoff.

The BFS prefilled syringe leverages the scale and efficiency of the well-established Blow-Fill-Seal plastic manufacturing process, to deliver prefilled syringes at enormous volumes and low cost. By affixing Needle Hubs onto 300 BFS containers per minute, it is now possible to package medicines in prefilled syringes at a lower cost per dose than a 10-dose glass vial with syringe.

Using Blow-Fill-Seal to Hold Medicines is a Globally Trusted Technology

The "BFS" in BFS prefilled syringe stands for "Blow-Fill-Seal." It is a regulator-trusted, 50+ year old manufacturing technology that aseptically fills billions of doses of drugs, vaccines, and other medicines every year in plastic containers. Most people are familiar with sterile eyedrops and nose sprays in BFS "squeeze bottle" containers. ApiJect has added a Needle Hub to the BFS container to create the world's first BFS prefilled syringe, available at a breakthrough low cost.

PANDEMIC RESPONSE

BFS Prefilled Syringes are Ideal for Pandemic Response

In a national bio-emergency such as a pandemic, nations may require "surge capacity" - the ability to package hundreds of millions of doses of drugs or vaccines on short notice. This task can be extremely difficult when relying on glass vials, due to the limited capacities of "just in time" supply chains. BFS prefilled syringes are ideal for this challenge, as a single BFS manufacturing line can produce 15 million finished BFS prefilled syringes per month. That is why ApiJect has joined forces with the U.S. Government to create The RAPID Consortium, a public-private partnership that strengthens America's surge capacity.

LEARN MORE ABOUT RAPID

ApiJect is proud to be a founding member of the RAPID Consortium.

More Access. Better Safety. Lower Cost.

Every year, some 14 million children around the world do not receive needed vaccinations. In addition, some 1.3 million people die annually from infections acquired when health workers improperly reuse syringes. Yet another 20 million people per year contract HIV, HepB and other blood-borne diseases in this same way. Fortunately, BFS prefilled syringes will enable national health ministries worldwide to cover more of their citizens on the same budget – all while improving safety by eliminating syringe reuse and cross-contamination of vials.

A Digital “Snapshot” for Every Injection.

Whether health officials are running a scheduled vaccination program or an urgent pandemic response campaign, they can make better decisions if they know when and where each injection occurs. With an optional RFID/NFC tag under the label on each BFS prefilled syringe, ApiJect will make this possible. Before giving an injection, the healthcare worker will be able to launch a free mobile app and “tap” the NFC tag on the prefilled syringe’s label to their phone. The app will capture the tag’s unique dose-level serial number, GPS location and date/time, then upload the data to a government database. Aggregated injection data provides health administrators an evolving real-time “injection map.”

New Facial Recognition Software Predicts You're A Criminal Based On Your Looks

Thu, 05/14/2020 - 23:25

Authored by Alan Macleod via MintPressNews.com.

A team from the University of Harrisburg, PA, has developed automated computer facial recognition software that they claim can predict with 80 percent accuracy and “no racial bias” whether a person is likely going to be a criminal, purely by looking at a picture of them.

“By automating the identification of potential threats without bias, our aim is to produce tools for crime prevention, law enforcement, and military applications,” they said, declaring that they were looking for “strategic partners” to work with to implement their product.

Recommended Videos

In a worrying use of words, the team in their own press release, move from referring to those the software recognizes as being “likely criminals” to “criminals” in the space of just one sentence, suggesting they are confident in the discredited racist pseudoscience of phrenology they appear to have updated for the 21st century.

Public reaction to the project was less than enthusiastic, judging by comments left on Facebook, which included “Societies have been trying to push the idea of ‘born criminals’ for centuries,” “and this isn’t profiling because...?” and “20 percent getting tailed by police constantly because they have the ‘crime face.’” Indeed, the response was so negative that the university pulled the press release from the internet. However, it is still visible using the Internet Wayback Machine.

While the research team claims to be removing bias and racism from decision making, leaving it up to a faceless algorithm, those who write the code, and those who get to decide who constitutes a criminal in the first place, certainly do have their own biases. Why are the homeless or people of color who “loiter” on sidewalks criminalized, but senators and congresspersons who vote for wars and regime change operations not? And who is more likely to be arrested? Wall Street executives doing cocaine in their offices or working-class people smoking marijuana or crack? The higher the level of a person in society, the more serious and harmful their crimes become, but the likelihood of an arrest and a custodial sentence decreases. Black people are more likely to be arrested for the same crime as white people and are sentenced to longer stays in prison, too. Furthermore, facial recognition software is notorious for being unable to tell people of color apart, raising further concerns.

Crime figures are greatly swayed by whom the police choose to follow and what they decide to prioritize. For example, a recent study found 97.5 percent of Brooklyn residents arrested for breaking social distancing laws were people of color. Meanwhile, an analysis of 95 million traffic stops found that police officers were far more likely to stop black people during the daytime when their race could be determined from afar. As soon as dusk hit, the disparity greatly diminished, as a "veil of darkness" saved them from undue harassment, according to researchers. Thus, the population of people convicted of crimes does not necessarily correspond to the population that commits them.

The 2002 hit movie Minority Report is set in a future world where the government's pre-crime division stops all murders well before they happen, with future criminals locked up preemptively. Even if accurate, is an 80 percent accuracy rate worth risking the creation of a dystopian Minority Report-style society where people are monitored and arrested for pre-crimes?

Phrenology, the long-abandoned study of the size and shape of the head, has a long and sordid history of dangerous racist and elitist pseudoscience. For instance, Cesare Lombroso's 1876 book, Criminal Man, told students that large jaws and high cheekbones were a feature of "criminals, savages and apes," and was a sure sign of the "love of orgies and the irresistible craving for evil for its own sake, the desire not only to extinguish life in the victim, but to mutilate the corpse, tear its flesh, and drink its blood." Meanwhile, rapists nearly always have jug ears, delicate features, swollen lips, and hunchbacks. Lombroso himself was a professor in psychiatry and criminal anthropology and his book were taught in universities for decades. To Lombroso, it was almost impossible for a good-looking person to commit a serious crime.

The latest technological development from the University of Harrisburg appears to be an updated, "algorithmic phrenology," repackaging a dangerous idea for the 21st century, all the more noteworthy because they are trying to sell it to law enforcement as an unbiased tool helping society.

NOW THE END BEGINS SHARE:

Bill Gates is building something that we call the Human Implantable Quantum Dot Microneedle Vaccination Delivery System, and it needs an enzyme called Luciferase in order to make it work. Remove the word 'human' and it becomes 666.

With each passing day, it becomes clearer and plainer to those of us who are bible believers that we are living in a very unique time period. So unique, in fact, that we just might be witnessing the kingdom of Antichrist and the Mark of the Beast system being assembled before our very eyes. Please note that I use the word 'might' out of an overabundance of caution when writing articles like these, but when I am alone with my thoughts I am completely convinced that is exactly where we are. 100%. The wise shall understand. Ever hear of Luciferase?

“And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end. Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly; and none of the wicked shall understand; but the wise shall understand.” Daniel 12:9,10 (KJB)

Over the past few weeks, we have shown you a massive project by Bill Gates that is so all-encompassing that it quite nearly beggars belief. That expression is an Old English term which means something that is so unbelievable that it nearly cannot be believed. The Nazi concentration camps in the Holocaust are a great example of that. When the films of what went on there came to light it was so astonishing that it was hard to comprehend such a thing could happen. But happen it did. And what is happening right now, the Antichrist system, is a similarly hard thing to fathom, but here we are.

Bill Gates is building something that we call the Human Implantable Quantum Dot Microneedle Vaccination Delivery System, and it is composed of multiple things. At its center we have the COVID-19 vaccination that he wants to give every human on earth, there will be quantum dot microneedles, a digital identification mark from ID2020, and a human implantable device for buying and selling cryptocurrency with a patent number of #060606. The digital ID will come in the form of something called an Immunity Passport. All of these things, and all being funded by one man, Bill Gates, represents in total at the very least a stunning forerunner to the Mark of the Beast world system. That's at the very least estimation, taken to its logical end, it very well could be the actual Mark of the Beast system.

But today, I want to draw your attention to one component, the quantum dot microneedles that will deliver the vaccines, and a very, very unique biochemical that makes it all work. If you're standing up while reading this, you might want to sit down. Today we bring you 'near infrared bioluminescence enzyme luciferase' which is the chemical that will make the quantum dot vaccination readable through a special mobile device app.

That's right, the enzyme that will light up Bill Gates Human Implantable Quantum Dot Microneedle Vaccination Delivery System is called Luciferase, that's what makes the vaccination readable long after the victim has been injected, and what allows a mere vaccination to function as a mark. Luciferase. Want to see what Luciferase does? Take a look.

Smart toilet recognises users by their 'anal print' and can detect early signs of cancer

Scientists say the smart toilet could be useful to individuals who are predisposed to certain conditions, such as irritable bowel syndrome, prostate cancer or kidney failure

Going to the loo may never be the same again thanks to scientists who claim to have invented a device that can be fitted on toilets to detect signs of various diseases in stool and urine.

The gadget, which fits inside the bowl, uses cameras, test strips and motion sensing technology to analyse the deposits and sends the data to a secure cloud server.

The researchers said their so-called "smart toilet" technology could be useful to individuals who are genetically predisposed to certain conditions, such as irritable bowel syndrome, prostate cancer or kidney failure.

Dr Sanjiv Gambhir, professor and chair of radiology at Stanford University's School of Medicine in the US, and senior author on the study, said: "Our concept dates back well over 15 years.

"When I'd bring it up, people would sort of laugh because it seemed like an interesting idea, but also a bit odd."

Scientists say the smart toilet could be useful to individuals who are predisposed to certain conditions (Image: Getty)

The gadget analyses the basic biochemical composition of excreta, with urine samples undergoing physical and molecular analysis while stool assessment is based on physical characteristics.

According to the researchers, the data gathered from the samples can reveal biomarkers for 10 different types of diseases, from infection and bladder cancer to kidney failure.

The technology, which falls into a category known as continuous health monitoring, has been tested on 21 participants but the researchers say the potential health benefits of their toilet system will need to be assessed in large clinical studies.

Dr Gambhir added: "The thing about a smart toilet, though, is that unlike wearables, you can't take it off.

"Everyone uses the bathroom - there's really no avoiding it - and that enhances its value as a disease-detecting device."

The technology a combination of fingerprint scanning and, strangely, images of the anus to differentiate between users.

Dr Gambhir said: "We know it seems weird, but as it turns out, your anal print is unique.

"The scans - both finger and nonfinger - are used purely as a recognition system to match users to their specific data."

But he adds this technology is no replacement for a doctor or a clinical diagnosis.

According to Dr Gambhir, the next steps in their project will be to develop personalised tests tailored to the user.

The research is published in the journal Nature Biomedical Engineering.

“Known Traveler Digital Identity” (KTDI)

On March 26, 2020, the World Economic Forum published specifications and launched a new website for a project it has christened “Known Travel Digital Identity” (KTDI):

KTDI is a “surveillance-by-design” vision for tracking and control of travelers more dystopian than anything we have seen before.

KTDI would use a block chain-based distributed ledger to bind together, through an app on a traveler’s mobile device, all of the following data:

- Biometrics (initially facial images, possibly also fingerprints, etc.)
- Government-issued ID credentials (passport number, etc.)
- Travel history including logs of border crossings, hotel stays, and possibly also car rentals and/or other events
- Purchase logs and possibly bank account information and/or other financial and transaction records

- Pre-crime predictive “risk assessment” and profiling scores generated at each “intervention” point before and during each trip or transaction

Each hotel stay, purchase, or other transaction would become like a border crossing permanently stamped in your passport as part of a digital “trip pass” subject to inspection on demand by authorities at subsequent “intervention” points:

All of this data is intended to be used to discriminate between travelers whose ID-linked pre-crime profiles are scored as “high risk” or “low risk”:

Access to more comprehensive travel history and transaction logs is a longstanding goal of government surveillance and travel-control agencies. In accordance with standards set by ICAO, space is reserved on the RFID chip in each e-passport for travel history data. But this was intended, so far as we can tell, solely for border crossing or entry/exit data, not for logs of hotel stays or other transactions. So far as we know, few countries have recorded any travel history data on passport RFID chips, probably because of the limited space reserved in the data structure and the complications of securely changing or adding to the the data on the chip once it is first written and digitally signed by the issuing government.

In a presentation at the Hotel Electronic Distribution Network Association (HEDNA) conference, representatives of Accenture (the prime contractor to the WEF for the KTDI project) and Marriott boasted of how, based on KTDI data, an individual could be picked out of a crowd for “blacklisting” using automated facial recognition, “without stopping or acknowledging the camera.” So it can be used for surreptitious, non-consensual mass surveillance.

Best known for its annual events in Davos, Switzerland (most recently in January 2020, where KTDI was among the topics discussed), the World Economic Forum describes itself as “the International Organization for Public-Private Cooperation.”

Partners in the KTDI project include government agencies (DHS, ICAO, INTERPOL, etc.) and the airline and airline IT industries (IATA, Amadeus, etc.). But that’s not all.

Other KTDI project partners include Google (Google acquired a computerized reservation system provider in 2010, but it’s unclear in what capacity Google is participating in the KTDI project), the Marriott and Hilton (US-based) and Accor (France-based) hotel chains, and the Visa credit-card and payment processing company.

The first KTDI pilot project had been planned for use by selected passengers on Air Canada and/or KLM flights between Amsterdam Schiphol Airport (AMS), Toronto (YYZ), and Montreal (YUL). The pilot project was reportedly planned to being in “early 2020”. So far as we can tell, that hasn’t happened, although we wouldn’t necessarily know since, “Passenger participation will be ... by invitation only.”

It’s puzzling why Canada and the Netherlands are the countries involved in the first planned tests. The agreement which would have allowed sharing of PNR data about airline passengers between Canada and the European Union was invalidated by the Court of Justice of the European Union in 2016. No new agreement has been approved, much less reviewed or upheld by the CJEU.

We suspect that the pilot project has been postponed due to the COVID-19 pandemic and cutbacks in air service. The release of the first public version of the KTDI specifications last week may have been intended as an alternate way to maintain the momentum of the project during this slow period in travel. This is a concept that isn't about to die.

ID2020 and partners launch program to provide digital ID with vaccines

Sep 20, 2019 | Chris Burt

The ID2020 Alliance has launched a new digital identity program at its annual summit in New York, in collaboration with the Government of Bangladesh, vaccine alliance Gavi, and new partners in government, academia, and humanitarian relief.

The program to leverage immunization as an opportunity to establish digital identity was unveiled by ID2020 in partnership with the Bangladesh Government's Access to Information (a2i) Program, the Directorate General of Health Services, and Gavi, according to the announcement.

Digital identity is a computerized record of who a person is, stored in a registry. It is used, in this case, to keep track of who has received vaccination.

"We are implementing a forward-looking approach to digital identity that gives individuals control over their own personal information, while still building off existing systems and programs," says Anir Chowdhury, policy advisor at a2i. "The Government of Bangladesh recognizes that the design of digital identity systems carries far-reaching implications for individuals' access to services and livelihoods, and we are eager to pioneer this approach."

Gavi CEO Seth Berkley says that 89 percent of children and adolescents who do not have identification live in countries where the organization is active. "We are enthusiastic about the potential impact of this program not just in Bangladesh, but as something we can replicate across Gavi-eligible countries, providing a viable route to closing the identity gap," he says.

A partnership was also formed earlier this year between Gavi, NEC, and Simprints to use biometrics to improve vaccine coverage in developing nations.

"Digital ID is being defined and implemented today, and we recognize the importance of swift action to close the identity gap," comments ID2020 Executive Director Dakota Gruener. "Now is the time for bold commitments to ensure that we respond both quickly and responsibly. We and our ID2020 Alliance partners, both present and future, are committed to rising to this challenge."

ID2020 also announced new partnerships and provided progress reports on initiatives launched last year. Since last year's summit, the ID2020 Alliance has been joined by the City of Austin, UC Berkeley's CITRIS Policy Lab and Care USA.

The City of Austin, ID2020, and several other partners are working together with homeless people and the service providers who engage with them to develop a blockchain-enabled digital identity platform called MyPass to empower homeless people with their own identity data.

A pair of inaugural pilot programs launched last year in partnership with iRespond and Everest have each made progress, ID2020 says. The iRespond program has improved continuity of care for more than 3,000 refugees receiving treatment for chronic conditions from the International Rescue Committee in Thailand, according to the announcement, while Everest has assisted with the provision of access to critical energy subsidies and a range of additional services with secure and user-centric digital identities without relying on a smartphone. This post was updated at 4:58pm on March 26, 2020 to clarify that the program is intended to allow people to receive vaccination and prove they have received it, not to track individuals, as claimed by some conspiracy theorists.

The Narc in Your Next New Car

For years, the insurance mafia has been trying to get people to voluntarily plug a driving monitor into their car, using the prospect of a “discount” as an inducement. Most people don’t fall for this because they understand that the “discount” is of a piece with advertising that promises you’ll save “up to 20 percent” but actually save you nothing or very little – while always paying more.

Well, your next new car may come standard with the driver monitor already plugged in. Embedded, actually – which means you can’t remove it. Or say no thanks to it. If you buy the car, you buy the embedded narc.

Allstate and Nationwide just announced they’ve “partnered” with Ford to pre-wire most 2020 (and likely all 2021) model Ford and Lincoln vehicles with the embedded tech to “participate” in what is styled the Milewise program, which uses the vehicle's in-car WiFi to transmit to the mafia data about your driving habits.

Elena Ford, chief customer experience officer at Ford Motor Company says: "This is the latest way we're improving the customer experience . . . (it) makes getting insurance easier for connected-vehicle customers to cover one of their biggest investments – their vehicle – while saving money."

The spiel goes on to promise "savings" of (here it comes) "up to 40 percent."

Ostensibly, the monitoring is merely of the mileage driven – you pay less if you drive less – but what people aren't being told is that the vehicles so equipped are fully capable of transmitting data about everything.

And not just your driving, either. But let's start there.

How far you drive and where – as well as how fast. Anything faster than the posted speed limit being, of course, synonymous with "unsafe" driving – and we all know what that means.

Bye-bye "up to 40 percent" savings. More like 40 percent surcharge.

It will be like taking a radar trap with you every time you drive. Or rather, being unable to drive without running afoul of a radar trap.

These in-car narcs also monitor how quickly you accelerate. Even if you never actually break the speed limit, if you accelerate too quickly – for saaaaaaaaaaaaafety! – then you can expect to not get that discount. Same goes for braking "too abruptly" – another indicator (according to the mafia's metrics) of "unsaaaaaaafe" driving.

Basically, if you don't hew to the "defensive driving" orthodoxies enumerated in the DMV manual – i.e., total mindless obedience to every traffic law, including full stops at every stop sign, the use of a turn signal every time you make a turn, never making a right turn on red, no passing if it means "speeding" – even if that's the only safe way to pass – and eggshell-under-the-pedal accelerator and brake pedal inputs.

Super-rich to 'live forever by implanting brains in human-like robots'

EXCLUSIVE: In a plot which seems straight out of the Netflix original series Altered Carbon, experts have told Daily Star Online the wealthy could soon achieve immortality

The super-rich will soon be able to "live forever" thanks to sophisticated scientific breakthroughs effectively bringing about the end of death, experts believe.

Speaking to Daily Star Online, futurologist and former Labour MP Dr Ian Pearson said that the next few decades will see the blurring of lines between humans and machines.

He argued that such technology is already here to some degree, with retina implants and microchips, but the coming years will see that technology take a massive leap forwards.

"Think of it as like adding an extension to the brain, similar to adding a conservatory to a house," he said.

Dr Pearson believes that by the 2050s, we will have achieved what he calls "electronic immortality".

Experts believe the super-rich will one day be able to 'live forever' through transferring their minds to different bodies (Image: AFP via Getty Images)

US conceptual artist and experimental philosopher Jonathon Keats also believes that such technology is on the horizon.

Speaking from California, he told Daily Star Online: "The way that technology is progressing, it is inevitable that our personalities will soon last beyond our death."

Rather than Dr Pearson's Westworld-style androids, Jonathon believes we will see what he calls "passive immortality".

This will mean that our bodies may die, but we will be able to "upload our conscience" to a memory stick.

That would mean we were aware of our surroundings, but may not need a physical form to experience life.

Some of this technology, such as retina implants, already exists (Image: Getty)

Jonathon, who has previously written about copywriting our brains, believes that such technology could raise major privacy issues.

"If the human brain can be downloaded, then it is suddenly hackable," he explained.

"Suddenly we open our minds up to personal data breaches, fraud, and even imposters pretending to be us."

The possibilities of "passive immortality" could also transform the space industry, Jonathon said.

By cryogenically freezing our brains, he added, we could "keep the mind in stasis" as it travels the many lightyears across space.

"Other planets could be used to 'park' our brains," he said.

But this raises a fresh issue of how to "reactivate the brain" once we reach our destination, Jonathon explained.

It may even be necessary to create a clone and give it a "epigenetic and experiential implant," meaning the empty clone could be brought up to speed on everything our original selves have ever thought or felt in our lives.

This chip could then be implanted into the clone, creating a replica of us which had all of our experiences.

US conceptual artist and philosopher Jonathon Keats spoke to Daily Star Online

This is not the first time experts have predicted that the super-rich will leave us lowly mortals behind.

Earlier this month, Daily Star Online reported that billionaires could leave Earth for space colonies to escape from climate catastrophe.

US media theorist Douglas Rushkoff has written that the overall direction of the wealthy is to quit the planet and create a new world just for the elite.

We could even see Westworld-like androids in the future (Image: ©2016 Home Box Office, Inc. All rights reserved. HBO® and all related programs are the property of Home Box Office, Inc.)

In the Netflix original series Altered Carbon, by the year 2384 human consciousness is transferred into a cortical stack implanted into their spinal columns containing all their thoughts and memories.

This stack can be removed and transferred to a new body known as a sleeve.

The only way to truly die is if the stack is damaged beyond repair meaning the super-wealthy are able to survive for centuries.

For now, this is the preserve of science fiction, but one day soon this technology could become a reality

Mastercard is pioneering new payment technology that identifies commuters by the way they walk

By Rupert Steiner

The payment provider is investigating innovative behavioral biometrics such as gait, face, heartbeat and veins for cutting edge payment systems of the future

New York commuters walk through a turnstile at a subway station in New York City. Commuters may soon be able to ditch their bus pass and access public transport with technology identifying them by the way they walk.

Mastercard MA, -0.03% is working with transport firms to develop a new system that would authenticate passengers by their gait.

The payment provider told MarketWatch that everyone has a unique walk, and it is investigating innovative behavioral biometrics such as gait, face, heartbeat and veins for cutting edge payment systems of the future.

Ajay Bhalla, president of cyber and intelligence solutions for Mastercard, told MarketWatch in an interview: "We are working with transport organizations where your face or gait will authenticate you.

"The way you hold your phone, which ear you use, and how your fingers touch the buttons are all unique to you. We have been testing heartbeat, vein technology, and the way people walk to authenticate people."

The gait technology is the most unusual. Closed-circuit television cameras would identify passengers approaching transport barriers. Once the system recognizes the individual, it would let them pass after matching them with an account that is in credit or linked to a valid payment card.

Developing secure payment systems that deliver speed and security is a major challenge for banks and credit card providers, as users migrate online for financial services. Scammers are using increasingly sophisticated technology to assume the identity of customers and providers are seeking high-tech solutions to stay one step ahead.

On Tuesday, the Federal Bureau of Investigation produced a report revealing as much as $3.5 billion has been reported lost from suspected internet crime over 2019 in the U.S. There were 467,361 complaints received last year.

Sophisticated attacks, those focused on quality rather than volume, have grown 430% since July 2019, compared with the previous seven months, according to a study by NuData, a company owned by Mastercard.

Instances where a scammer gains control of a customer's account increased by 330% in the last four months of 2019.

This is despite huge leaps in technology, from customers using just basic passwords to access their accounts, to the use of fingerprint readers built into most smartphones and laptops, as well face identification, and some apps claiming to use retina recognition.

Vascular matching is another innovation Mastercard is exploring. It can identify individuals from the unique patterns of blood vessels that can be seen close to the surface of the skin.

A spokesman said: "We are looking closely at a range of modalities for biometric authentication, including gait analysis, ECG [electrocardiogram] and vein pattern to identify a user."

Bhalla explained that the rhythm of a person's heartbeat is also unique: "A user could wear a band around their wrist that measures the pulse and constantly authenticates you."

Mastercard acquired NuData Security in 2017 and it has been making advances in biometric identification. The payment provider has also been working with academics at the University of Oxford in the U.K. on what it describes as its "top global priority."

Bhalla said: "The world is changing at a fast pace. Hackers are figuring out how to attack individuals to get their credentials."

Infant vaccination rates plummeted during the lock down, so why did INFANT mortality rates also plummet to historic lows?

by: Lance D Johnson
NaturalNews.com

Vaccines are praised as the golden standard for saving millions of lives worldwide. That's the promise that we are led to believe as parents ritualistically submit their infant sons and daughters to a cornucopia of state-sanctioned injections. Well-baby visits are designed to introduce up to 26 liability-free vaccinations in the baby's first year of life, during six or more visits to a pediatrician.

However, during the covid-19 lockdowns, well-baby visits were cancelled and vaccination rates plummeted as a result. More parents stayed home, nursed their babies, watched them closely, and kept them away from pediatricians.

When the national emergency order was declared, provider orders for routine pediatric vaccines dropped significantly. The Vaccines for Children Program and the Vaccine Safety Data link reported a drop-off in vaccination coverage starting in the third week of March, as hundreds of thousands of parents stayed home and skipped well-baby visits. The downward trend was observed from March 23rd to the end of April for all non-influenza vaccines, especially measles-containing vaccines.

So why did infant mortality rates drop to historic lows as vaccination coverage fell?

If vaccines are so important for an infant to live, then why didn't the infant death rate dramatically increase as vaccination coverage fell? The data shows that the opposite effect occurred; infant deaths actually plummeted to historic lows! In the U.S., infant mortality occurs at roughly 700 babies per week. This trend of infant death and sacrifice remained steady from 2014 to 2019. In 2020, this all changed. From early March to mid-April, infant deaths fell by 30 percent on average each week! Throughout April and into mid May, the infant mortality rate had declined to 500 on average per week.

Deaths among children under 18 are relatively rare when compared to deaths from other age groups. For the average death rate to change by 30 percent in the youngest age group (infants) – that is unprecedented!

The main causes of death for infants is congenital malformation (birth defects), representing 32 percent of all infant deaths. On average, accidents account for 31 percent of infant deaths. Circulatory complications (9 percent) and homicide (7 percent) are also contributing causes. The biggest grey area for infant death is "sudden infant death syndrome" which accounts for roughly 32 percent of infant deaths. This is when an otherwise healthy infant suddenly dies in their sleep, through suffocation, poisoning, or from an undiagnosed condition or adverse reaction.

Infant mortality rates fall when less vaccine doses are administered

An important study found that infant mortality rates regressed against the number of vaccine doses routinely given. The study asks: Is there a biochemical or synergistic toxicity? After all, the cumulative safety of the entire U.S. vaccine schedule has never been studied.

Infant mortality rate is defined as the number of infant deaths per 1000 live births. The infant mortality rate for the US is an abysmal 6.22. Singapore, Sweden, and Japan have an infant mortality rate that is less than half that of the US (2.80). There were major differences in infant mortality for nations that gave 12-14 doses in the first year of a baby's life compared to those that gave 21-23 and 24-26 doses. As of 2009, the five nations with the lowest infant mortality rate only require 12 vaccine doses in the infant's first year, compared to 24-26 doses required by the US. The US pathetically has the highest infant mortality rate out of the 33 developed nations in the study.

The covid-19 lockdowns of 2020 provided more insight into how a nation can lower the infant mortality rate. As a nation that cares for the lives of its citizens, the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) and Centers for Disease Control (CDC) must rethink the purpose of well-baby visits and the necessity of pumping infants full of numerous vaccinations. If the US can save 200 or more babies on average each week by simply foregoing well-baby visits and vaccinations, then how many more babies can be saved if pediatric care was reformed entirely, and vaccine doses were lessened? How many babies can be saved if pediatric care adopted a more comprehensive and integrative approach to infant immunology and neurodevelopment? Finally, what if vaccine manufacturers were held liable in a court of law?

New WHO Guidelines for Face Masks Admit No Known Medical Benefits – Psychological Brain Washing

Health Impact News – by Brian Shilhavy

The World Health Organization released new guidelines for using masks this past week.

The document is called:

Advice on the use of masks in the context of COVID-19

Some highlights:

“The widespread use of masks by healthy people in the community setting is not yet supported by high quality or direct scientific evidence and there are potential benefits and harms to consider...the use of a mask alone is insufficient to provide an adequate level of protection.”

But you should still keep wearing one for these non-medical reasons:

The likely advantages of the use of masks by healthy people in the general public include:

- Reduced potential stigmatization of individuals wearing masks to prevent infecting others (source control) or of people caring for COVID-19 patients in non-clinical settings.
- Making people feel they can play a role in contributing to stopping spread of the virus.

- Reminding people to be compliant with other measures (e.g., hand hygiene, not touching nose and mouth). However, this can also have the reverse effect.
- Potential social and economic benefits. Amidst the global shortage of surgical masks and PPE, encouraging the public to create their own fabric masks may promote individual enterprise and community integration.
- Moreover, the production of non-medical masks may offer a source of income for those able to manufacture masks within their communities.
- Fabric masks can also be a form of cultural expression, encouraging public acceptance of protection measures in general.
- Evaluate the impact (positive, neutral or negative) of using masks in the general population (including behavioral and social sciences).

So there you go. It is all a big "social experiment" to see if they can get you to voluntarily comply, and has nothing to do with health. They actually admit this now, and do not even deny it.

But wait, it gets even better!

Doctors now encourage people to wear a mask when having sex! (You can't make this stuff up!!)

Top 10 commonsense reasons NOT to get vaccinated, ever, with any new shots, including a coronavirus vaccine

(Natural News) If your brain isn't already bogged and fogged by fluoridated water, mercury-laced flu shots, and clogged up with mind-numbing canola oil, then you may be able to think this one through before it's too late for you to. Today's vaccines are corrupted, untested and dangerous, and the vaccine industry is paying out billions of dollars to keep it all on the hush, hush.

You will never, ever see a case of the injured family on television or in any newspaper, talking about the nightmare of vaccine side effects, including autism, paralysis, coma and death. Here are the top 10 common sense reasons not to get vaccinated with anything, ever.

The real horror stories of today's vaccines and the top 10 reasons to avoid them

There are lots of reasons to avoid the Franken-science of vaccines, namely:

1. Most vaccines, including any COVID-19 one they may come out with in the next 18 months, are rushed to market with no safety trials and no proof of efficacy from independent labs. Only the vaccine manufacturer is allowed to "test" it so they can skew results to whatever end justifies their "success."
2. Nearly all vaccines carry more risk than benefit, because they contain highly dangerous adjuvants, toxic emulsifiers, deadly preservatives, and genetically modified live viruses and bacteria from other animals, including humans (abortions).
3. The COVID-19 virus has already mutated and morphed, and continues to do so, so even if a vaccine is created soon, it will be obsolete and useless, besides being dangerously rushed to market. It's completely unpredictable, and the truth is that the scientists know that.
4. The secretive vaccine "court" has settled with injured families for over $4 billion dollars (that's 4,000 million folks) for vaccines, mostly influenza jabs, that routinely and permanently maim, deform and kill babies, children, adults, and senior citizens alike. These real-life horror story cases, settlements and claims are NEVER published by mainstream media.
5. Autism rates have skyrocketed over the past two decades, and the former, senior lead scientist of the CDC, Dr. William Thompson, blew the whistle himself and confessed that the MMR vaccine causes autism, especially in black boys under the age of three. Think about that one for a minute.

6. Most vaccines contain random infected cells from other animals, including from human abortions, dogs, eagles, pigs, cows and monkeys.
7. Most vaccines contain aluminum, which catapults the harmful effects of toxic heavy metals, like mercury, making them more likely to cross your blood/brain barrier, causing brain damage and central nervous system disorders (the vaccine industry notoriously calls this "triggering immune response" but it's very dangerous).
8. For the first two weeks after getting a vaccine that contains a live virus, it is highly likely that you shed that disease and give it to those around you, so herd immunity is useless here and this is when the vaccine industry always unjustly blames those who don't vaccinate. It's called shedding (a.k.a. vaccine induced disease) and it's scientifically proven to happen.
9. New vaccines are expected to contain micro-chips (instead of serial numbers tattooed on your forearm) that embed under your skin to be used as tracers and trackers, and the ingredients to be released by Bill Gates' computer software. What could possibly go wrong? Infertility drugs, SSRIs, and high doses of mercury are just a few examples of secret ingredients you might discover too late.
10. With 5G networks bombarding humans with dirty electricity, pesticide-laden food being produced at an all-time high (think GMO and Roundup Ready crops), and with everybody suffering from lockdown syndrome (lowered immunity), any vaccine injections (cocktails of chemicals and live, unpredictable virus combinations) are just deadly accidents waiting to happen. Good luck with all of that.

If you don't want to be vaccinated with Bill Gates' untested, unsafe, micro-chipped COVID-19 vaccine, then you are branded "anti-science!"

The lead vaccine industry shill at the New York (Crimes) Times, Kevin "Health Noose" Roose, is strongly pushing for a coronavirus vaccine, without a shred of proof that any such vaccine is either safe or effective. Intelligent Americans who say no to being injected regularly with mercury, aluminum and live, attenuated viruses are not anti-science, or even anti-vax — they're just anti-stupidity.

No person in their right mind thinks it's smart to get injected with dirty vaccines just because the news cycle is blanketing the country with fear-mongering headlines every hour of the day. Many people who don't get vaccines are pro-vaccine and are very science-based folks, but know that the industry is actually the most corrupt industry on Earth right now, with no regard to safety and that cannot be sued in court.

Realize that what the vaccine industry calls "side effects" are not side effects at all, but really DIRECT EFFECTS from the vaccination. If you get punched in the face and your teeth get knocked out, that's not a side effect, that in fact, is a direct effect. Get it?

Bill Gates already admitted and bragged at a TED conference/seminar that if we do a "really good job" with vaccines, we can reduce the world's population by a few billion. Yeah, how's that working out for you, Bill?

CONFIRMED: Coronavirus vaccines will contain aborted human babies

Thursday, May 21, 2020 by: Ethan Huff

(Natural News) Pro-lifers everywhere had better think long and hard about what they plan to do in the event that state or local governments try to mandate vaccination for the Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) once a jab is commercially released because chances are those syringes will contain the remnants of aborted babies.

Even though President Trump has said that Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccines will not be mandated at the federal level, there is still the possibility that some states may try to force them locally, which will put not just those opposed to vaccination in a tough position but also those who recognize the sanctity of unborn human life.

After it was announced recently that Canada's largest federal research and development organization has teamed up with a Chinese vaccine company to test a new trial coronavirus vaccine in Canada, Dr. Alan Moy, M.D., founder and scientific director of the John Paul II Medical Research Institute and CEO of Cellular Engineering Technologies decided to do some digging, upon which he discovered that the test vaccine in question is made from aborted fetal cell lines.

CanSino Biologics Inc., also known as CanSinoBIO, is the name of the Chinese firm that partnered up with Canada's National Research Council (NRC) to conduct trials on Ad5-nCoV, as it is being called, which Dr. Moy found contains a cell line known as HEK293 that was derived from unborn children that were murdered while still inside their mothers' wombs.

"Since it's using an adenovirus replication-defective vector, it is using HEK293," Dr. Moy told LifeSiteNews. "HEK293 is an aborted fetal cell line."

What's worse, Ad5-nCoV probably won't even work

Besides its unethical origins, the Ad5-nCoV more than likely will not even work as promised, Dr. Moy warns. As it turns out, there is a high incidence of immunity against Ad5, so most of the people who are injected with it will confer no protection whatsoever against the Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19).

"I don't envy Canadians," Dr. Moy is further quoted as saying. "Your government and PM (prime minister) have mandated draconian policies that are anti-life ... Not a good vaccine solution if pro-life or pro-choice."

What is further confounding is the fact that Canada would even agree to contract with a vaccine company based out of China, which is where this whole crisis originated. Ad5-nCoV was reportedly also co-developed by the Beijing Institute of Biotechnology which, like all other Chinese institutions, is governed and controlled by the Chinese Communist Party (CCP).

This vaccine is said to be the first "phase 2" coronavirus vaccine, meaning it has been approved to be "safely" used in human test subjects. And the Canadian government could not be more excited about the prospect of injecting as many Canadians as possible with it to "cure" them of the Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19).

"NRC is proud of our ongoing partnership with CanSino Biologics," stated NRC President Iain Stewart in a recent press release.

Dr. Xuefeng Yu, chairman and CEO of CanSinoBIO, also stated in the same press release that his company has "strong connections to Canada" and is "proud to be building on past successes and continuing our ongoing partnership with the NRC to address health needs on a global scale."

Amazingly, both the NRC and CanSinoBIO are proud of their proprietary HEK293 aborted baby cell line, which they say will help "to advance a scale-up production process for the vaccine candidate." In other words, thanks to these aborted babies, Canada and China will be able to produce Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccines for mass distribution much faster than normal, paving the way for a global vaccination campaign unlike anything the world has ever seen.

Mandatory mask-wearing orders occurring in many regions worldwide have no scientific or medical basis in reality. Masks lower your immunity and do not protect you from viruses or disease.

- THE IMPLICATIONS:

The sinister mask-wearing agenda is indicative of the attempt to push humanity further along the path to transhumanism, merging man with machine.

Dehumanizing masks have sadly become a part of the new normal in many states and nations around the world. Many local and state governments are forcing people to wear them, and many businesses are dutifully toeing the official line and refusing entry to customers who don't wear them. Apart from the obvious truth that widespread mask usage has a deliberately dehumanizing effect (in line with the transhumanist synthetic agenda), many scientific studies show that masks serve no useful medical purpose for healthy people. Masks weaken you by causing hypercapnia (increased carbon dioxide) and hypoxia (decreased oxygen). They are designed for surgeons (so they don't accidentally transmit bodily fluids like saliva into a patient they are operating upon) or for sick people (so they don't infect others via large respiratory droplets). Scientifically speaking, they don't stop healthy people from getting infected! Below is the evidence showing this. This will leave you with the inescapable conclusion that these masks are not about protecting health – but rather about control, dehumanization and the destruction of health.

Masks Lead to Under-Oxygenation, a Forerunner to Fatigue, Weakness and Serious Diseases Like Cancer

It is a commonsense scientific fact that wearing a mask blocks your airways and therefore leads to both hypercapnia (an increase in and accumulation of carbon dioxide in the body from breathing in exhaled air) and hypoxia (a lack of oxygen in the tissues). Symptoms of hypercapnia include dizziness, drowsiness, excessive fatigue, headaches, feeling disoriented, flushing of the skin and shortness of breath. Symptoms of hypoxia include anxiety, restlessness, confusion, changes in the color of skin, cough, rapid breathing, shortness of breath and sweating. Not surprisingly, both conditions are similar, since they are both characterized by a lack of oxygen. In addition, hypoxia has been shown to lead to impaired immunity in general, and to be a forerunner to serious diseases such as atherosclerosis, stroke and heart attack. It is also the necessary precondition for the development of cancer (as I covered in my series on natural cancer cures). Dr. Russell Blaylock highlights how wearing a mask is actually putting you at more risk of infection, because you are lowering your overall health, strength and immunity by under-oxygenation:

“It is known that the N95 mask, if worn for hours, can reduce blood oxygenation as much as 20%, which can lead to a loss of consciousness, as happened to the hapless fellow driving around alone in his car wearing an N95 mask, causing him to pass out, and to crash his car and sustain injuries ... A more recent study involving 159 healthcare workers aged 21 to 35 years of age found that 81% developed headaches from wearing a face mask. Some had pre-existing headaches that were precipitated by the masks. All felt like the headaches affected their work performance.”

“The importance of these findings is that a drop in oxygen levels (hypoxia) is associated with an impairment in immunity. Studies have shown that hypoxia can inhibit the type of main immune cells used to fight viral infections called the CD4+ T-lymphocyte. This occurs because the hypoxia increases the level of a compound called hypoxia inducible factor-1 (HIF-1), which inhibits T-lymphocytes and stimulates a powerful immune inhibitor cell called the Tregs. This sets the stage for contracting any infection, including COVID-19 and making the consequences of that infection much graver. In essence, your mask may very well put you at an increased risk of infections and if so, having a much worse outcome.”

Blaylock also emphasizes how wearing masks is dangerous from a health perspective – it encourages the recycling (rather than the expulsion) of viruses and bacteria, some of which can enter the brain with potentially lethal consequences:

“It gets even more frightening. Newer evidence suggests that in some cases the virus can enter the brain. In most instances it enters the brain by way of the olfactory nerves (smell nerves), which connect directly with the area of the brain dealing with recent memory and memory consolidation. By wearing a mask, the exhaled viruses will not be able to escape and will concentrate in the nasal passages, enter the olfactory nerves and travel into the brain.”

And therefore I am your enemy, because I tell you the truth.

Exposing the evils of this world will make you an enemy of many professing Christians, because you are treading upon that which they truly love.

I'M PROUD TO BE WHITE

by Coach Dave Daubenmire

Please spare me the usual emails calling me a "racist." The white-guilt card will not work on me. I will not cower in the corner, I will not bow and lick your boots, and I will not take responsibility for anything my ancestors did. The Bible teaches us that.

Ezekiel 18:20—"The person who sins will die. The son will not bear the punishment for the father's iniquity, nor will the father bear the punishment for the son's iniquity; the righteousness of the righteous will be upon himself, and the wickedness of the wicked will be upon himself."

My father grew up poor. He was one of seven children raised in the hills of southern Ohio in what is now known as Appalachia. Because his father could not find employment in his hometown he was forced to travel nearly 100 miles to work each week and spend the time away from the family. My grandmother was essentially a single mother to seven kids while Grandpa Ed worked away from home. My great-grandfather George was a German immigrant who was born in 1863.

My mother's family wasn't much better. She was one of eight children and was also raised by a single mother because her husband left the family. Divorce was nearly unheard of in the 1930's so we were all taught that Mom and Dad Fisher, my grandparents, were separated. Neither one remarried. My Grandpa Fisher paid no child support. There was no welfare.

My mother often told the story of being "farmed out" during the summers. It seems things were so tight that my Mom's mom actually hired the kids out to local farmers as free labor in exchange for free room and board and a small weekly stipend to Mom Fisher. I guess you wouldn't technically call it slavery...but child labor laws would not permit it today.

My parents raised five children during the turbulent sixties. Mom was a housekeeper and my Dad was a factory worker. He worked double shifts at Kaiser Aluminum (16 hours) most of his life as he struggle to provide for the family. Mom drove him to work in the mornings so that she would have access to our only family car during the day. They put four of their five children through college; one brother chose not to go, without any help from the government.

I wore a lot of hand-me-downs from my brothers. I think we were lower middle class but we never knew it. Dad taught all of us to work hard and expect no special favors. Food stamps were not available back then but our father would never have taken a handout. They raised us in church. We knew right from wrong, although we often decided not to follow our consciences.

Mom and Dad fought a societal tsunami during the sixties. The culture was doing everything it could to undermine our upbringing. Sex, drugs, and rock and roll took a toll on some of my siblings. It was not an easy time to be a parent. They had a challenging time raising their own children.

Did I mention that my family had to overcome persecution as well? My father's mother was part of a little known group of Appalachian-Americans known as Melungons which was a group of mixed-blood hybrids. In addition, my father had the double-whammy of being raised Catholic when religious persecution against Catholics was real.

We grew up in a small town in Ohio. There were no Negroes in our town or in our school. Everything we learned about black people we learned from television. Nothing did more to foster stereotypes of Negroes than the images that played out on the boob tube. NO ONE I knew hated blacks.

The sixties was a time of great upheaval. Every vestige of Christian morality was under assault. From Little Richard, to Elvis, the Beatles to Richard Pryor the MEDIA programmed black stereotypes into American minds. I loved the Four Tops, the Supremes, the Temptations, and Marvin Gaye. I bought their records and sang their songs.

Racism is a made-up thing. I get sick of others impugning my motives simply because of the color of my skin. I'm proud of my heritage and proud of my parents. They had it rough. They stayed married. They took us to church and demanded we respect others. I rooted for blackmen like Jimmy Brown, Elston Howard, Willie Mays, and Oscar Robertson. The thought of hating someone for the color of their skin was unheard of in my little town.

I wonder what my Mom and Dad would say about America, today. They surely would shake their heads at the thought of white privilege and "institutional racism." I remember my Mom sobbing at the death of Dr. King and the government slaughter at Kent State. No one wanted to live in an America like that.

I write this today because I know this is how most Americans feel. The thought of white Americans being racist is bunk. Our government is corrupt. Our churches are divided. Our nation is morally bankrupt. The media drives the racist narrative as a means to divide and conquer. Satan is alive and well.

America is not a racist country. They use it as a weapon. I'm proud to be white. I'm proud of my heritage. I am proud of what my parents overcame. No amount of revisionist history will change the fact that life is a struggle for everyone. Poverty has no color. Neither do fidelity, honesty, compassion, and forgiveness. My parents stayed married for 60 years. They taught us the 10 Commandments. They expected us to follow them.

I had great parents who just happened to be white. Who you become is more determined by nurture than nature. Red or yellow black or white all are precious in His sight. Blacks aren't the only ones who have had to struggle.

I miss my parents. I wish I had the chance to tell them. I'm proud of who they were. I'm proud of what they overcame. They taught us to build things not tear them down. I'm sick of watching what they did be drug through the mud.

I'm proud to be white. I'll never feel guilty for that.

AMEN coach! Pastor Burch

IT'S OUR FAULT!

America was forged on the anvil of self government & self reliance not government dependence under the heavy hand of oppressive restrictions bearing NO resemblance to the limited government the founding fathers designed for our country.

The Declaration of Independence states our Creator grants humanity life, liberty & the pursuit of happiness none of which can be achieved while confined to quarters under virtual house arrest courtesy of control freak politicians/powers that be.

Lockdowns are what jailers do to prisoners not free citizenry. We the people are being conditioned & trained like Pavlov's dog to jump through our masters hoops with all these lame social distancing schemes being foisted upon US contrary to law.

We are being held hostage in our homes under siege by a medical dictatorship orchestrated by eugenics minded globalists who aim to reduce US to ashes. King George in all his despotism never sought to shut down commerce/society nor did the worst tyrants in history like Mao, Stalin etc. Ben Franklin lost a 4 year old child to smallpox which ravaged New England but the colonies were not shuttered during that outbreak nor should we be now. Quarantines are never to be perpetual & unending.

Aint it grand to be regarded as jail trustees in our own homes? Welcome to American version of French Revolution-anarchy as unfolding all across US currently courtesy of Soros & his hired hooligans of Marxist mob rule aka the whims of man as gods.

God grants liberty only to those willing to defend it & resist those who infringe upon it. We the people never ceded or delegated control or dominion over our lives & fortunes to any government as is being usurped now by petty potentates at all levels. It is not up to any public official to decide when or if to close down or reopen US as they have NO authority, power or right from God or our US Constitution to begin with. We the people are the masters of Congress & the courts not to overthrow the Constitution but to overthrow those who pervert the Constitution as is occurring routinely with these unjust executive orders. It is called consent of the governed in a nation by of & for the people & its up to all of US to rein in or remove these miscreant magistrates aka ministers of injustice contrary to Romans 13. Freedom is essential so lets not timidly allow this Corona coup to conquer US.

The mindless minions who follow unjust executive orders & treat them as divine decrees may as well believe or claim $2 + 2 = 5$ if the government stated such. If ignorance is bliss Americans aka the generally dumb public should be tickled pink now.

Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other. It follows that if we truly were such a people we would never allow or tolerate the political perfidy we are experiencing. James Madison, the primary author of the Constitution of United States said this: "We have staked the whole future of our new nation, not upon the power of government; far from it. We have staked the future of all our political constitutions upon the capacity of each of ourselves to govern ourselves according to the moral principles of the Ten Commandments." I wonder if all the valiant souls who fought & died for this nation would be willing to make that sacrifice again given what America has become today. The sorry state of our union hardly merits such or amounts to or qualifies as sound scriptural stewardship of the legacy of liberty we inherited from our forbears. We are not challenged to die for freedom now- our task today is to live for liberty instead. Enough of this corona crap with its resulting hysteria/paranoia & dancing to our would be masters tune like marionettes which amounts to national suicide. Such suckers we the sheeple are for succumbing to the snake oil being foisted upon US all now. Our nation is circling the drain due to the apathy & cowardice of its citizens. Hardly a virtuous legacy to leave to our posterity regrettably now. What is unfolding is blending of Brave New World & 1984. The solution to such is still 1776 or serfdom folks but there isn't sufficient intellectual honesty or moral courage left in America now to pursue such a perilous course regrettably.

 Time is running out for US & if we stay on our present course there is no future for US & that's a fact believe it or not its true.
 Solzhenitsyn in his epic warning to the west lamented the diminishing of courage as our greatest flaw/fault & more so today.
 The wicked shall be turned in to hell & the nations that forget God & the first to be so are the fearful Revelation 21:8 tells US.

A nation of sheep begets a government of wolves. The pathetic, pitiful protests occurring nationwide are missing a fundamental principle as they beg & grovel for government permission to exercise our God given rights to life & liberty which turns my stomach. We the people do not need permission to live our lives nor fulfill our duty & right to make a living in order to provide for our own as God requires. No one can take that away from US under the 5th amendment without due process of law to say the least folks. Is there any valid reason why America should fall to a virus with a 99% survival rate even if its being manipulated by malevolent plans of those with nefarious intent. It will only fall if we continue to nurture fear & refuse to stand against this stealthymalignancy eating away at the core of our freedoms & liberty. We cannot clone or reincarnate the founding fathers so we have to be replicas of them now in for our posterity. Guard with jealousy the public liberty & suspect everyone who approaches that jewel -Patrick Henry. I venture to say most Americans are in denial or cant handle the truth of our countries condition & are stuck in some form of Stockholm syndrome. Judging by the fearful demeanor of the so called body of Christ so prevalent today one would never know Jesus is the Great Physician or by His stripes we are healed(but not from Covid 19/Corona apparently). Americans today remind me of the Israelites in Old Testament who longed to return to subservience in Egypt under Pharoah instead of their promised land.

We are setting a dangerous precedent now for future similar medical outbreaks by our slavish submission to government control freaks aiming to make US all captives of unelected scientific & technological elites Eisenhower warned US of in his farewell address. How sly & shrewd they are to beguile US into prisons of our own making in our homes. So much for a mans home is his castle which has become our tower of London instead. This is a crucial test of our national character & resolve to defend liberty whatever the cost & we are failing it miserably so far by forsaking our birthright of freedom which plays right into the hands of the powers that be aka our domestic enemies desecrating our American halls of governance. Social distancing is but a clever ploy to divide & isolate US in order to conquer US without firing a shot as united we stand divided we fall. Where is Sam Adams & the Sons of Liberty when we need them? Time to alter/ abolish such a destructive form of government as exists now.

How dare these imperialistic infidels have the unmitigated gall to presume to open & close our country at their audacious whims? Kings do so not elected representatives/public servants or biblical ministers of justice. So my fellow American & brethren liberate yourselves now from the encroaching shackles now & go forth in from your humble abodes in utter defiance & in spite of our onerous oppressors & their unconstitutional & unjust shelter in place decrees & other social conditioning attempts & declare your independence or lie in the bed of bondage & tyranny of your own making which I for one will NOT repose therein. How gullible & naive of US to accept any government edict as the gospel truth & jumping through all their arbitrary hoops. I prefer dangerous freedom over peaceful slavery stated Thomas Jefferson & so do I. Like him I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind (& body)of man. So don't tread on me/US & sic semper tyrannis- thus always to tyrants.

FAITHISM IS WORSE THAN RACISM

by Coach Dave Daubenmire

I've about had it up to my once water-breathing gills with this whole whitey hates blackie thing. Coming on the heels of a made-up pandemic the idea that the greatest evil facing America is racism is more than my once-monkey evolved brain can handle.

"Minds full of mush" is what Rush Limbaugh once called them; Human brains that will believe just about anything that some expert feeds them. "Please don't feed the humans" should be the warning label on every TV in America.

Even though I would love to talk about the phony charges of racism that are spewed 24/7 on America's airwaves I have decided to take a different tack and discuss another means of discrimination that very few people are willing to talk about. In fact, the thoughts my hunt-and-peck digits are tapping out may cover an area of thought that no one has ever programmed you with.

I am referring to the very common form of discrimination known as FAITHISM.

"I've never heard of that before" your CNN wired cerebral cortex may be beeping. "What the heck is faithism? Anderson Cooper has never mentioned that before, and if I haven't heard of it from one of their expert guests so it certainly can't be real."

Well, racism isn't real either. It is a made up word. It was a condition created by the CIA in the early 1930's and was designed to be used to divide and conquer the American people. I won't go into details about it in this rant, but as the carnival barker would likely say "read all about it." RACISM IS MADE UP. Check out THIS LINK if you really want to know the truth.

Save me the emails. Racism is made up. It only exists in our minds...planted there by nefarious forces intent on destroying America. I'm sorry if Al Sharpton, Jesse Jackson, and Juan Williams have hustled your mind into believing it. There is only one race...human. Period. Skin color is not a race.

So I decided to coin a phrase that is just as prevalent and just as destructive to America and that is Faithism. Never heard of it, huh? Well, stick around and maybe we can get another group of Americans all riled up.

Faith is defined by Mr. Webster as "*Belief; the assent of the mind to the truth of what is declared by another, resting on his authority and veracity, without other evidence; the judgment that what another states or testifies is the truth."

Nearly everything you and I believe is based on faith. Any story you read about an historical figure is faith-based because you have no firsthand knowledge of the veracity of the information. I BELIEVE George Washington existed, but I can't actually prove it. I have to trust that the historical record is true. In all of my life's work I have never heard anyone tell me that they didn't "believe" in George Washington. Most of us simply trust the history books.

The same holds true for Darwinism. I never met the guy, but from what I understand he wrote a book about "The Origin of Species" and even though I am familiar with it I have never met anyone who can prove he wrote it or that the information he presents in it is true. I simply take it on faith that he existed and that his theories are true.

By the way...a theory is a theory because there is no proof. Darwin's theory is actually FAITH based because there were no eye-witnesses to verify what he postulates. Darwin's theory has less scientific PROOF than the THEORY expounded upon in the book of Genesis. Both theories are lacking PROOF and can only be believed through FAITH.

FAITHISM is nothing more than the discrimination of one belief system over another based solely on the opinion of the one promoting the theory. Zoo keepers often have faith in Darwin and his acolytes while most Christians have faith in God and his evangelists.

A fair evaluation of the origin of man would certainly contain BOTH unproven theories. To choose one set of theories over another would be the ultimate discrimination. Despite what you have been taught in government schools, discrimination is a good thing. To discriminate is defined as "the act of making or observing a difference." It has nothing to do with the buzz word "racism."

But the nub of the issue is that both sides are not presented. "Science" always trumps "faith" when dealing in the secular world. "Religious" beliefs are always pooh poohed in favor of "science" even though much of what we believe about science is based completely on faith.

Racism is defined as prejudice, discrimination, or antagonism directed against someone of a different race based on the belief that one's own race is superior. Even racism is built upon a BELIEF and not a fact.

FAITHISM would be defined as "prejudice, discrimination, or antagonism directed against someone of a different worldview based on the belief that one's own belief system is superior."

Faithism is rampant in our society. Those in authority do not allow both systems of BELIEFS to be treated fairly. The theory of Darwin is presented freely and openly to America's public school children while the theory of Creationism is forced to the back of the bus. Faithism is everywhere you look and there has been nothing as destructive to our American society as the second class treatment afforded Americans who put their faith in the God rather than in Darwin.

"People of faith" are the most discriminated against citizens in this country. Most of our problems would go away if we simply taught ALL children the 10 Commandments of God.

Our schools teach our children that they evolved from apes and we are shocked when they begin to act like monkeys. Amoral education leads to immoral behavior. Christian beliefs are given second class treatment in this nation.

America's Christian history is being rewritten. Statues are being torn down. Faithism is worse than racism. Content of character is more important than skin color.

Did you know

As incredible as it sounds, men and women took baths only twice a year (May and October) Women kept their hair covered, while men shaved their heads (because of lice and bugs) and wore wigs. Wealthy men could afford good wigs made from wool. They couldn't wash the wigs, so to clean them they would carve out a loaf of bread, put the wig in the shell, and bake it for 30 minutes.. The heat would make the wig big and fluffy, hence the term 'big wig...' Today we often use the term 'here comes the Big Wig' because someone appears to be or is powerful and wealthy.

US In Moral Freefall As Everyone Does What Is Right In Their Own Eyes

In those days Israel had no king; all the people did whatever seemed right in their own eyes. Judges 21:25

"The consequences of rejecting God's truth are undeniable. We know that what we believe dictates how we behave. Today, we are seeing the moral breakdown permeating the culture around us, and it is playing out with devastating consequences in our culture".

This was the conclusion of Len Munsil, President of the Cultural Research Center at Arizona Christian University who conducted a new poll in association with the Barna Group. The poll revealed 58 percent of respondents said they look to themselves or other people when making moral decisions. Less than one third said that they look to the Bible.

The Center surveyed 2,000 adults at random in January, long before the impact of the Coronavirus and rioting across the country. The American Worldview Inventory study, interviewed all ages, ethnicities, beliefs and political persuasions on the telephone or online.

A total of 58 percent of U.S. adults agreed that "identifying moral truth is up to each individual; there are no moral absolutes that apply to everyone, all the time," according to the survey.

Sadly, 48 percent of adults who identified as born-again Christians agreed with the statement.

The Cultural Research Center also found that the type of church the person attends often corresponded with their answer.

"The adults most likely to rely upon a religious resource -- usually the Bible -- were those aligned with either an evangelical church (58%) or Pentecostal church (62%)," the report states. "People associated with a mainline Protestant congregation were most likely to rely upon themselves for moral wisdom (34%). Catholics were most likely to turn to other people (34%)."

Evangelical church attendees (72 percent), Pentecostal church attendees (70 percent) and born-again Christians (69 percent) were among the most likely to say God is the basis of truth.

Political conservatives were also most likely to rely upon the Bible (40%), while moderates (17%) and liberals (11%) were least likely, instead relying on their own feelings, beliefs, and knowledge for moral direction.

Perhaps most troubling, the findings regarding the moral views of the youngest generation indicate this downward moral trajectory is likely to continue. Americans age 18 to 29 are least likely--only 15%--to turn to the Bible for moral guidance and instead look to themselves (29%) or to family (25%).

This compares with about one-quarter of older Americans, including 23% of those ages 30 to 49, 25% of those 50 to 64, and 26% of those over 64.

Even though young people reject the Bible as a source of moral guidance, hidden within the study's findings may be some encouraging news. As Munsil explained. "A sizeable percentage of young people still look to their family for moral guidance. It's important for parents and other family members to look for opportunities to share moral truth because the next generation wants to hear from them."

Dr. George Barna said that he was not surprised at the results of the survey as he has observed America's departure from its moorings for decades.

"The percentage of adults with a biblical worldview has been sliced in half since 1995," he remarked in a statement. "As Americans embrace the consequences of unrestrained moral choices, we will see further rejections of traditional marriage, conventional child-rearing practices and objectives, millions more abortions, excessive substance abuse, and wider acceptance of suicide, polygamy, sexual perversion, and religious persecution."

"Any society that substitutes humanity's latest and greatest ideas for God's truth and authority is on the fast track to ruin," Barna warned.

He said that much of the responsibility to change the trajectory of the nation lies in the hands of the Church and the family unit.

"The restoration of biblical truth can facilitate the turnaround of a declining society," Barna stated. "It starts with churches relentlessly and consistently teaching biblical truth principles for practical application within all dimensions of life. It requires churches equipping parents to teach those truth principles to their children."

"It demands parents placing their young people in educational, relational, and entertainment environments where God's truth principles are respected and practiced," he continued. "It advances by electing public officials who pass civil laws in harmony with God's religious Law."

"Restoring our foundations will be neither easy nor quick, but such a turnaround can happen if a remnant of God's people devotes themselves to such a process of cultural deliverance."

Ord you know?

In the late 1700's, many houses consisted of a large room with only one chair. Commonly, a long wide board folded down from the wall, and was used for dining. The 'head of the household' always sat in the chair while everyone else ate sitting on the floor. Occasionally a guest, who was usually a man, would be invited to sit in this chair during a meal.. To sit in the chair meant you were important and in charge. They called the one sitting in the chair the 'chair man.' Today in business, we use the expression or title 'Chairman' or 'Chairman of the Board.'

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE NEW KING JAMES?

by David W. Daniels

Question: What is wrong with the New King James Version (NKJV)? All it does is modernize the words of the King James Bible, right? Why should I read the King James and not the helpful New King James?

Answer: The New King James is not a King James Bible. It changed thousands of words, ruined valuable verses, and when not agreeing with the King James Bible, it has instead copied the perverted NIV, NASV or RSV. And this you must know: those who translated the NKJV did not believe God perfectly preserved His words!

I have gotten more letters on this question than almost any other. This is very important to those who want God's truth in the English language. I myself used the NKJV for a decade before I learned the truth about the preserved words of God. Here is some of what convinced me to switch to the King James Bible from the "New King James."

1. Changed Words Means Changed Meanings

We know that Bible versions disagree on how to translate certain words. Here is an example: Is Jesus God's "Son" or God's "servant"? In Acts 3:26, the NKJV calls Jesus God's "Servant." The KJV correctly calls Him God's "Son." These are not the same by any stretch of the imagination. Which one is He? If He is God's servant, so are you and I. If He is God's Son, then we all need to listen to what He said, because He is God! Changed words like this make a great deal of difference in how we understand a passage.

Please decide what God is saying to Moses:

"And the LORD said to Moses, "How long do you refuse to keep My commandments and My laws?" (Exodus 16:28, NKJV)

It looks like God is saying, "Moses, you are continuing to refuse to keep My commandments and My laws." But look carefully at the accurate King James:

"And the LORD said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?"

Now we understand! It was the people, not Moses, that God was upset with. "Ye" and "you" mean more than one person. "Thee," "thou," "thy,"

"thine," "doeth," "hast," etc., only mean one person. How do we know? The "y" is plural. The "t" is singular. Isn't that easy? Now you know what Jesus meant when He said to Nicodemus, "Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again" (John 3:7).

What Jesus said was, "Nicodemus, marvel not that I said unto thee, all of you need to be born again." This is very important. Not only Nicodemus needed to be saved. But everybody, including him, needed to be born again. That's why Jesus used the plural.

But there is more of a problem than the thousands of times "thee" and "thou" are removed from God's words. What does a word mean? This is very important, as you shall see.

1. Go to Gehenna?

The NKJV claims to be "more accurate" because it leaves untranslated words like "Gehenna," "Hades" and "Sheol." What do they mean? You will know from the King James the exact meaning: "hell." We know what that means. Meaning is very important. When's the last time you heard someone told to "Go to Gehenna"?

2. Which is correct?

The NKJV consistently uses terms that don't mean the same as in the King James Bible. Here are some examples:

	King James Version	New King James Version
2 Corinthians 2:17	"For we are not as many which corrupt the word of God"	" peddling the word of God" (like the NIV, NASV and RSV)
Titus 3:10	"A man that is an heretick after the first and second admonition reject"	"Reject a divisive man " (like the NIV)
1 Thessalonians 5:22	"Abstain from all appearance of evil."	"Abstain from every form of evil." (like the NAS, RSV and ASV)
Isaiah 66:5	"Hear the word of the LORD, ye that tremble at his word; Your brethren that hated you, that cast you out for my name's sake, said, Let the LORD be glorified: but he shall appear to your joy , and they shall be ashamed." [This means that the LORD shall appear, which shall occur at the Second Coming of Christ.]	"Hear the word of the LORD, you who tremble at His word: "Your brethren who hated you, who cast you out for My name's sake, said, 'Let the LORD be glorified, that we may see your joy. ' But they shall be ashamed." (Like the NIV, NASV, RSV and ASV, the Second Coming is wholly omitted from this scripture.)

Both translations cannot be correct. If one is right, the other has to be wrong. No matter how you slice it, the NKJV does not have the same meaning as the accurate King James Bible.

2. Changed Affections

There is a lot of evidence that the translators and publishers did not believe God preserved His words.

3. Thomas Nelson Publishers

The NKJV was translated and is printed under the watchful eye of Thomas Nelson Publishers. Here is part of a timeline they published.

Nelson initiates the creation of a new Bible translation--The New King James Version.

1980's

Nelson reclaims its place as a premier publisher of Bibles and Christian Books, expands into international markets, and establishes Markings® as Nelson's Gift division.

It is clear the NKJV made Thomas Nelson Publishers a lot of money. Did a King James-type Bible renew their hearts to God? Note the following facts:

- They are also the publishers of the American Standard Version, the American revision of Westcott and Hort's perverted English Revised Version.
- They are also the publishers of the Revised Standard Version, the revision of the American Standard.
- To this day they continue to sell at least six Bible perversions. The NKJV was just one moneymaker that helped Nelson "reclaim its place" as a major publisher.
- The NKJV repeats the lie that "There is only one basic New Testament used by Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Orthodox, by conservatives and liberals." In fact, there are two: the perverted Alexandrian line that was continued by the Roman Catholic religion and the preserved, apostolic, Antiochian line that progresses from the Christians at Antioch of Syria (Acts 11:26) to our precious King James Bible.

4. The New King James translators

Marion H. Reynolds Jr. of the Fundamental Evangelistic Association reveals a little-known fact:

"The duplicity of the NKJV scholars is also a matter for concern. Although each scholar was asked to subscribe to a statement confirming his belief in the plenary, divine, verbal inspiration of the original autographs (none of which exist today), the question of whether or not they also believed in the divine preservation of the divinely inspired originals was not an issue as it should have been. Dr. Arthur Farstad, chairman of the NKJV Executive Review Committee which had the responsibility of final text approval, stated that this committee was about equally divided as to which was the better Greek New Testament text—the Textus Receptus or the Westcott-Hort. Apparently none of them believed that either text was the Divinely preserved Word of God. Yet, all of them participated in a project to "protect and preserve the purity and accuracy" of the original KJV based on the TR. Is not this duplicity of the worst kind, coming from supposedly evangelical scholars?"

Not "the real thing"

What Mr. Reynolds points out is very important to understand. There were basically two groups of translators working on the NKJV. One half believed that the perverted 45 Alexandrian manuscripts, from which came the Roman Catholic Bibles and the modern perversions, were better than the manuscripts behind the King James. The other group believed the thousands of manuscripts supporting the King James were better. This is a big problem: No one believed that they held God's words in their hands, only a "better" or "worse" text! The translators believed they had something close, but not an accurate Bible. It is a sad thing when a Bible translator doesn't even believe he has God's words in his hands. It sounds like they don't believe God kept His promise:

Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.
(Mark 13:31)

Perhaps that is why some of them had no problem working on other perversions, both before and after working on the NKJV. This is so unlike the 54+ Bible men who faithfully translated the King James Bible from preserved manuscripts of God's words. The difference between the King James and the "New" King James is the difference between day and night.

Compromising God's Words

Many Christians are discovering the miracle of God's words in English. But the enemy has tried to insert a monkey-wrench: the NKJV. Pastors approve it, "scholars" promote it, but the NKJV is a wolf in sheep's clothing. The New King James is just a compromise between the liberal, perverted Bible versions floating around and the rock-solid, accurate and preserved words of God, the King James Bible.

Brothers and sisters, don't settle for anything less than God's words.

Coach's Weekly Word

STUCK ON STUPID

by Coach Dave Daubenmire

Stupid –Very dull; insensible; senseless; wanting in understanding; heavy; sluggish.

Nothing is as dangerous as stupidity. It is worse than malice. Stupidity is a choice. Malice is inherent.

Every day as I adventure outside my humble abode I am immediately struck by the amount of stupidity that I run into. It is almost as if we are stupid on purpose.

Stupid comes from the root word stupor, which is defined as “Intellectual insensibility; moral stupidity; heedlessness or inattention to ones interests.” Does “drunken stupor” paint a picture?

That, my friends, is descriptive of the average modern American High School graduate. Some college graduates are even worse. It is almost as if the higher up the educational ladder one crawls the more stupid he/she becomes.

I had a conversation the other day with a recent Law School graduate, a once brilliant, quick witted guy, and at the conclusion of the conversation I asked him;

“What happened to you? You used to be really smart. Now you are acting stupid...saying stupid things...ignoring the obvious...who made you so dumb?”

Where did you lose your ability to think clearly?"

That is the purpose of higher education, law school especially. It is designed to make you question EVERYTHING...especially the obvious. Does anyone remember the OJ trial...where most of America sat glued to the boob tube while Johnny Cochran did his best to convince us that the obvious was not really so obvious. You remember...if it doesn't fit you must acquit. Johnny's job was not to get to the truth. His job was to get you to question the truth.

My buddy Mark likes to say, "Americans are stuck on stupid." Permit me to produce some evidence for you.

Walk into any high school in America and start a discussion as to whether or not Bruce Jenner is a man or a woman. You are guaranteed to leave the classroom with your head spinning as those soon-heading-to-college skulls full of mush deny DNA evidence and build their argument around "feelings."

Try talking to the average "Joe" on the streets about abortion. No matter how much evidence you produce regarding the FACT that a baby is fully human at the moment of conception you will find yourself in an ancillary debate on whether or not a woman has a "right" to kill her unborn offspring.

The Left loves to use the term "unsettled science" as if science sometimes is inaccurate even though they will never apply such scrutiny to evolution, or "climate change" (as if the climate isn't constantly changing.)

Our education system is designed to make us more stupid through miss education. Fake information. Fake science. Fake experts. Fake facts. Fake diplomas. In fact, parents pay hefty amounts of money to send their children to university where the "dumbing up" becomes even worse.

Hey folks. MASKS DON'T WORK. Watch this. Millions of Americans are wearing them despite the science. You can't argue with stupid.

Just spend 15 minutes watching any "news" program and the "experts" will have you walking in an "educational stupor" before the first commercial break. Joe Friday's lament "just the facts" has been changed to "hide the facts" in today's rapidly stupidification of America where emotions and feeling rule the day. I guess the Bible calls us sheep for a reason.

But this whole pandemic has taken American stupidity to a whole new level. I am sorry if what I am about to say hurts your feelings, but the truth is, the biggest hoax in American history has just been perpetrated on America. The deception is so bad that it has infected the elderly the worst. If our Senior citizens have lost their ability to reason we have to wonder if there is any hope for America.

Our entire country has been locked down by a cadre of "experts" who, no doubt, have PhD's from some glamorous university somewhere in the halls of Holy Academia.

"Trust us", they say. "We have the propagandized data to prove that we are right." So we trust them. Day after day, hour after hour, the talking heads spew fear and calamity and the next thing you know you watch your neighbor leave his house, wearing a mask as he takes his two dogs for a walk in the bright sun shine.

The only bright light in this whole staged action movie is the fact that, hopefully, America will never be "normal" again.

America is sick. America hasn't been normal for quite some time. Perhaps the "new normal" can be an America where the masses aren't controlled by the hand-picked "experts" who are given a platform to advance an agenda that has brought us to the precipice of insanity.

How did we ever reach the point in this nation where seemingly "normal" people wear a mask, pray for the day where they can take a government-mandated injection, willingly go broke, and dutifully close down our houses of prayer? What caused Americans to be so stupid that they would permit the "experts" the "right" to ruin their lives as they claimed to be saving their lives? This is the same batch of egg-heads that say an unborn baby isn't human, and that there is a spectrum of sexual behaviors - that are patently abnormal.

Stupid is more dangerous than malice. Stupidity is a choice. It involves rejecting the obvious. A stupid person reaches a decision by ignoring the facts.

Will America ever be sane again? Not as long as we are stuck on stupid.

Abortion Protestors Take To The Streets

POSTED BY: DAVID BELL MAY 27, 2020

SAFFORD —While many celebrated Memorial Day weekend by barbecuing in the backyard, camping on Mount Graham or spending time with family, Gary Roby and others who support the group Created Equal posted placards along U.S. Highway 70 in front of Firth Park and the Graham County Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, calling for an end to abortion in America.

“I don’t want anybody in these three communities — Pima, Safford, Thatcher — not to know what abortion truly is. It is the slaughtering or the dismembering of a child who is created in the image of God,” Roby said.

Roby said it was the 13th month he and his fellow supporters have set up their signs in the Gila Valley.

“Some people will stop and thank us for what we’re doing; some people will go by and give us this (a rude gesture). We get quite a bit of that,” he said.

Created Equal is based out of Columbus, Ohio, and typically focuses its message on college campuses. It was founded in 2011 by Mark Harrington, who previously served as the president of the Pro-Life Institute and, before that, as the executive director for the Midwest branch of the Center for Bio-Ethical Reform.

A girl goes to a restaurant, buys a coffee and sits down to drink it. She looks on the side of her cup and finds a peel off prize. She pulls off the tab and yells, "I WON! I WON! I WON a motor home, I WON a motor home!"

The waitress runs over and says, "That's impossible. The biggest prize given away was a mini van!"

The not very intelligent young lady replies, "No. I WON A motor home, I WON a motor home!"

By this time the manager makes his way over to the table and says, "You couldn't possibly have won a motor homes because we didn't have that as a prize!"

Again the not very intelligent young lady says, "No, no mistake. I WON a motor home, I WON a motor home!" The not very intelligent young lady hands the prize ticket to the manager and outrage—bogus divine retribution! Staged world wide! Hang on—it's coming. And yet, most people living in our world today have not the vaguest idea that shattering changes are about to take place that will disrupt every individual on planet earth. This is a very rare book—but its message is explicitly clear. It lays bare a bold design for world domination. It's about an alliance of extraordinary men. Brilliant men working secretly behind unsuspected covers. Patient men passing on their envisioned goal from one generation to another. This book ferrets out history that begs to be left unknown.

These men represent the world's largest organization whose very name means global. They have an Occult agenda and an Occult timetable for launching their world chaos. Decipher their Occult symbols on the back of every American one dollar bill and within the city of Washington D.C. and you'll find the clue. This book uncovers it all.

However, the Sovereign God of the universe millenniums ago revealed to His people the two Occult powers that would unite for final world control. Then will “begin” the greatest sorrows ever visited upon our blood stained earth. But take heart my friend, and stand firm for God's sacred truth. For it also “signals” the imminent return of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ who will vanquish His enemies and vindicate those He loves.

This thought and hope brings joy to the hearts of those who are waiting and “love His appearing”, and will sustain them through the bitter days ahead. The solemn mission of this book is to remove the deceptive smokescreen and expose Satan's masterpiece on earth so that you may turn tragedy into triumph and rise to meet the Lord in the air when He returns.

These are books everyone should have!

Secret Door to Understand Bible Prophecy

By Stan Johnson

In 2017, Stan memorized the Book of Revelation. He received 30 revelations, two visions, and an audible voice. God showed him the word "Firstfruits" is a secret door linking the Feasts of Leviticus to the prophecies of Revelation.

When linked for the first time the end time prophecies of Revelation can be placed in correct chronological order.

The back flap of the Secret Door to Understand Bible Prophecy is two large charts putting the events of Revelation in proper order.

One prophetic word said, "There is a lock that I have put over a word in the Book of Revelation that I am going to open unto you. It will turn so many books written on the end time message into obsolete books." That is this book.

Tribulation Secrets in Daniel

by Stan Johnson

The Book of Daniel is the most difficult book in the Bible to understand. This book gives the last generation a simple explanation of the parts of Daniel which relate to the Tribulation. Pure and simple it makes Daniel easy to understand. Daniel exposes the plans of Antichrist. How to spot the Antichrist early and what to do, his physical appearance, the sound of his voice, and how he rises to power. The Beast will be a resurrected Nebuchadnezzar from the bottomless pit. It explains the seven final world governments.

God's Warnings to America

In many of the broadcasts I refer to a list of dreams, visions and audible voices I believe are from God given to Dumitru Duduman, Michael Boldea, Leslie Johnson, Henry Gruver, Shane Warren, Terry Bennett, Maurice Sklar, Augusto Perez, Doug Metzger, Bree Keyton and more.

You can now have your own copy which will be priceless as we go into the Tribulation.

Miss the Mark: Don't Take The Mark Of The Beast!

What if you had to tell a person the most important thing in the world, but you knew they wouldn't believe you? What would you do?

The most important thing TO DO is receive Jesus. The most important thing NOT TO DO is take the Mark of the Beast!

Because those taking the Mark do not get soul-death but eternal torment in hell. Revelation 14:9-11, 20:10

After Jesus has returned and all of time has been concluded. Throughout all human history there are only three groups of people.

1. Those IN the Book of Life who live forever.
2. Those NOT in the Book of Life who are tossed into the lake of fire which is body and soul death. [OBA 1:16]
3. Those people who worship the Beast, his image, receive his Mark or the NUMBER of his NAME! They are tossed into the lake of fire Brimstone tormented day and night forever without soul-death.

If you take the Mark of the Beast you can cut your hand off, chisel it off your forehead, but you will not go to heaven.

How do you talk to people about the Mark of the Beast?

Give them Miss the Mark. If they read this they will NEVER take the Mark of the Beast!
