August 2024

Greetings!

It seriously is hard to believe, but another month has slipped by us. James 4:14 certainly speaks the truth. Life does appear and disappear like a vapour.

To say that 2024 has been an interesting, and somewhat chaotic, year would certainly be a true statement. In my opinion, the “best/worst” is yet to come. It would take someone with no discernment at all to not see that the whole world is not being set up for a fall. America, to say the least, has never been in such distress and turmoil. At least since the War of Northern Aggression, as Dumitru Duduman foretold with his prophecies on America. We will be “lead” into another civil war!

Folks, I personally think that it wouldn't take much of a spark to ignite our nation's powder keg! To say that our society is torn by many factions would be a gross understatement. With what has happened already on the political front, God only knows what could happen between now and November.

As truly born again believers in Jesus Christ, we must get very serious about seeking His wisdom and guidance! We must seek His will and ask Him to give us divine discernment in being able to detect satan's snares and devices.

Thank you so much for your prayers and support of CTDM. Please take time to read the flyer in this month's magazine concerning the “Natural Family Celebration” we will be holding on August 31st. All the information is on the flyer. If you can at all, please come and join us. We need to assemble together more than ever.

God bless you all!

In Chris's service,
Pastor Butch Paugh

We Are Created in His Image

Dearest Members,

I believe that we are created in God's image. The more I study the human body and the more I am in awe. Did you know that 95% of the human body renews itself within 1 year, 100 % within 2 years? You actually make a new brain, a heart , new eyes, a new body!

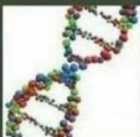

This fascinating fact is not something they typically teach in medical school. Instead, disease states are emphasized with tragic case scenarios. We study what is wrong in the body instead of what is right.

Wouldn't it be such an uplifting experience if our education emphasized the amazing ways our body heals instead of disease states? We could begin to see and contemplate ways of assisting the body in healing, instead of approaching our symptoms with fear and dread. Each one of us would start to think through the messages our body is sending us and the solutions would come naturally.

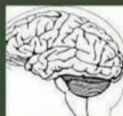

HOW YOUR BODY REBUILDS ITSELF IN LESS THAN 365 DAYS

FACT: Your entire body totally rebuilds itself in less than 2 years, and 98% in less than 365 days. Every cell in your body eventually dies and is replaced by new cells. Every day is a new opportunity to build a new body.

DNA:
Your DNA renews itself every 2 months.

BRAIN:
Your brain rebuilds itself in 1 year.

SKIN:
Your skin rebuilds itself in 1 month.

LIVER:
Your liver rebuilds itself in 6 weeks.

BLOOD:
Your blood renews itself in 4 months.

STOMACH:
The lining in your stomach rebuilds itself in 5 days.

BONES:
Your body builds a whole new skeleton in 3 months.

I am grateful for my osteopathic education. We have the same education as allopathic physicians, except our philosophy is different. We believe that the mind, body, and spirit are all equally important and interconnected for health. Along with this principle I also believe in God's word, and that He created us in His image. Our bodies are made wonderfully and fearfully. I believe that the body has the inherent ability to heal itself, and that medicines and surgery should be the last option. We believe that structure and function are reciprocal. For example, a spine that is out of alignment (scoliosis) will lead to impaired function of the body. Correcting the structure, in this case alignment of the spine, can improve the function of the body. Someone can feel improvement of pain and better mobility, or perhaps improvement of the internal organs associated with the region, such as better digestion or kidney function.

Osteopaths also get training in manipulation, similar to chiropractics. Unfortunately most do not use this skill set after graduation as the current pressures of the medical system make it difficult to pursue. For me, the training was excellent in fine tuning my ability to diagnose with my hands.

As I put my hand on someone to diagnose them, I feel the temperature changes and that clues me to the circulation of the body as well as sites of inflammation. I always feel the radial artery in the wrist. I pay attention to the strength, duration, quality, intensity, frequency of the pulse which tells me the overall current state of the internal organs. From there the skin elasticity is felt as the layers of epidermis, dermis, subcutaneous fat, fascia, muscle, and even bone can be palpated through skilled hands. With more focus and stillness, a rhythm in the body is felt. Osteopaths call it the cranial rhythm although scientifically it has not been fully understood.

Many of my patients were amazed at my ability to predict their blood results simply by my hands on evaluation. I explained to each of them that they could do the same if they practiced as well. To begin with, the body should be the same temperature everywhere. Take your open hand with the palm facing body and slide over different areas. See if you feel an area that is “hotter” than another. If you do, there is a good chance that there is inflammation in that area. Now what organ is underneath that area?

For example, many people have increased heat in the right upper quadrant in the front of their abdomen. Looking at a picture of human anatomy, you will see that the liver and gallbladder are in that region. This would make one suspect that the liver and/or gallbladder is inflamed.

Inflammation in these organs can be caused by toxins or poisons. The liver cleanses your blood and . Too many poisons can overwhelm this organ and cause inflammation. Sometimes the inflammation can cause fat cells to be deposited in and around the liver in an attempt to protect it from more damage. Too many fat cells in the liver then you may be diagnosed with fatty liver. One function of fat cells is storing toxins for us until we are able to process them.

I would think of all the possible toxins in one’s lifestyle. Alcohol, prescription medicines, over the counter medicines, cleaning supplies, work related toxin exposure, ground contamination where you live, sick building syndrome (mold), processed food, heavy metal toxins(amalgam fillings and vaccines are big contributors), public water, etc. Sometimes an infection can cause the inflammation, such as parasites, bacteria, fungus, or amoeba.

Make changes to stop or reduce the toxin exposure. Think of ways to assist your body in clearing out toxins. Some ways to detox the liver include herbal supplements, tinctures and teas.

Milk thistle is excellent for liver health. I had many patients improve their AST and ALT (liver enzymes) and reduce jaundice simply by adding this herb as a supplement.

Another way to improved liver and digestive health is through castor oil packs. These improve lymphatic flow in the body, help assimilation and elimination In the the area as well.

There are many ways we can heal ourselves, but first we have to know who and what we are. I believe that we are made in God’s image; therefore through Him all things are possible!

- Believe and have faith in being a son or daughter of the true living God. Miracles are real, and you have the ability to heal. Our thoughts are powerful, so use your words wisely. If you think you will be sick, then you will likely be sick. If you think you will be healthy, then you will likely be healthy.
- Your body is a temple, so treat it as such. Invest in healthy, locally grown, nonGMO foods. Exercise, take time to rest and enjoy meals with family and friends. Invest in your health and not material things; most people take better care of their car or house instead of the body God gifted them.
- Begin to learn how your body CAN HEAL instead of the fear of what could happen. Let’s begin a journey together to learn about how wonderfully and fearfully you are made in His Image! Tune in August 20th for Tuesday Tribe Talk at 7pm EDT where I will go over common physical signs for dis-ease in the human body and what to do about them.

With the greatest of love and many blessings,

Dr Carrie Madej

Turbo Colon Cancer Surges 500% Among Covid-Vaxxed

Frank Bergman July

Doctors have issued an urgent warning after a bombshell study revealed that rapidly developing “turbo” cases of colon cancer are skyrocketing among those who have been injected with Covid mRNA shots.

The study, published in the renowned Cureus Journal, found that one form of colon cancer surged by 500% in Covid-vaxxed individuals.

The researchers revealed that the sixfold spike in colon cancer was caused by the mRNA injections.

In the “Introduction” section of the study’s paper, the researchers explain:

“Microsatellite instable (deficient mismatch repair, dMMR) colon cancer is associated with hypermutability and immune infiltration-activation.

Dr. Peter McCullough, one of America’s leading cardiologists, broke down the findings in a post on X.

“Pfizer vaccination conferred sixfold increased risk,” McCullough said regarding the study’s findings.

The researchers detailed how Covid mRNA shots trigger cancers due to their impact on the immune system.

This “infiltration” of the body’s immune system is linked to the onset of this type of colon cancer and is responsible for the surge in cases, the study explains.

In the “Conclusion” section of the paper, the researchers state:

“Immune infiltration in dMMR colon cancer may interact with COVID-19 vaccine-induced immune activation.”

The researchers analyzed vaccinated and non-vaccinated cancer patients and compared the results.

In the “Methods” section, they explain:

“The study was a single-center case-control study.

“Patients diagnosed with colon cancer at least three months after the last COVID-19 vaccine (BNT162b2, CoronaVac) dose were included.

“Patients with dMMR and microsatellite stable (MSS) tumors were defined as cases and controls, respectively, between June 2021 and June 2023.

“Baseline characteristics and vaccine status between case-control groups were compared as univariable and multivariable.

“Inflammation markers were compared between MSS+CoronaVac and dMMR+BNT162b2 groups.”

After analyzing the paper, Dr. McCullough discussed the study’s findings on his Substack.

“Exposure to the Pfizer mRNA COVID-19 vaccine was associated with a > 6-fold increased risk for this form of cancer,” McCullough wrote.

“Because the Spike protein is believed to impair tumor surveillance systems, among several cancer-promoting mechanisms, it is plausible that these cancerous cells are allowed to proliferate among the vaccinated where the cancer was not yet detectable at the time of injection.”

The findings of the study come as a growing number of medical professionals and researchers continue to raise the alarm over the links between turbo cancers and Covid mRNA injections.

Just last week, an emergency room doctor revealed that he has seen a staggering increase in the number of cancer diagnoses among the Covid-vaxxed.

Dr. Ben Marble has seen various forms of cancer skyrocket in his medical practice.

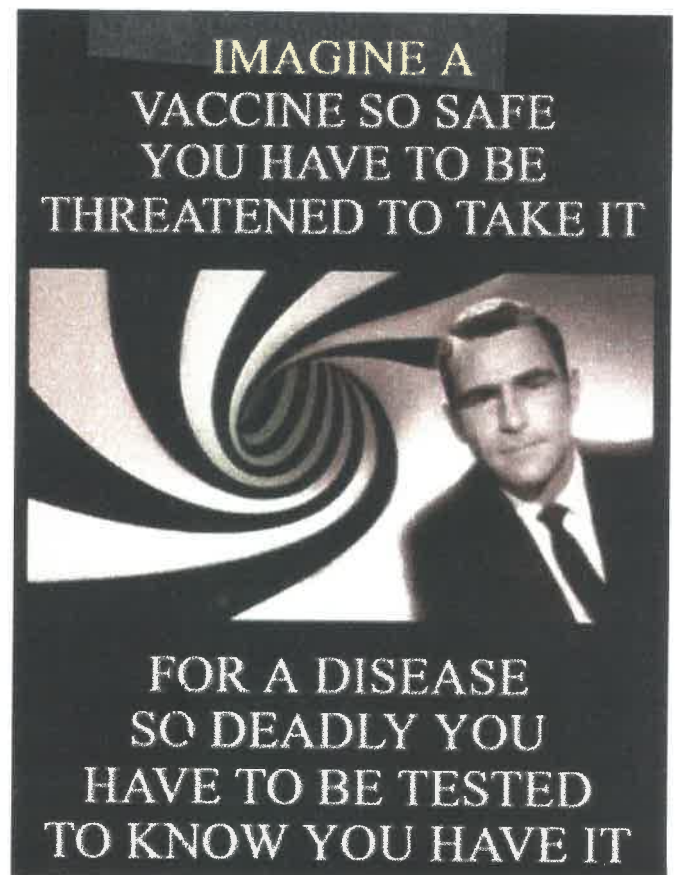

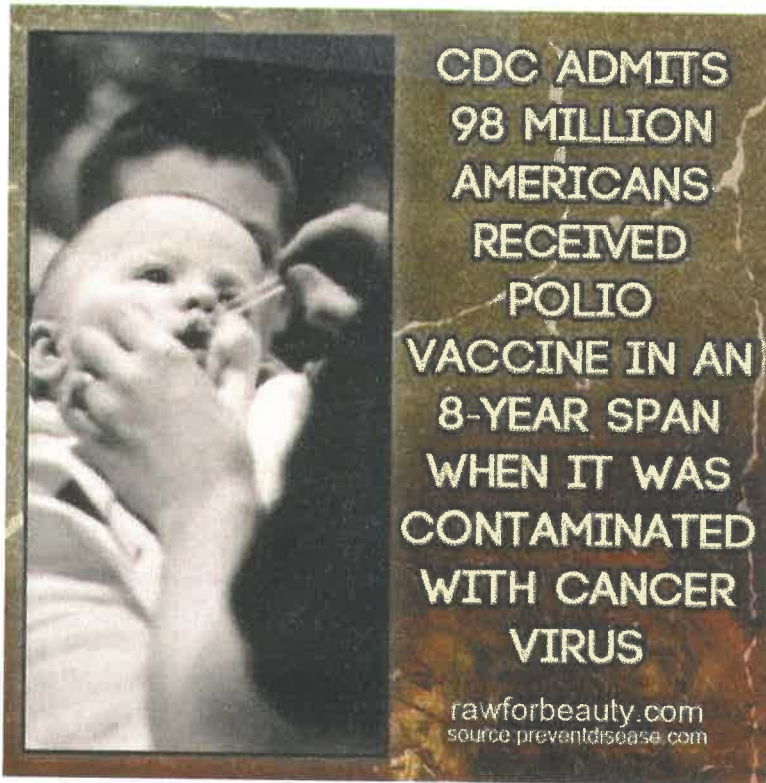

He says, prior to the mRNA injection rollout, he only used to “diagnose a new case of obvious cancer about once or twice a YEAR.”

However, Dr. Marble warns that “since 2021 it’s about once a WEEK.”

In addition, Marble warns that he's "finding some new onset 'turbo cancer.'"

He also notes that "every time" he diagnoses a new turbo cancer case, it's a patient "who took the POISON fake vax."

Doctors Call for Immediate “Stop” to Gender Ideology on Children

WASHINGTON D.C. – Last week, a group of more than 100 health care professionals issued a declaration calling on America’s major medical associations to “immediately stop” promoting the “social affirmation” of gender ideology and denounced the use of “harmful” puberty blockers, hormones treatments and medically mutilating surgeries for children.

The declaration, issued by Doctors Protecting Children in association with the American College of Pediatricians, presented a bulk of scientific evidence that gender procedures “harm healthy bodies” and strongly urged the medical industry to “respect biological reality.” The declaration, signed by physicians, therapists, medical researchers, medical ethics advocates, and more from around the nation, called on the medical community to shift its focus from “harmful interventions” to treating the “underlying mental health issues” often associated with gender confusion. The declaration noted that psychotherapy for underlying conditions such as depression, anxiety, autism, emotional trauma, and abuse should be “the first line of treatment” for “vulnerable children” rather than “irreversible” interventions.

In the declaration, the doctors affirm scientific reality that biological sex is “dimorphic” (exists in just two forms) while a person’s genetic makeup “is not altered by drugs or surgical interventions.” They further declared the agenda of gender ideology seeks to affirm thoughts, feelings and beliefs through removing healthy body parts, which is wholly “inadequate” as it “does not accommodate the reality” of “innate sexual differences.”

The declaration is aimed at countering the proliferation of gender ideology in the mainstream medical industry – an industry expected to grow to $5 billion by 2030. Doctors Protecting Children specifically called on the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Endocrine Society, the Pediatric Endocrine Society, American Medical Association, the American Psychological Association, and the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry to stop the proliferation of the false idea that “children can be born in the wrong body.” However, these organizations have all recently reaffirmed their belief that people can change their gender and expressed support for mutilating procedures.

Doctors Protecting Children also use the declaration to confront a group called the World Professional Association of Transgender Health (WPATH), an international “nonprofit” group responsible for developing the “Standards of Care” that recommend puberty blockers, hormones and mutilating surgeries to treat gender confusion in children. They stated that WPATH’s guidelines are “demonstrably flawed” considering the April 2024 Cass Review. The four-year, 388-page report examined much of the research to date on gender procedures finding “remarkably weak evidence” that these procedures help children due to may studies lacking “any positive measurable outcomes.”

In fact, as the declaration notes, leaked WPATH files revealed “widespread medical malpractice” due to doctors “improvising treatments as they go along” while knowing that children cannot give informed consent to these procedures.

The declaration states, "informed consent is not possible" because an adolescent's brain is too immature to "strategize, problem solve and make emotionally laden decisions that have life-long consequences."

"Despite all the above evidence that gender affirming treatments are not only unhelpful, but are harmful, and despite the knowledge that the adolescent brain is immature, professional medical organizations in the United States continue to promote these interventions," stated Doctors Protecting Children.

Doctors Protecting Children ultimately recommended that the rest of the American medical community "follow the science" and that health care professionals urge their leadership to "adhere to the evidence-based research now available."

Liberty Counsel Founder and Chairman Mat Staver said, "Gender ideology has led to horrible atrocities on children. Counseling, not mutilating surgeries, is the only rational and medically sound option. The American medical community needs return to sound science and recommit to 'do no harm.'"

Fluorides: A Long Term Depopulation Program

By Sidney Secular

July 6, 2024

I bet you didn't know that fluorides are ingredients in insecticides and roach killers. Check the ingredients on the cans you use to spray critters with. The aerosols that escape into the air when you spray could also be killing you as well as the critters. It doesn't matter that the amount of fluoride in the public water system is only one part fluoride per every million parts of water, the accumulation of fluoride will gradually have its effects because of the volume of water consumed over a long period of time is prodigious. Thus, little by little a multitude of long term chronic severe health problems develop. The reason given for the addition of fluoride is that it prevents tooth decay has never been proven scientifically. Looking at the massive amount of dental problems in the general population should generate some doubts in your mind as to its efficacy.

Massive amounts of fluoride wastes are generated in the production of aluminum products and in the production of phosphate fertilizers. Creative entrepreneurs figured there must be a way to make profits from this waste — thus, its use as a way to prevent tooth decay was conceived. The easiest and most insidious and simple way of distributing the fluoride on a massive scale is adding it to the water supply and toothpastes and mouthwashes. It's addition to mouthwashes can cause serious health problems including discoloration of teeth, allergies, and irritation of tissues, and is not recommended at all for young children. Watering crops and gardens with tap water will cause the fluoride to be absorbed into the tissues of the plants and thereby get into your system. There is enough fluoride in toothpastes at 1,000 to 1,500 parts per million to kill a small child if he/she should consume a whole tube of it.

Before I delve further into the many more harms of fluoride, I want you to promise me you will consider buying one gallon jugs of distilled or spring water, or even what they call "drinking water", to supply your everyday drinking and cooking needs for water. The current cost at my supermarket is only $1.19 per gallon jug of such water which is quite affordable. These types of water do not have fluoride and other harmful impurities in the water. Of course, if you really consume a lot of water or want to obtain it at a more inexpensive cost, you can check the many water distillation systems available which provide the most pure water possible. As a side note here, if a toothpaste or mouthwash does not specifically indicate that it contains no fluoride, you may assume the product contains it.

Here are some of the other harmful effects of fluoride consumption that are not well known. Fluoride in drinking water gradually weakens the immune system and causes allergic-like reactions such as dermatitis, eczema and hives. It causes birth defects and lung cancer. You inhale small amounts of it every time you shower. Fluoride actually causes gum damage at the concentrations used in fluoride toothpaste. I bet the devils who thought up the scheme to promote fluoride toothpastes must think they pulled the number one fast one of all time. Once the gums are weakened, the teeth that they are supposed to support start becoming diseased.

When it comes to causing disease, fluorides break up the bonds that are found in our DNA, destabilizing the DNA, and this inhibits the effectiveness of the immune system anywhere from 30% to 70%. The amount of fluoride in drinking water is sufficient to lower thyroid activity. Fluorides cause the breakdown of collagen which results in the wrinkling of the skin and the weakening of ligaments and muscles. They are starting to put fluoride in baby drinks, so check the list of ingredients to see if it is present therein.

I'm an expert who advises Coca-Cola and Kellogg's... here's how they get you hooked on their products and why I've cut out junk food entirely

By LUKE ANDREWS SENIOR HEALTH REPORTER FOR DAILYMAIL.COM

Dr Barry Smith has spent nearly a decade working with the biggest junk food brands in the world — helping to make their products irresistibly tasty and palatable.

The food scientist was part of the expert team manipulating every aspect of our favorite products, from packet to texture, smell and taste, to make us want more.

But not anymore. Now, the expert has ditched junk food altogether due to its damaging effects to his health.

And he's revealing the secrets of the trade to warn us off it too.

They include ensuring the right 'fizz and tear' sound when you open a can of soda to make it appear refreshing — or the popping sound with a Snapple juice bottle, which the brain has learnt to associate with a treat.

Dr Barry first began helping to improve tastes in 2010, when he set up a 'wet' lab in London — which aimed to look at how different ways of presenting a product could alter taste.

He says some of the tests were used to help brands including Coca-Cola and Kellogg's make their products more appealing.

Dr Smith said that just before having a high-sugar snack, the brain releases dopamine — the feel-good hormone — in anticipation of receiving something good.

This is what food companies have aimed to harness — through the smooth velvety appearance of chocolate, the explosion of smells from a packet of chips or the brightly-colored packaging on candies.

Dr Smith used to get 30 to 40 percent of his diet from ultra-processed foods.

But after learning about the dangers of eating so much sugar to his health, he decided to ditch them entirely.

The result? He now feels much healthier, more energetic and happier than he did before — and he has even unintentionally lost weight.

He also revealed how foods have been altered to make them palatable even when, normally, most people would find them too sweet.

He used the example of sodas, saying their fizz and cold temperature both help to reduce their sweet flavors. The bubbles alter the taste perception on the tongue, while the cool temperature makes taste buds less sensitive to sweetness.

Studies show that diets high in ultra-processed foods are linked to a myriad of health risks, including obesity, heart disease and type 2 diabetes.

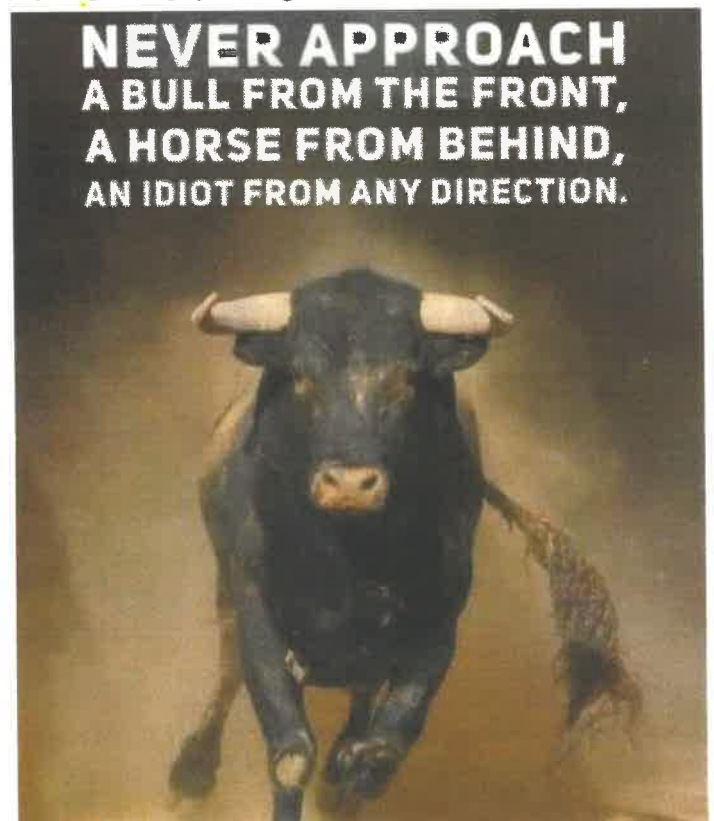

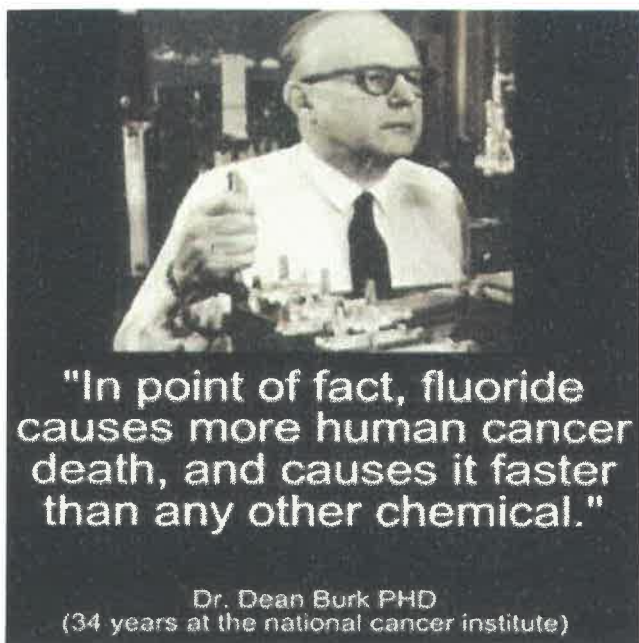

Dr Smith recommends taking a break from ultra-processed food to help taste-buds become more accustomed to a diet that isn't high in sugar.

In an interview with Business Insider, he suggested investing in ways to make non-junk foods taste better.

Vegetables, he said, can appear bland but it is possible to make them more flavorful via roasting, frying or fermenting.

'You're not going to persuade people to move away from ultra-processed foods by telling them it's bad for them,' he said. 'It's got to be flavor first.'

'You need to make them really tasty so that people realize, they can actually make something reasonably cheap and reasonably well that I'm actually going to enjoy eating.'

Maggot Milk New Dairy Alternative — Another Threat to Our Food Sovereignty

JULY 7, 2024

By Paul A. Philips

Introducing maggot milk

Billy Boy Gates is up to his tricks again to “save us.” This time it’s in the form of funding the production of maggot milk derived from black soldier fly larvae or maggots. Maggot milk (“EntoMilk”) is planned to be introduced into the main food supply chain for human consumption in countries such as the United States.

Its developers, a South African-based company, claim that EntoMilk is a “rich and creamy liquid which looks and acts just like dairy...” The company also makes maggot-derived ice cream.

“You shall eat ~~and now drink~~ ze bugs.”

Bill Gates and his World Economic Forum associates justify the need for EntoMilk as an alternative by claiming that conventionally farmed dairy milk should be replaced as it contributes to “destroying the planet” through “climate change.”

They argue that economic, viable, insect-derived food and drink alternatives don't give rise to greenhouse gases. Hence the statement in the EntoMilk promotional video: "The world needs alternatives to survive."

In other words, according to Bill Gates, the WEF and other globalist associates, insect-derived food products replacing meat and dairy as dietary staples is the way to go forward: A viable solution when it comes to feeding a growing world population, solving the so-called climate change-related survival issues...

Aw you've got to be kidding. They must be having a laugh at us over this!

Further, the promotion and consuming of fake meat products (plant-based, lab-grown substitutes...) also ties in with the above: The push for both the consumption of fake meat and insect alternatives are consistent with the green agenda.

For more on this watch this unsettling video presented by Alex Jones, labelled as "Disgusting."

Like those girls in the video, wonder how you would react after trying the product and then getting told that you've just eaten maggots??

The war on our food sovereignty

A number of us in the know realize that the insane green agenda is a massive con.

The globalists and associates are using unfounded unscientific fake climate change claims related to "saving the world." They're using this as an excuse to make huge power, profit and political gains as they advance their New World Order agendas. Nothing to do with carbon emissions folks.

Let's do a quick reality check:

The United States, for example, emits 13.5% of the world's total greenhouse gas (carbon dioxide) emissions. Of this, 11% is from agriculture. So that makes only 1.485% of the total world greenhouse gas (carbon dioxide) emissions from U.S agriculture!

Much of this 1.485% will come from dealing with agricultural operations: running tractors, irrigation systems, etc. for growing plant-derived food products, while only a relatively small fraction of this figure will come from the farm animals.

In other words, bug farming replacement will make virtually no difference to reducing greenhouse gases. In fact, for all we know, it might cause a slight increase!

(Data sourced from the U.S Environmental Protection Agency here and Statista here)

You have to see the bigger picture

Thus, this is an aspect that deceptively tries to get you to eat bugs (entomophagy) while obliterating the agricultural industry for centralized control of the food supply.

Further, billionaires are using dictatorial bullying policies to try and get you to accept this con. Then there's the bought-and-paid-off corporate-sponsored mainstream media with their fear-mongering tactics... Don't fall for it. Don't give up your food sovereignty. Don't allow the dystopian consequences for you, your family or friends.

These billionaire globalists don't give a damn about you or the environment. For example, if they had a genuine concern about the environment, then they wouldn't be involved in fomenting endless wars...

They certainly won't be eating these vile insect alternatives. No, they will be consuming traditional organic farm-raised produce.

Health Issues

Accepting insect-derived foods gives rise to you ceding your health to these globalist billionaires and those corporations they have their fingers in the pie with. Now what could possibly go wrong there??

Well, actually, plenty, as there are a number of health issues related to bug foods.

Considering the globalists want to feed the world, there has not been anywhere enough research on the safety of insect food to make safe evaluations. Alarmingly, a number of studies came to the conclusions that:

Regarding potential allergies and allergens: "To date, 239 arthropod allergens have been identified by the allergen nomenclature." – Sub-Committee of the World Health Organization.*

A number of pathogens have been detected in considered potential insect food sources.*

Eating maggots has been associated with bacterial poisoning...*

The lists go on.

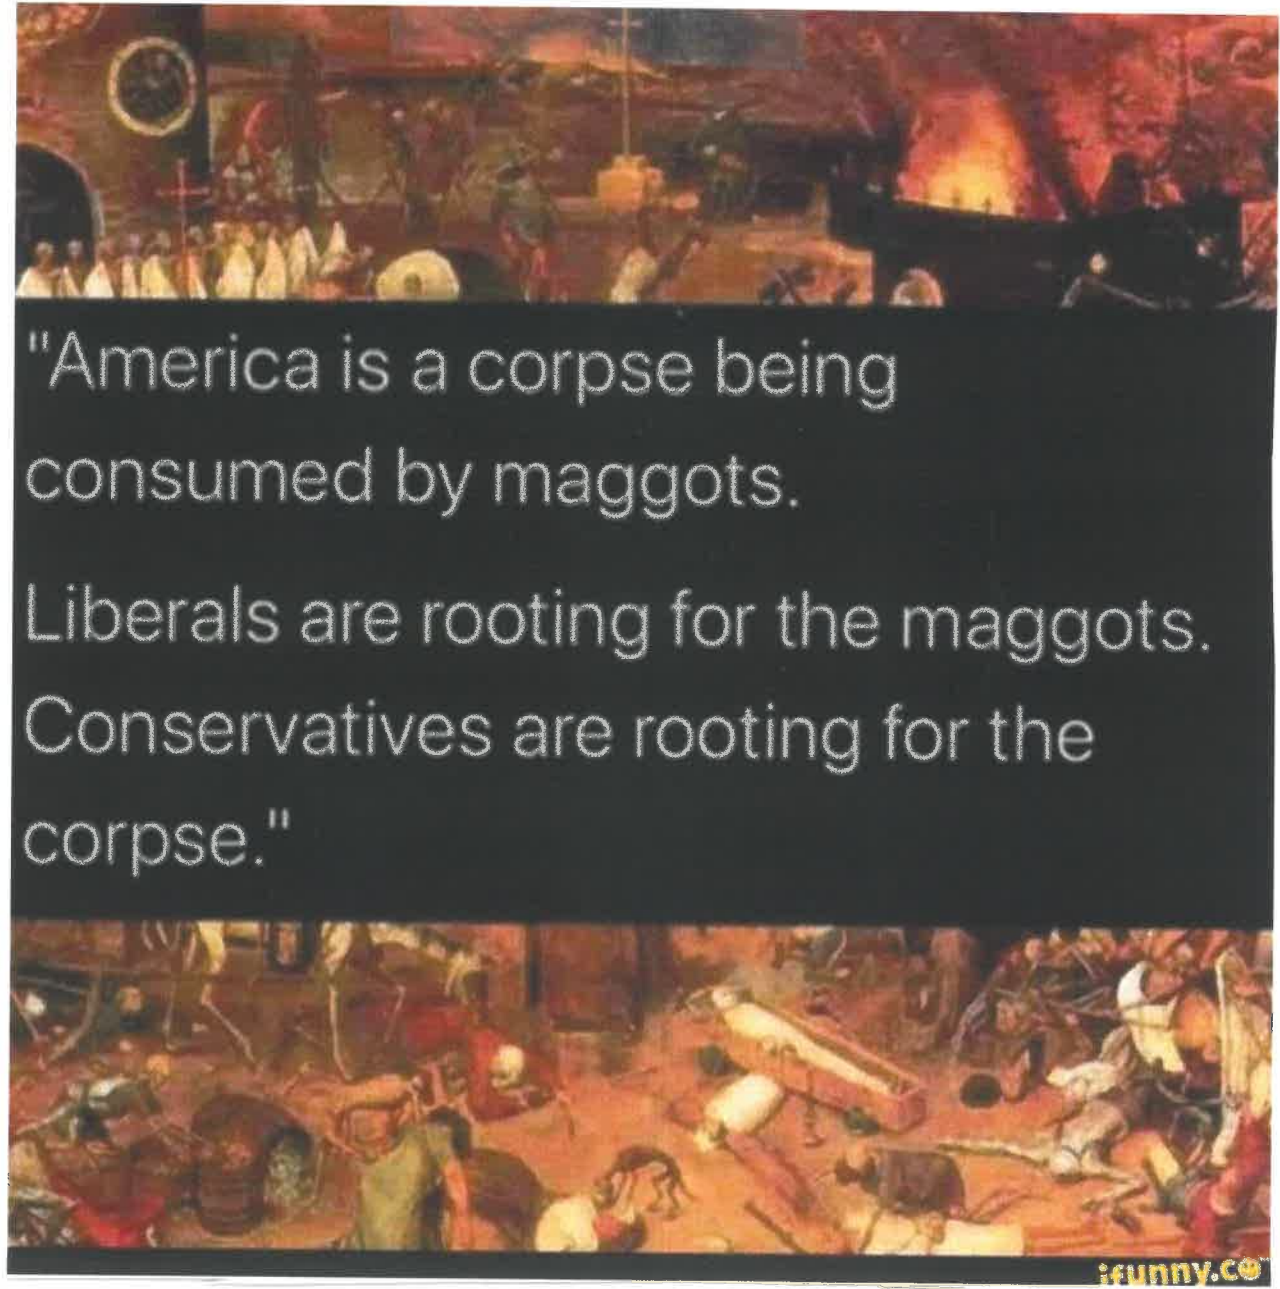

From these research papers it has been said the insects are potentially harmful in that they may act as vectors: Carriers of microorganisms that can cause ill-health to humans involving food-borne pathogens. Especially in situations where there is a lack of hygiene, such as in areas involving insect farming.

In Conclusion

In realization or anticipation of our increasing awakening the globalists know that they have to ongoingly escalate their control over us while imposing extremist values. One aspect related to imposing their extremist values are the lengths to which they are prepared to go to support a number of agendas. Some of which have been described as nothing short of insanity!

An example of this insanity is the globalists push for getting the public at large to consume unhealthy insect foods to reduce greenhouse gases though fear mongering. The so-called need for insect-derived alternative food sources to "save the world" by lowering greenhouse gases is based on falsehood. It greatly threatens our food sovereignty. It's a cover for the globalists agendized centralization and control of the food supply.

I don't think the public will ever take to eating bug food. It's at least a commercial disaster waiting to happen. What's your opinion?

If The High Cost Of Groceries Makes You Feel Sick, You Are Not Alone

MICHAEL SNYDER

If you are really struggling with the high cost of living, I want you to know that you aren't alone. In recent months, I have been hearing from so many people that feel like they are drowning financially. Have you experienced a palpable sense of panic when you compare your rising bills to the level of income that you are currently bringing in? So many people out there are stressed out of their minds because it has become such a struggle to pay the bills each month. As I discussed a few days ago, a typical U.S. household much now spend $1,069 more a month just to buy the exact same goods and services that it did three years ago. Over the course of an entire year, that is almost an extra $13,000 dollars. Month after month, prices just keep going higher, but those that are running things continue to insist that everything is just fine. No, everything is not just fine.

Last week, a TikTok video about rising grocery prices at Walmart quickly garnered more than a million views. The person that made the video found a grocery order that he had placed two years ago, and he decided to hit the "Reorder All" button to see what that some order would cost today...

A recent TikTok video has gone viral, showing a user's surprising experience with Walmart's grocery prices. The user explained in his video that he tried to use the "Reorder All" button for an order he placed two years ago, which originally cost $126.67. To his shock, the same order would now cost $414.39.

I was quite stunned by this video.

Many of the things that I regularly purchase at the grocery store have doubled or more than doubled in price, but in this case the total cost of the grocery order had more than tripled...

The TikTok (@sewerlidd) explained that the original $126.16 purchase was for a month's worth of groceries, which included 53 items.

"A whole month of groceries just for me," he said in the video.

The total was updated to $414.39, almost quadrupling.

"I feel like I'm going to be sick," he said.

Needless to say, this video has generated a ton of discussion online.

When Walmart was asked about this, they responded by saying that the primary reason there was such a difference is because the person that made the video was attempting to order "discontinued items"...

Walmart representatives have responded, stating that the claims in the video are not accurate. According to them, the discrepancies in prices are due to discontinued items rather than actual inflation.

But this explanation certainly did not satisfy everyone.

Another person hit the "Reorder All" button on an old order, and that order went from $180 back then to $430 today...

Viewers expressed both shock and frustration in the comments.

"Now I feel a little less gaslit about grocery prices because it has gone crazy, and it's not just me!" wrote one person.

"Walmart, can you explain yourself, please," added another.

A fellow shopper said they used to spend $180 for two weeks' worth of groceries and are now spending over $430 for the same amount.

If you think that the price of groceries is not a problem, I have a challenge for you.

Fill up a grocery cart all the way to the very top with items that you typically eat, and try to keep the final bill under 300 dollars.

If you are smart, you can do it, but it won't be easy.

In the old days, you could buy a used vehicle for 300 dollars.

Now, many people burn through more than 300 dollars in just one trip to the grocery store.

This is just one of the reasons why inflation has become such a huge political issue.

According to Gallup, inflation was not really considered to be an important issue at all prior to 2022...

For the third year in a row, the percentage of Americans naming inflation or the high cost of living as the most important financial problem facing their family has reached a new high. The 41% naming the issue this year is up slightly from 35% a year ago and 32% in 2022. Before 2022, the highest percentage mentioning inflation was 18% in 2008. Inflation has been named by less than 10% in most other readings since the question was first asked in 2005.

The last three years have been an inflationary nightmare, and no matter how much our leaders try to deny it, a lot more inflation is on the way.

Things are particularly bad in our major cities. In fact, it is being reported that Manhattan is the most expensive place to live in the United States by a wide margin...

The New York borough of Manhattan is the most expensive place to live in the U.S. — and the cost of living in the No. 2 place isn't even close.

The cost of living in Manhattan is more than twice the national average. The second- and third-most expensive places are Honolulu and San Jose, California, but in comparison, they are much more affordable. Manhattan is 24% more expensive than Honolulu and 30% more expensive than San Jose.

It isn't a big mystery why this is the case.

When our leaders pumped trillions upon trillions of dollars into the system, the financial markets benefitted greatly.

So Manhattan is swimming in cash, and prices there have gone into the stratosphere.

Many of us relentlessly warned about what would happen when our leaders flooded the system with cash, and now we are facing economic distortions that are extremely painful.

For most Americans, prices have been rising much faster than their paychecks.

As a result, our national standard of living has been steadily declining.

And now we have entered a time when it appears that economic conditions are really slowing down.

For example, it is being reported that Ford is preparing for yet another round of layoffs...

Ford Motor is preparing for a new round of layoffs for its salaried workers in the United States. the Wall Street Journal reported on Thursday, citing people familiar with the matter.

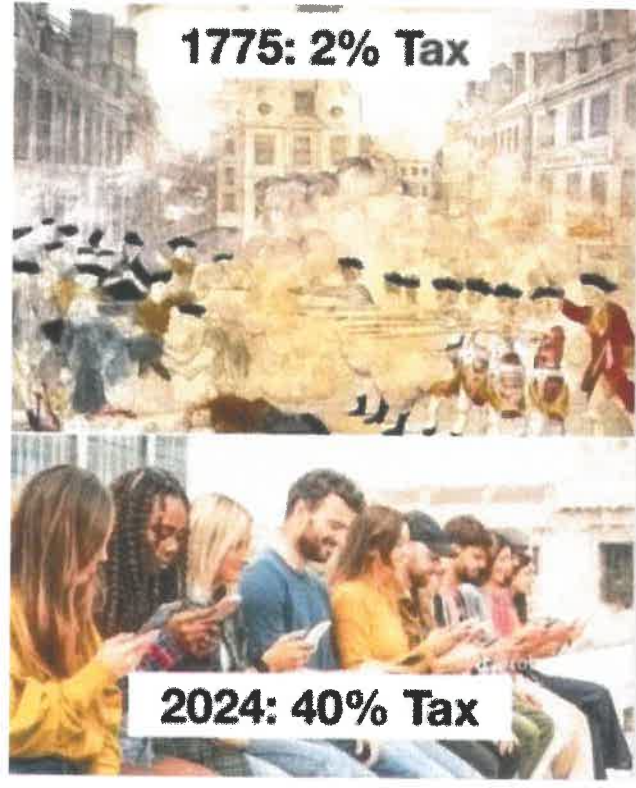

The company in March last year announced plans to reduce structural costs of up to $3 billion at its gas-powered vehicle unit. In August, Ford said it would cut a total of 3,000 salaried and contract jobs, mostly in North America and India.

Over the past several years, our politicians in Washington have borrowed and spent trillions upon trillions of dollars, and the "experts" at the Federal Reserve have pumped trillions upon trillions of dollars into the financial system.

All that did was buy us a little more time.

All that did was delay the inevitable.

Now we are facing a crisis of absolutely epic proportions, and the economic suffering that we are currently experiencing is nothing compared to the economic suffering that is ahead of us.

Nations don't fall because of a few tyrants.

They fall because the masses chose to comply with tyrants. They chose to compromise with tyrants. They chose to obey tyrants.

That's how nations fall.

Visualizing The Soaring Costs Of US Fast Food Chains

BY TYLER DURDEN

Fast food joints were once the go-to option for quick, cost-friendly meals, but now, they're starting to pinch the budget.

Inflation has hit fast food chains hard in the past decade, with many restaurants seeing an average price increase on menu items of more than 50%.

This graphic, via Visual Capitalist's Kayla Zhu, visualizes the average price increase of 10 core menu items from select American fast food chains, as well as the change in the consumer price index (U.S. city average) for food away from home, from 2014 to 2024.

The Rising Costs of Dining Out

On average, eating at these 10 fast food restaurants has gotten 63% more expensive since 2014, as shown in the table below.

Restaurant	Average price increase of 10 different menu items (2014-2024)
McDonald's	100%
Popeye's	86%
Taco Bell	81%
Chipotle	75%
Jimmy John's	62%
Wendy's	55%
Arby's	55%
Chick-fil-A	55%
Burger King	55%
Panera Bread	54%
Food Away from Home inflation	49%
Starbucks	39%
Subway	39%

McDonald's leads the pack in term of fast food inflation, with some of its food items doubling in price since 2014. The company likely took notice of complaints of its rising prices, and is preparing to roll out a month-long, affordable $5 combo meal deal this summer.

While not visualized on the graphic above, Subway and Starbucks were the only two restaurants that had average price increases that were lower than food away from home inflation, at 39% for both restaurants.

As the cost of dining out has increased across the board, with even fast food options surpassing overall inflation, consumers are running out of cheaper alternatives when it comes to having food away from home.

Property Tax & The Death Of The American Dream

Via SchiffGold.com

While the primary catalyst for the original English pilgrims to venture to America was religious freedom, a strong desire for independence followed closely behind. They desired to be independent of two things: poverty and government meddling. This spirit carried into the American Revolution and informed domestic policy for many years. The Homestead Act of (FIND YEAR) was enacted to allow citizens a type of independence those who first fled Britain could only dream of. Remote settlers earned their own homes by proving their merit to Mother Nature. It was fairly easy to live as one wished without violating rules and regulations. The law was a fairly small framework that attempted to allow lives free from violence and evil. The two curses they fled were now powerfully refuted. The poverty caused by government oppression of the past was replaced by success or failure based upon individual action.

While poverty enabled and created by tyranny guided pilgrims to leave, it was no easy road in the new land. Settlers often dealt with great hunger and lack because they knew it was better than the guaranteed squalor they would have faced in Europe. Americans had to bet on their futures using their competence and capabilities. They received the fruits of their labor and often lived far better than they could have before. The American government was in place to protect their ability to live a private life in which they received the benefits of their labor.

The whole American vision was built upon delayed gratification. There was no guarantee that a homesteader's crops would thrive in any given year. Individuals who were less competent were forced to settle for a life that, while far better than before they emigrated, was below the standard of other more competent settlers. Homesteaders who wanted to fill their stomachs in winter would find they had no seed to plant in the spring. Months and years of hardship were endured to secure ownership and the ability to rest.

The government's primary role was to protect people against anyone who desired to intrude on their hard-earned peace, whether foreign nations or malicious citizens. People worked for security and the ability to give their children security. Land was a constant investment that directly reflected its developer's work ethic and rewarded their competency. Unlike in Europe, land was very accessible to the common man. Rather than working for lords and barons, land distinguished Americans and allowed them to work for themselves.

At the beginning of the 19th century, property taxes were small, primarily by the acre, and did not rise often. As administrative bloat and government corruption grew, property taxes gradually grew and morphed into something powerful and harmful to the core of the American dream. Property taxes became not just on the acre, but also on the valuation of the property. In some states, this tax is higher than 2% yearly. A 500,000$ house, a great deal in many locations, would force the owner to pay over 10,000$ yearly just to live on the land that they own. In complete opposition to the vision of the past, inflation and increasingly high valuations mean that as time goes on, landowners will be forced to work more just to make ends meet.

If a family worked hard to make a life on a humble piece of land and became surrounded by a luxury housing development, the resulting higher valuation would drive them to live somewhere else. This incentive to move shifts Americans towards a consumer culture rather than a culture of creation. There is less reason to put effort into any piece of land or community if an indeterminate amount of “rent” must be paid every year. That “rent” used to be primarily the sweat of the brows of the owners of that land as they worked tirelessly to cultivate it.

That vision has been replaced and land seems more like a luxury for the ultra-wealthy than any meaningful part of the American identity. Even small bits of land are not often loved and held for long. Moving constantly has become a favorite pastime of many families as they cannot seem to escape high taxes and inflation. Families continually downsizing or moving to other states cannot be sustainable as a national strategy. We must either make urban living far more appealing or face many families forced to choose between unappealing apartments or paying through the nose for ever-smaller houses. Property taxes exacerbate the attack on the root of American identity.

Special forces group warns of TERRORISTS pouring through America's open borders

07/05/2024 // Ava Grace

A group of U.S. special forces has warned about terrorists coming to America, thanks to President Joe Biden's open borders policy.

The group issued the warning through an open letter signed by Christopher Miller, chairman of the Special Operations Association of America (SOAA). The group is composed of Army Rangers and Green Berets, Navy SEALs, Marine Raiders, Air Force Air Commandos and other special forces.

According to the letter, America faces a "gravely" serious threat of a terrorist attack inside the country. Miller also wrote that the SOAA is "concerned by the current heightened risk of terrorist attacks against targets inside the United States and both U.S. and allied interests abroad." The SOAA chairman added that the wide open southern border with Mexico is another factor for this.

"This risk is compounded by developments in the Middle East and the porous, unsecured southern border through which we have seen numerous instances of individuals on terrorist watchlists and others from adversarial countries attempt to enter the U.S.," Miller continued. (Related: Biden's "unsecured southern border" a domestic terror threat, says U.S. special ops group.)

"Those are the ones we know about only because they were detected. We do not know how many other terrorists are already currently inside the United States."

According to Miller, who served as acting defense secretary toward the end of former President Trump's first term, Biden's slapdash withdrawal from Afghanistan is the main reason for this threat. This, he added, has left America "without a viable stay-behind or over-the-horizon counterterrorism and intelligence capability to suppress threats." It has also facilitated a power vacuum that has allowed extremist groups to flourish again.

"The U.S. has lost significant intelligence collection capabilities in the region, leaving federal authorities blind and deaf to emerging threats emanating from the region. The creation of new and reestablishment of previous terrorist training camps within Afghanistan has led to successful, deadly attacks by the Islamic State [of Iraq and Syria's] (ISIS) regional branch against targets in Iran and Russia and elsewhere, adding further credence to the notion that the U.S. is at risk."

Even TERRORISTS from Central Asia are crossing the border

According to Modernity News, the SOAA's open letter dovetails with reports detailing how the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has identified over 400 immigrants from Central Asia and elsewhere who gained entry into the U.S. in the past three years as subjects of concern. The migrants were reportedly brought in by a human smuggling network with ties to ISIS.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agents have arrested around 150 of them, and the DHS is aware of the location of most of the rest. However, the whereabouts of over 50 remain unknown.

Included in that count were eight men from Tajikistan with potential ties to ISIS. According to a CBS News report, the Tajikistanis were arrested in New York City, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. The suspects, who had been on the radar of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Joint Terrorism Task Force, were apprehended by ICE agents.

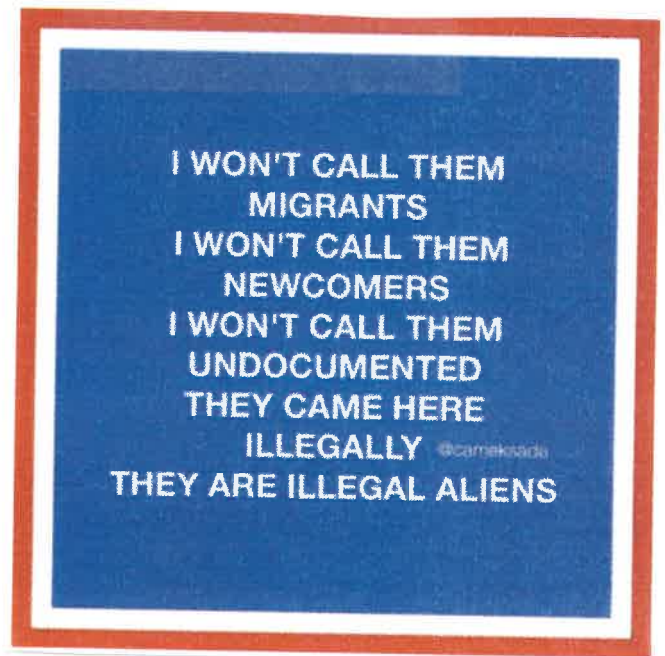

Two officials familiar with the matter said all eight Tajikistanis crossed through the southern border into the U.S., with their criminal background checks coming clean. At least two of them crossed the border in spring of last year, and one of those two used the CBP One app. The Biden administration created the CBP One app to allow migrants to book appointments to claim asylum

Why Is the West Preparing for War?

Why Is the West Preparing for War?

Paul Craig Roberts

One result of the just concluded NATO Summit is Germany's decision to host US intermediate-range missiles. Prior to 2019 when Washington cancelled the INF Treaty, the treaty prevented such deployment.

The INF Treaty was signed by Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev on December 8, 1987, and the treaty was ratified on June 1, 1988. The treaty was part and parcel of ending the cold war. Reagan called the treaty a "step toward a safer world."

"The 1987 Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces (INF) Treaty required the United States and the Soviet Union to eliminate and permanently forswear all of their nuclear and conventional ground-launched ballistic and cruise missiles with ranges of 500 to 5,500 kilometers. The treaty marked the first time the superpowers had agreed to reduce their nuclear arsenals, eliminate an entire category of nuclear weapons, and employ extensive on-site inspections for verification. As a result of the INF Treaty, the United States and the Soviet Union destroyed a total of 2,692 short-, medium-, and intermediate-range missiles by the treaty's implementation deadline of June 1, 1991."

Blaming Russia the Trump administration pulled out of the treaty. The consequence was to kill the nuclear disarmament that the INF Treaty began and to renew the arms race. If I had to bet I would say Washington's withdrawal was a consequence of the US nuclear industry needing the source of profits that the arms race provided and the neoconservatives' determination to revive US hegemony through the buildup of force. If Russia was truly out of compliance, Trump's focus should have been to work to bring Russia into compliance, not terminate the treaty. The efforts of several American presidents and Soviet leaders in the 20th century to defuse tensions and to build trust were squandered by Washington in the 21st century.

Regardless, what is clear is that Washington is pushing both Europe and Russia into preparing for war, and is itself preparing. The US Senate has joined the House of Representatives in creating a draft registration system from which to field a conscripted army. The Senate's version includes women in the draft, as equal treatment requires. Clearly, Washington sees the need for a larger army than a volunteer army can provide.

Now that the Biden regime is supplying F-16s and long-range missiles to Ukraine, weapon systems that Biden said would never be given to the Ukrainians, along with targeting information, clearly Washington's intent is to further widen the war by carrying it deep into civilian areas of Russia. Simultaneously, Washington is using its NGOs in Georgia to orchestrate a color revolution there in order to open a second front against Russia. Putin's slow forever war in Ukraine has played directly into Washington's hands.

China is the main focus of Washington's strategy of isolating Russia. At the recent NATO Summit China was accused of being a "decisive enabler" of Russia's conflict with Ukraine. By allegedly supplying armaments to Russia, China is accused of challenging “our interests, security and values.”

I would have expected a different Chinese reply than was made. China should have said to Washington/NATO: “You started the conflict and your weapons systems and French troops are supporting and widening the conflict. You have blocked all efforts to end the conflict; yet you dare accuse us of responsibility for it.”

Instead, the Chinese disavowed supplying Russia with any military support.

This is an extremely weak response. It suggests that all the Russian-Chinese assurance of a “no-limits partnership” is just words. An appropriate response from China would have been: “We are considering sending 500,000 of our best soldiers to serve under Russian command in Ukraine and have called up another million men for military training.”

A response such as this is what would end the conflict before the dumbshit hegemonic West puts us all in a war of annihilation.

In recorded history one can find very few competent civilian and military leaders. Alexander the Great, Constantine, Charles Martel, Charlemagne, the Duke of Marlborough, Robert E. Lee. No such men exist today, but the weapons are far more terrible. Moreover, modern war targets civilians and civilian infrastructure, as the Israelis are doing in Gaza. The goal is less to defeat an opposing army than it is to foreclose an opponent’s ability to conduct war.

In Europe a warrior class no longer exists. European male ethnicities are so oppressed by their own governments and by immigrant-invaders favored by European governments, that the defense ministers of Europe are women. What does a white ethnic European male have to fight for?

In the US the fighting force has always come from the southern states. But what have these traditional Americans, these military families, witnessed? They have seen all southern names struck from military bases. They have experienced their promotions on hold while homosexuals, black females, and transgendered people confused about their own gender are promoted. Taking orders from such people is not a southern man’s idea of the military. So recruitment has collapsed.

There are so few people willing to fight for America that Congress entertains proposals to enroll immigrant-invaders, paid with citizenship for fighting for American hegemony.

America has reached the point that Rome reached. Once the Roman military was German, the Germans became the emperors. The Germans did a fairly decent job compared to the decadent Romans, but the Empire was exhausted by its internal conflicts and collapsed.

Perhaps it is the collapse of the West that Putin and XI are banking on. Why bother to fight people busy destroying themselves.

10 Signs That Global War Is Rapidly Approaching

JULY 4, 2024

Are we on the verge of an apocalyptic global war in which billions of people could die? Very few people anticipated that World War I would erupt, but it happened anyway. And very few people anticipated that World War II would erupt, but it happened anyway.

All throughout human history, there have been wars. Ever since the very beginning, it has just been a matter of time before major powers collide. Unfortunately, even though very alarming warning signals are flashing all around us, most of the population of the Western world seems absolutely clueless about what is really going on out there. Leaders all over the planet seem to have come down with a really bad case of “war fever”, and preparations for apocalyptic showdowns are being made. The following are 10 signs that global war is rapidly approaching...

#1 Politico is reporting that Israel and Hezbollah have both “drafted battle plans”, and the Biden administration is convinced that “intense fighting is likely to break out”...

Meanwhile, the Israel Defense Forces and Hezbollah have drafted battle plans and are in the process of trying to procure additional weapons, according to two senior U.S. officials briefed on the intelligence.

Both sides have publicly said they do not want to go to war, but senior Biden officials increasingly believe that intense fighting is likely to break out despite efforts to try and prevent it.

The risk is higher now than at any other point in recent weeks, according to another senior U.S. official, who, like others in this story, was granted anonymity to speak freely about sensitive intelligence.

#2 Iran is warning that there will be an “obliterating war” if the IDF enters southern Lebanon...

Israel will face an “obliterating war” if it embarks on “full-scale military aggression” against Hezbollah in Lebanon, Iran’s Permanent Mission to the UN warned on Friday.

The announcement was made on Twitter.

“Albeit Iran deems as psychological warfare the Zionist regime’s propaganda about intending to attack Lebanon, should it embark on full-scale military aggression, an obliterating war will ensue. All options, incl. the full involvement of all Resistance Fronts, are on the table,” the post reads.

By “all Resistance Fronts,” Iran means not just Hezbollah and Hamas, but also the Houthi rebels in Yemen as well as other groups in Syria and Iraq.

#3 Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu is convinced that a major war with Iran is inevitable because he believes that the Iranians have plans to conquer the entire Middle East...

Netanyahu emphasized that the fight against Iran’s terror proxies is critical for other nations in the Middle East, as Iran aims to dominate the rest of the region, including Sunni Muslim nations.

“We also have to deter the other elements of the Iran terror axis. But we have to deal with the axis,” Netanyahu explained. “The axis doesn’t threaten only us. It threatens you. It’s on the march to conquer the Middle East.”

“That means, actually, conquer. Conquer Saudi Arabia, conquer the Arabian Peninsula. It’s just a question of time,” he warned.

#4 According to NBC News, the U.S. is moving military assets into position so that they can be “ready to evacuate Americans” once an all-out war erupts between Israel and Hezbollah...

The Pentagon is moving U.S. military assets closer to Israel and Lebanon to be ready to evacuate Americans as fighting between Israel and Hezbollah intensifies, according to three U.S. defense officials and a former U.S. official familiar with the plans.

The USS Wasp, an amphibious assault ship, and Marines from the 24th Expeditionary Unit, which is special operations capable, moved into the Mediterranean on Wednesday to join the dock landing ship USS Oak Hill and another ship in their amphibious ready group, according to the Marine Corps. The Wasp will operate in the eastern Mediterranean to be ready for a Military Assisted Departure and other missions, the officials said.

#5 On Thursday, Hezbollah sent approximately 40 rockets into northern Israel...

Hezbollah launched a barrage of some 40 rockets at northern Israel on Thursday afternoon, in what the terror group said was a response to recent Israeli airstrikes in Lebanon, including the killing of one of its operatives earlier in the day.

#6 On Saturday, Israeli aircraft bombed several Hezbollah targets in southern Lebanon...

On Saturday afternoon Israeli fighter jets struck a building in southern Lebanon’s Houla where a group of Hezbollah operatives were gathered, the military said. The IDF said the operatives were spotted by troops of the 869th Combat Intelligence Collection Unit, and a short while later the airstrike was carried out.

Another building used by Hezbollah in Houla was also struck, the IDF added. It published footage of the strikes.

#7 I know that I wrote about this last week, but I couldn't leave this particular item out of this article. Apparently Joe Biden is thinking about approving a plan that would "allow US military contractors to deploy to Ukraine"...

President Joe Biden's administration is moving toward a plan that would allow US military contractors to deploy to Ukraine for the first time in a limited capacity, CNN reported.

Four US officials familiar with the matter told the outlet that a policy is being worked on to allow the Pentagon to issue private contracts to send troops for the maintenance and repair of US-supplied systems in Ukraine.

#8 Russian President Vladimir Putin is reportedly interested in developing a coalition of nations that would "rival the West and NATO"...

Rhetoric from Vladimir Putin about a Eurasian security coalition is part of a Kremlin plan to create a group of Moscow-friendly countries to rival the West and NATO, the Institute for the Study of War (ISW) has said.

The assessment by the Washington, DC think tank follows Putin's visit to North Korea which, one international security expert told Newsweek, has "deepened an already intensifying relationship of convenience" between Moscow and Pyongyang.

#9 Putin is also warning that Russia will need to begin production of intermediate-range nuclear weapons systems...

Russia must respond to the actions of the United States and it seems that it is necessary for the country to start the production of intermediate-range nuclear forces (INF) strike systems, Russian President Vladimir Putin said on Friday.

"We need to respond to this and make decisions about what we will have to do in this direction next. Apparently, we need to start manufacturing these systems and then, based on the actual situation, make decisions about where – if necessary to ensure our safety – to deploy them," Putin said at an operational meeting with the permanent members of the Russian Security Council.

Of course, the Russians already have more tactical nuclear weapons than anyone else in the world by a large margin, and they have developed brand new Sarmat intercontinental ballistic missiles which are so advanced that they aren't even worth comparing to the Minuteman missiles that the U.S. is depending on which first went into service in the 1970s.

#10 A very influential figure in Russian foreign policy circles is suggesting that the Russians should actually detonate a nuclear device in order to show the world how serious they are...

Dmitry Suslov, a top figure at the Moscow-based Council for Foreign and Defence Policy, has put forward the idea of Russia carrying out a "demonstrative" nuclear detonation, a move that could prompt the start of World War 3. This alarming suggestion arises as tensions with the West intensify due to Ukraine's use of Western-supplied weaponry against Russian forces.

Suslov's think tank, known to occasionally sway government policy, made this proposal public shortly after President Vladimir Putin delivered a grave warning to NATO countries. Putin warned that if Ukraine were to employ Western arms for attacks on Russian soil, it could spark a worldwide crisis, reinforcing his point with threats of severe repercussions.

Unfortunately, all of this is happening at a time when 72 percent of U.S. voters believe that the guy with his finger on the nuclear button does not have "the mental or cognitive health to serve as president"...

A sweeping section of registered voters do not believe President Joe Biden has the mental and cognitive health to serve a second term as president after his unsteady debate performance last week, according to a new poll.

The CBS/You Gov national survey conducted in the days after the debate found that 72% of voters do not believe Biden has the mental or cognitive health to serve as president, as well as nearly half of his own party. That's up seven points from the beginning of June.

We are in far more trouble than most people realize.

And it is far later than most people think that it is.

I just wish that we could get more people to wake up. We are literally stumbling into an apocalyptic global war, and once we are in the middle of it there will not be any way to go back and get a second chance to do things over.

So Predictable

I didn't watch the presidential debate in June. I knew it was just another act in this macabre theater play that the government and media wants us to believe is real. By now, I would hope that most Americans understand that nothing they show us is real. Unfortunately, that's not the case. Most still believe what they're told by the mainstream press, and what is put forth by politicians, political parties, special interest groups and social media.

What happened during the debate in June was so predictable. The same can be said of what happened afterwards — just so predictable. I could have written the script for them because I knew exactly what was going to happen.

Biden would be presented as a "likeable, soft-spoken, elderly man with dementia." Trump would come off as a bully, picking on poor Old Joe. But the purpose behind showing this to the public is simply the next step in the Democrat plan to remove Biden from the ticket in November and replace him with someone else. Someone who won't even need to raise any money, do any campaigning or debating, and simply serve as the "antidote" to four more years of Trump for those on the Left.

And as was also so predictable, almost immediately after the debate, the call to remove Biden began. Even multiple Democrats have called for him to drop out of the race, as has the New York Times, the Chicago Tribune, the New Yorker, the Washington Post, the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, and Britain's largest magazine, The Economist. All of these media outlets have shilled for Biden all this time, even as questions about his mental state have been going on since Day One. Are we to believe that just now, suddenly they've realized he's incompetent?

For years, we've watched him fumble and "gaffe" at every opportunity. We've watched him invent new words, mumble incoherently, stumble up and down steps, fall off his bike, wander around the stage after speaking, "shaking hands" with the air, not knowing what he should do, require assistance to leave the stage after a speech, and tell whopper lies one after the other. All the while, the mainstream media propped him up, as did his handlers, so he could continue to serve as the figurehead for the Leftist/Communist machine now in control of this country. But his usefulness has run out, and his approval ratings are abysmal, even among those of his own party.

And right on cue, Biden himself did some post-debate interviews in which he made things even worse. He continued to stumble over his words in every interview, and in one, on Philadelphia's WURD, he even described himself as a "black woman." He said, and I quote: "I'm proud to be, as I said, the first vice president, first black woman... to serve with a black president." Makes perfect sense to those who speak Bidenese.

Also, right on cue, Biden told a gathering of Democratic governors that he needs to get more sleep and work fewer hours, so he'll no longer be doing any events after 8 pm. And strangely enough, the Supreme Court handed down a decision July 1st ruling that presidents have absolute immunity for their core constitutional powers and are entitled to a presumption of immunity for other official acts. The Trump camp hailed this as a wonderful outcome for Donald, because it means many of his indictments will likely now be dropped. Few understand that this also means that Biden can never be prosecuted for his crimes while in office, which are many. (Not that he ever would have been anyway).

It's such a theater clown show, it would be unbelievable as a movie script — but this is all happening in real life, and we're supposed to believe it's all legitimate. Can you not see how this is all pre-planned and orchestrated by the Swamp, the Deep State, the Globalists, whatever you want to call the puppet masters pulling the strings?

Here are a couple things I do believe to be true in all of this: Joe Biden lost his mind a while ago. He has advanced dementia. I believe his doctors have been keeping him upright with cocktails of drugs so he can continue to appear to function, but even those drugs are failing him now. He's always been unfit for office — not just because of his dementia, but also because of his criminal activities...crimes that he can now (conveniently) never be held accountable for.

He's also never been in charge of anything in the Oval Office. I believe he's been the puppet of Barack Hussein Obama, who lives just two miles away from the White House in DC. He's never made a single decision of his own. He's told what to do, what to say, what to sign, where to stand, when to sit, and when to shut up. He does as he's told.

For his part, Biden has doubled down on his determination to stay in the race. But it's not really up to him. At the appointed time, I predict, he will step down, saying it's for the "good of the Party," to "assure Trump never takes office again," and to "protect our democracy." My prediction is that Biden will be replaced by Michelle Obama (aka "Big Mike") — giving Obama his fourth term in office, as he's clearly been Biden's primary handler. Michelle Obama ticks every box in the Leftist litmus test: Black, female, extremely far-Left liberal, and an advocate for "transgenderism," homosexuality, abortion, and Islam. "Big Mike" has it all! Even Kamala Harris hinted at this recently. When asked who she'd want as the next President if Biden stepped down, she said, "I just hope it's not another white male."

His rhetoric continued, even up to the day before Trump was shot in Pennsylvania. In fact, five days prior to the shooting at the Trump rally, Biden stated, "It's time we stop talking about the debate. It's time to put a bullseye on Trump."

Is this another case of the Luciferians telling us what they plan to do before they do it? As I look at the situation at the Pennsylvania Trump rally, there are many unanswered questions. Spectators in the crowd saw the man climbing a ladder to the roof of a building 130 yards from the President's podium. They pointed him out to police and Secret Service, who did nothing, until after the shots were fired.

It appears the Secret Service, like the FBI, CIA, Department of Homeland Security, and Justice Department is now compromised; taken over by the Leftist Communist Regime in power and weaponized against conservatives and Christians. After the shooting, the revelation came out that the head of the Secret Service, Kimberly Cheatle, had been focusing on DEI in hiring staff. "DEI," which stands for "Diversity, Equity and Inclusion," but a better definition would be "Didn't Earn It."

All of this is an ongoing plan by the Regime in power to fundamentally destroy America from within. And in case you didn't know, the Secret Service is run by of the Department of Homeland Security, run by Alexandro Mayorkas — you know, the guy in charge of importing, resettling and spending trillions of dollars to support illegal invaders.

Regarding the Trump shooting, this was also so predictable. Trump has been attacked steadily since the moment he came down that escalator to announce his candidacy. He's been impeached, indicted, prosecuted and convicted of things that weren't even crimes. Moreover, those on the Left have been very vocal about attacking Trump and MAGA supporters...some even calling for his assasination. And many Leftists have posted things on social media after the rally shooting, screaming, crying and cursing because the shooter missed. These are the brainwashed ones, indoctrinated by public schools and colleges — filled with rage and hatred for everything "American."

But politicians on the Left have also called for Trump's assassination — sometimes subtly, sometimes openly. The Left has polarized this nation and done everything in its power to vilify America, conservatives, males, Christians, and especially heterosexual, white Christian males, calling them "terrorists," "Nazis," and worse. Sadly, many believe this stuff. They have an intense hatred for Trump, but if you try to engage them in conversation, it quickly becomes clear that they don't really know why. They just hate and they're filled with rage, and "triggered" by the very thought of Trump.

And sadly, we now must wonder if the Trump shooting was a planned "inside job." Because every government agency is now compromised by the Communist Regime, it's not outside the realm of real possibility that this attempt at killing Donald Trump could well have been planned and carried out by our own government. It's happened before.

But the aftermath of this is also so predictable. As one person has said, "The more you indict, the more we unite!" (Referring to the weaponized Justice System targeting Trump in order to label him a "convicted felon"). Every attack on Trump only makes him more popular. The optics of all this are spectacular for Trump. More than one commentator stated, immediately after the shooting, that "Trump just won the election."

Friends, once again, we're presented with two diametrically opposed choices. But the choices are more stark and dramatic than any I've seen in my lifetime. Clearly, the Biden Regime is Leftist/Communist/Globalist. It's intent on burning down the country in order to "build back better," and it doesn't care how many people suffer or die in order to continue to rule with an iron fist. This Regime hates America. Because I'm a member of the press, I receive multiple press releases from the Biden campaign every day. From what I see, the only things they value are: abortion, the LGBTQP+ agenda, "transgender" rights, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, the Anti-American and Anti-Christian indoctrination of our children, the destruction of our energy supply, continuous money laundering through continuous foreign wars, and open borders.

At the other end of the spectrum, we have the Make America Great Again movement. This resonates with the vast majority of American citizens. Realize that, despite their best efforts, only a small percentage of people are truly on board with the "Destroy America As Quickly As Possible" agenda. Yet the majority have had to pander to the Left or be labeled as "haters," "intolerant," and "terrorists." Most Americans love this country, and love what Donald Trump espouses and they're fed up with the insane agenda we've lived through the last four years. Truth, Justice and the old-fashioned "American Way." That's what most Americans want — they want their country back again.

But when Trump was in office, we had continuous violence in this country, as the Leftists rioted, looted and burned it all down with impunity. We had a scam "pandemic" that stole our constitutional rights in extreme ways. Trump did not "drain the swamp" as promised. Instead, he seemed to be controlled by it. I hope Trump is for real, and not just "controlled opposition" run by the Globalists. I certainly agree with most of his platform and what he says he stands for. I just wonder if it's still possible for America to have a real President — or if it's all scripted now.

If he's allowed to "win" the election in November, the Leftists and their minions will resume their violence and mob riots. We ain't seen nothing yet. The chaos will be ramped up even more. And they'll unleash another world-wide "scam-demic," which is already prepared and ready to launch. Very likely he'll be faced with unheard-of terrorism from the illegal invaders and those who support them. To keep law and order, and American sovereignty and freedom, he will be forced to take extreme measures, which will trigger the Left even more. So, will the "gloves" really be "off" as he attempts to restore America? Or is it all just talk?

The months to come will not be pleasant. But understand that no one — not even Donald Trump — can save this nation. Trump stated, after he was shot, that "God alone" saved his life. Certainly, that's true. I pray he understands the magnitude of that, and that, if he returns to the Oval Office, his first act and ongoing quest will be to seek God in all things and work to turn the hearts of Americans back to God and Jesus Christ, our only Savior, and our only hope. Trump is seen as a courageous man. But now, he needs to courage to openly honor God and lead our country back to Him in humility and repentance. If he does that, our nation will be blessed. If he doesn't, we'll continue to be cursed. So predictable — because God said so.

"By means of ever more effective methods of mind-manipulation, the democracies will change their nature; the quaint old forms -- elections, parliaments, Supreme Courts and all the rest -- will remain.

The underlying substance will be a new kind of totalitarianism. All the traditional names, all the hallowed slogans will remain exactly what they were in the good old days. Democracy and freedom will be the theme of every broadcast and editorial. Meanwhile the ruling oligarchy and its highly trained elite of soldiers, policemen, thought-manufacturers and mind-manipulators will quietly run the show as they see fit."

Ammo Vending Machines Arrive At Grocery Stores In Red States

BY TYLER DURDEN

Nothing says 'Merica like supermarkets with automated vending machines stocked with ammunition. A select number of supermarkets across Alabama and Oklahoma have these new machines. This means you can leave the store with milk, eggs, and boxes of 9mm and .223 rounds.

American Rounds installed AI-powered ammunition vending machines in several Alabama and Oklahoma supermarket stores. These vending machines are said to feature built-in AI technology, card scanning capability, and facial recognition software to verify that buyers are 21 or older and match the identity on the license.

"Our automated ammo dispensers are accessible 24/7, ensuring that you can buy ammunition on your own schedule, free from the constraints of store hours and long lines," American Rounds notes on its website.

American Rounds shows six supermarkets, including two Fresh Value stores in Alabama and four Super C Mart stores in Oklahoma, have these new retail automated ammo dispensers.

In 1962, you could order guns from mail order catalogs by simply sending in a check.

There were no background checks, no license required, & no restrictions. Almost anyone could get a gun.

There were also ZERO mass shootings.

So it's not about the guns, it's about the people.

In an interview with Newsweek, Grants Magers, CEO of American Rounds, said that the company's AI-powered ammunition vending machines have recently been expanded to eight across four states. "We have over 200 store requests for AARM [Automated Ammo Retail Machine] units covering approximately nine states currently and that number is growing daily," Magers said.

He continued by suggesting these vending machines support "law-abiding, responsible gun ownership, adding, "Currently ammunition is sold off the shelf or online. These environments lead to inadvertent sales to underaged purchasers and or, in the case of retail stores, a high theft rate."

Magers told local media outlet Oklahoma KOCO-TV that machines will have no ammo restrictions and are restocked weekly.

"IF YOU'RE SUGGESTING SENDING MEN WITH "WEAPONS OF WAR" TO TAKE MY "WEAPONS OF WAR", THEN I'M FAIRLY CERTAIN THAT'S WHAT'S CALLED AN ACT OF WAR...AND THE DEFINITION OF TYRANNY... WHICH COINCIDENTALLY, IS THE REASON FOR THE SECOND AMENDMENT IN THE FIRST PLACE."

Most Gun Friendly States in 2024

How does your state rank in terms of encouraging legal gun ownership? Our results are surprising! We took into account the current gun laws, current legislators' past voting history, 2A-centric taxes, and more to bring you this comprehensive list for 2024.

Ranking Factors: What Did We Measure?

There is a philosophical divide which underpins debate on legal gun ownership in the U.S. To understand that divide, it's useful to keep one key metric in mind: Civilians possess an estimated 433 million guns in the U.S., according to the NSSF. How many of those guns are legally owned vs. illegally owned isn't clearly defined yet how lawmakers calibrate their efforts to uphold the rights codified in our Bill of Rights and promote public safety must start with that metric in mind.

Why is this? Because on one side you have lawmakers who celebrate passing more laws restricting legal gun ownership irrespective of their past efforts and often do so citing heinous acts which are already illegal as justification for their additional legislative efforts. Based on their actions, it's fair to conclude this side doesn't like civilians legally owning guns – and they want fewer guns in America, period. Thus they make it harder for their constituents to legally exercise their Constitutional right to keep and bear arms.

On the other side, you have lawmakers who believe in empowering their constituents to protect themselves and their property from illegal acts. Violating a restraining order is a crime in all 50 states. Yet how the victim defends themselves against the perpetrator belies a hard truth: Are they allowed to protect themselves from an illegal act with a firearm they legally own? It often depends on where they live in.

In certain states, you have lawmakers seeking to expand legal access to firearm ownership because they believe that “the only thing which stops a bad guy with a gun is a good guy with a gun”. In other states, you have lawmakers who believe that more laws, not more legally-owned guns in the hands of their constituents, is the best option to combat violent crime.

Once you understand this philosophical divide, then ranking the U.S. states according to their recent legislative efforts in support of legal gun ownership becomes a clearer task.

We believe that more legally-owned guns being permitted for use in more places by those who are not convicted felons, severely mentally ill, or substance abusers leads to less violent crime – and thus we’ve investigated the laws, the taxes, and the lawful usability of firearms to bring you the answer as to which states are the best for legal gun ownership by analyzing the following factors:

1. Current Gun Laws
2. Current Purchase Laws
3. Current CCW Guidelines
4. Reciprocity between other states
5. Sales Tax
6. Current Governor’s voting history
7. Stand Your Ground Laws

Your ability to legally use your gun when you need to is as important as your ability to purchase it. If we consider only purchasing requirements, we neglect carrying requirements and use of force thresholds. Thus it’s important to look at each state’s current laws for language regarding Stand Your Ground and Duty to Retreat because they are defined differently.

It’s also important to note that, while the Supreme Court of the United States ruled it Constitutional to implement some gun laws, the high court has also made it clear that placing unnecessary hardships on those who wish to exercise their Second Amendment rights is unconstitutional.

Unfortunately, the court used broad terminology and some states still have a plethora of laws, regulations, and restrictions placed on firearm owners. However, many states are moving toward open carry or permitless carry laws, but only time will tell if the states on this list will remain here, or move to our Worst States for Gun Ownership list.

The incorporation doctrine doesn't exist in New York state, nor does the Bruen decision, or the historical definition of "the right to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed" found in most state Constitutions- including the NY state constitution. NYC Man Convicted Over Gunsmithing Hobby After Judge Says 2nd Amendment 'Doesn't Exist in This Courtroom' "Taylor, a 52-year-old New York native and a software engineer, discovered the world of gunsmithing years ago. He decided to take it up as a hobby and possibly turn it into a business later. However, when a joint ATF/NYPD task force discovered he was legally buying parts from various companies, they opened up an investigation that led to a SWAT raid and arrest. He is currently being jailed on Rikers Island as he awaits sentencing. Taylor's conviction highlights the ongoing battle for gun rights. During an interview with Vinoo Varghese, Taylor's defense lawyer, he detailed how Taylor's trial proceeded and highlighted a distinct bias in favor of the prosecution. In an interview prior to his conviction, Taylor told RedState: I found out that you can actually legally buy a receiver and you can machine that receiver to completion, and you buy your parts and you put them together and you've got a pistol or a rifle. And once I saw that I was hooked. I was like, 'This is the coolest thing ever. This is the most cool thing you could possibly do in your machine shop.' She told us, 'Do not bring the Second Amendment into this courtroom. It doesn't exist here. So you can't argue Second Amendment. This is New York.'"

Protest Against Walmart's Promotion of Homosexual Sin

why do you still go to Walmart! To save money?

Walmart is going all out in its promotion of “Pride Month,” complete with a whole line of children’s products. On Memorial Day weekend 2024, Walmart released a video ad on its Instagram page featuring homosexual and cross-dressing “couples” talking about their favorite “pride” products at Walmart. To back this up, Walmart’s online store features thousands of pride products, in addition to a special page dedicated to pro-homosexual products. Many “pride” items are available for children! According to reports:

“This past Saturday [25, May 2024], Walmart presented two homosexuals, Jesus and Sergio, marketing the company’s latest line of LGBTQ+ clothing.”

“Walmart’s webpage is carrying rotator ads, one of which promotes ‘Gay Pride.’ And if you search the word ‘pride’ on Walmart.com, you’ll get more than 1,000 items, including one t-shirt that tells you, ‘Some people are gay. Get over it.’ “

Perhaps most disturbing are the items that directly target children. Besides toddler shirts in the rainbow colors, there are also kid’s and baby’s shirts with colors of the “transgender” flag, as well as the “bi-sexual” flag. Other children’s shirts have the following messages:

“I Love My 2 Dads”

“My 2 Moms ROCK.”

“My PRIDE makes me FABULOUS!!”

“LOVE WINS” in rainbow letters.

“Stronger Together” with a row of upraised fists, one of which is rainbow

“I have a crazy guncle [i.e. ‘gay’ uncle] and I’m not afraid to use him”

Other “pride” products include:

A sign that says “Love Has No Limits” (N.B., the promoters of the homosexual movement have taken this phrase to its logical conclusion by saying “Love has no age “)

Adult t-shirts under the label “pansexual,” with the message, “Girls are Cute [sic] Boys are Cute [sic] Genderless are Cute Humans are Cute”

“Polyamorous Pansexual Proud”

“Respect My Trans Homies Or I’m Gonna Identify As A Fg Problem”

“It’s Ok To Say Gay [...] But it’s not okay to be a homophobic *****”

“Genders Are Outdated”

“Born This Way”

“Wishing All the Homophobes a Super Uncomfortable Pride Month”

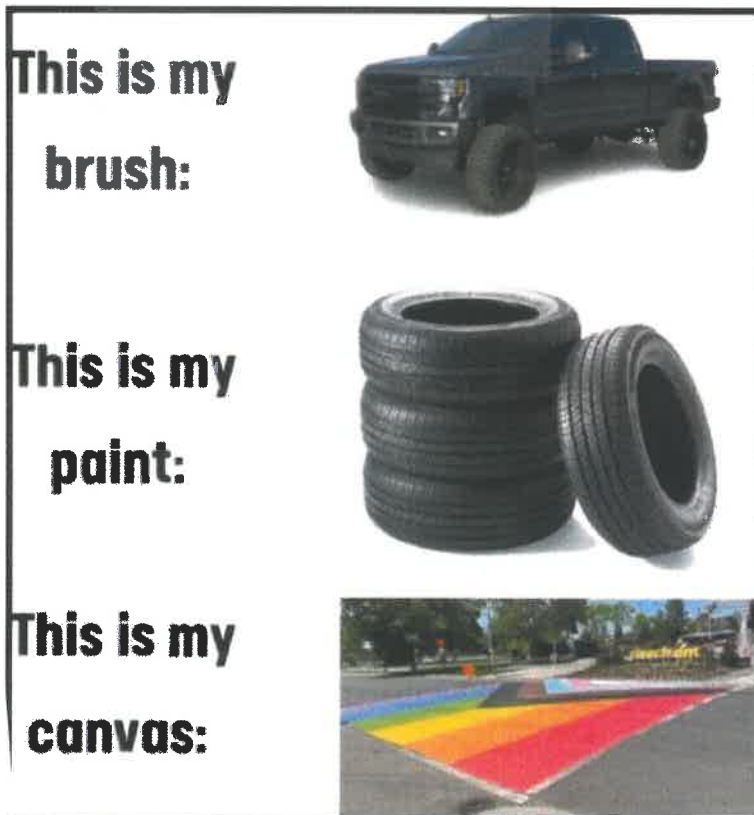

“Support Your Local Drag Queens”

“My Son is Gay If That’s A Problem Get Yourself Help”

There is an entire array of products promoting “furry pride” (i.e., people who identify as animals).

These are just some of the products which Walmart is selling under its “pride” label. Not only are these products a vile attack against God’s order and morality, many of them target innocent children. Our Lord warned against the danger of perverting children (Luke 17: 2), and these products are pushing blatant homosexual sin.

Please sign our urgent petition, demanding that Walmart end the sales of these scandalous products at once.

Idaho Saloon Under Fire For Celebrating 'Heterosexual Pride Month'

A popular Idaho saloon and restaurant is facing the wrath of the Alphabet Activists after the owner announced that June would be "Heterosexual Awesomeness Month."

Todd Starnes June 2, 2024

A popular Idaho saloon and restaurant is facing the wrath of the Alphabet Activists after the owner announced that June would be "Heterosexual Awesomeness Month."

"Come join us all month to celebrate heterosexuals," the Old State Saloon announced on Facebook, "for without them, none of us would be here! Each Monday will be Hetero Male Monday and any heterosexual male dressed like a heterosexual male will receive a free draft beer."

Michael Deeds, a writer for the Idaho Statesman, blasted the saloon in a nasty hit piece. He said it was "extremist" and "the last bar on Earth I'd ever want to drink a pint."

On Hetero Male Monday dudes who dress like dudes will get a free draft beer at Old State Saloon.

"How exactly does a customer dress like a heterosexual male," the writer asked.

At first blush, I'd say any thirsty fellows wearing buttless leather chaps and a crop top should probably be prepared to pay for their beers.

The saloon also announced that heterosexual couples will get 15 percent off their bill on Wednesdays and on Thursdays, heterosexual ladies get treated to free brews.

The Idaho Statesman writer blew a gasket and declared that Old State Saloon was blowing a dog whistle.

“Old State Saloon is promoting intolerance,” Deeds wrote. “It’s putting the ‘trans’ in transparent bigotry. This marketing gimmick is an insecure reaction to LGBTQ+ Pride Month, the annual celebration for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender pride in June.”

If anyone is engaged in intolerance, it’s the creators of LGBTQ+ Pride Month. They’re celebrating everyone except straight people. In contrast, the Old State Saloon is inviting everyone to celebrate.

“We hear lots of people are upset about Heterosexual Awesomeness Month,” the restaurant wrote on Facebook. “Please know: We love our LGBTQ+ patrons! We will not be changing our mind and give into the group of those who are responding with vitriol. ALL are welcome to come celebrate heterosexuality with us in June!”

That sounds might inclusive to me, folks.

Mark Fitzpatrick, the owner of the combo-saloon and kitchen and coffee house, said he will not be deterred by the newspaper’s umbrage. But he was put off by the fact that the writer did not bother to reach out for a comment.

“Idaho Statesman writes a hit piece on me and Old State Saloon and doesn’t even have the courage to call me for a quote,” Fitzpatrick said. “Michael Deeds is a decently talented writer. Too bad so much of it is just so immoral. Viewer discretion advised.”

“And for the record, I love all types of people, including the LGBTQ+ crowd,” he added. “I sincerely wish they all knew Jesus as their savior.”

By the way, on Saturdays anyone who buys a cup of coffee and is wearing a holstered sidearm gets a second cup free of charge. It’s call Open Carry Coffee.

I really need to visit Idaho, folks!

Christian Lifeguard Punished For Refusing to Raise Pride Flag

Todd Starnes June 3, 2024

Captain Jeffrey Little has been a member of the Los Angeles County Fire Department for more than 22 years. He served as a lifeguard captain.

In March the Board of Supervisors passed a resolution requiring all county-operated facilities to fly the progress pride flag.

Captain Little, who is a devout Christian, filed for a religious accommodation. He wanted an exemption from having to personally raise the flag.

That request was granted, but two days later the fire department rescinded the order.

His supervising officers—particularly Little’s division and section chiefs—ordered him to raise the Progress Pride Flag. In issuing a direct order to Little on June 22, 2023, Division Chief Fernando Boiteux told him, “You are an LA County employee, that’s the only thing that matters,” and, “Your religious beliefs do not matter.”

The following day he was removed from his position.

The Thomas More Society has filed a federal lawsuit against the fire department on behalf of Captain Little. They say the fire department’s actions are not only deeply un-American, but also flagrantly illegal.

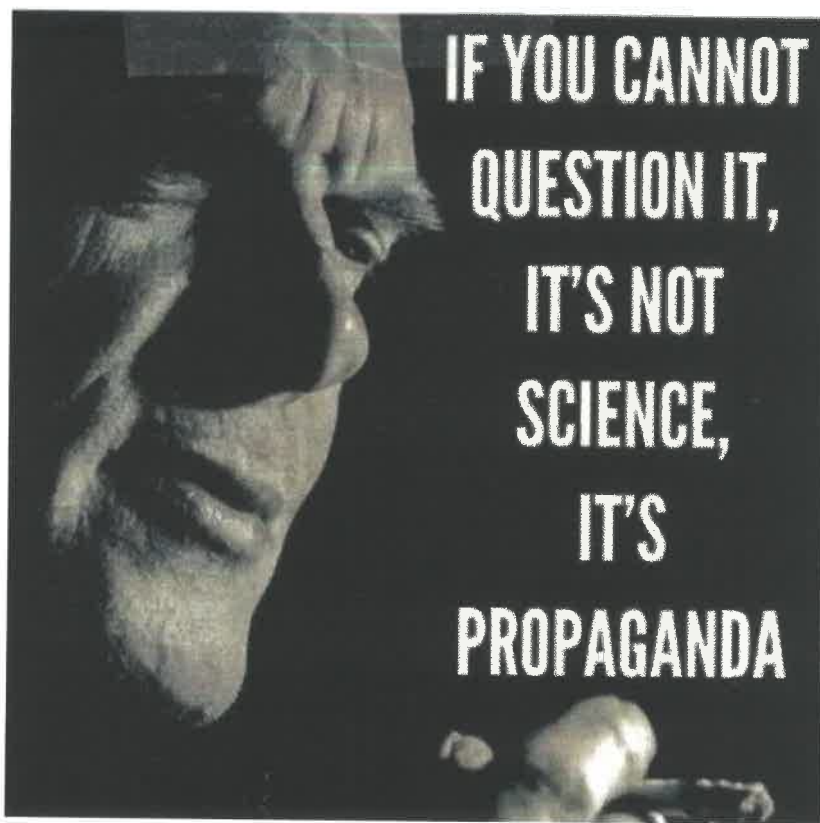

“Captain Jeffrey Little is an upstanding American, a devout Christian father, and a public servant who has honorably served the Los Angeles County Fire Department for over 22 years,” Thomas More attorney Paul Jonna told The Todd Starnes Radio Show. “He courageously stood on principle and asked for a simple religious accommodation—which he is rightfully and legally due—only to be first denied, then threatened, harassed, discriminated and retaliated against for his widely shared Christian religious beliefs.”

It’s as if the fire department has some sort of a litmus test to be employed.

“In our great country, Americans can’t even be forced to salute the American flag as a condition of government employment,” Jonna said. “Yet, in this case, the L.A. County Fire Department seeks to force Captain Little to personally raise the Progress Pride Flag in violation of his sincere and deeply held religious beliefs—or face termination.”

As I wrote in my new book, “Twilight’s Last Gleaming: Can America Be Saved,” you must bow down and pledge allegiance to the gay rights movement — or else. Click here to read my book.

“The L.A. County Fire Department’s actions are not only deeply un-American, but also flagrantly illegal. We’ve filed this federal lawsuit to vindicate Captain Little’s religious liberty rights and to firmly establish that this sort of blatant religious discrimination has no place in our public life,” the attorney added.

Electrician come to Repair lights for 72 year old, Then enlists entire community to fix Her Crumbling House - for free

Good News! (49)

Like many elderly Americans, Gloria Scott lives on a limited income. Sometimes, that means making hard choices. If money's tight, home repair and maintenance are often the first things to fall by the wayside.

When Scott's overhead light fixture went out, however, she decided living in the dark wouldn't do. Though she knew her budget would take a hit, she called in electrician John Kinney to make the necessary repairs.

Little did the 72-year-old know, she wasn't just getting an electrician, she was getting a knight in shining armor as well.

Deeply troubled by the extreme state of disrepair he found Scott's house in, Kinney couldn't get the woman's desperate situation out of his head. "No lights, running water... I [saw] her on a Friday and it stuck with me over the weekend... I said, 'I got to go back there,'" Kinney told CBS.

Rather than walk away, Kinney went back to Scott's place and started working on some other much-needed repairs—free of charge. But he didn't stop there.

Kinney set up a "Nice old lady needs help" Facebook page to solicit other local tradespeople to lend a hand as well. The enthusiastic response was pretty amazing.

With an impressive chunk of the Woburn, Massachusetts community rallying to the call, so far, Scott's home has gotten new electrical and plumbing systems, new windows, and extensive repairs to the crumbling walls, ceilings, front steps, and porch.

Meanwhile outside, as neighbors toiled on landscape cleanup and new planting projects, a steady flow of food donations streamed in to feed the volunteers.

To say Scott was blown away by the outpouring of generosity is an understatement. "Look at these people!" she exclaimed. "...[You] can't even comprehend the gratitude that I have."

The project was such a success, Kinney decided to take it to the next level. Naming the initiative Gloria's Gladiators, he hopes to inspire a legion of like-minded knights in shining armor—electric or otherwise—to help needy seniors in their own communities.
