April 2024

Greetings Family!

Another month has passed! Does it seem to all of you that days, weeks, months and years seem like a “blur” of motion in passing? I’m pretty certain it’s because events in the world are happening in such rapid succession that it seems to be almost in a “dream state” of mind.

Be that as it may folks, there can be no doubt that prophecy is being fulfilled at an increasingly rapid speed. As a matter of fact, I have just finished what, I believe to be, one of the most important teachings I have ever been blessed to teach. I don’t think I have ever made this statement before, but here goes. You will never understand the prophecy of the “end times” until you have heard the teaching, “America in Prophecy”! Three hours on CD or DVD! This one you need to get brothers and sisters! Once you understand this revelation, which is not a new one by any means, you will understand what is happening in the world! Hallelujah! How great our God is! Along with this teaching, you will want the booklet entitled, “The New Jerusalem is Not the Old Jerusalem”. We will send you the outline I used to put together this most important teaching also.

We love each of you in Christ our Saviour and King!

In Chris’s service,

Pastor Butch Paugh

They Don't Want A Nation Of Critical Thinkers

Authored by Jim Quinn via The Burning Platform blog.

When you read quotes from H.L. Mencken and John D. Rockefeller from over a century ago describing how government schools, in conspiracy with Big Business, had the sole purpose of matriculating non-thinking, non-questioning, standardized robotic workers into the workforce, you understand why the country is in such a state of degeneracy, degradation, debt, and dumbed down state of infantilism. This didn't happen over night.

"The aim of public education is not to spread enlightenment at all, it is simply to reduce as many individuals as possible to the same safe level, to breed and train a standardized citizenry, to put down dissent and originality." H. L. Mencken

"I don't want a nation of thinkers.
I want a nation of workers."

- John D. Rockefeller
Created the General Education Board (GEB) in 1903

It was a plan implemented methodically over the last century by those controlling the levers of society. They were described succinctly by Edward Bernays in his 1928 book Propaganda as:

"Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country. ...We are governed, our minds are molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of."

These men operate in the shadows; have enormous wealth which they use to buy politicians, academics, government bureaucrats, the media, international organizations, and technological platforms; and have a primary objective of increasing their wealth, power and control, while enslaving the working class in debt, and keeping them distracted with high tech bread and circuses. Even though a few slip through their net, educate themselves, think critically, question everything, and distrust their government, they probably comprise less than 5% of the population.

After decades of government indoctrination, propaganda, disinformation, and Big Corporation poisoning of mind and body, the ignorant masses have become so mentally and physically debilitated they are incapable of comprehending how they have been manipulated and misled and unequipped to revolt against their captors. The covid/vaccine scamdemic was the ultimate test, and the ignorant masses failed miserably. The noose is tightening and they are still focused on Taylor Swift, the stock market, climate change, border invasion, and ongoing presidential political clown show.

They have a number of irons in the fire to utilize in taking away more of your liberties, freedoms, rights, and wealth.

These irons include: possible war with Iran, Russia, and China; possible civil war initiated with Texas over the border invasion; the fake climate emergency; Disease X or some other fake health crisis; denying Trump the presidency in 2024 through illegal means; and whatever financial crisis they create as cover for more pillaging the national treasury.

The Great Taking/Great Reset is real. They want it all and they will take it, if we let them. You will own nothing, if they have their way. They have the power and will not relinquish it willingly. The power will need to be reclaimed through the use of force, cunning, and surprise. We can't let them set the rules of the conflict. The 5% constituting the critical thinkers will need to convince a portion of the ignorant masses to start thinking. We will need to throw sand into the gears of their machinery. The middle level bureaucrats doing the bidding of the elite ruling class, will need to worry about whether they will make it home at night to their families. Removing ourselves from their system will further degrade their system.

Apathy and passivity are no longer possible when they are trying to strip you of your wealth and force you into their digital gulag of CBDCs and social credit scores. Obedience to corrupt, powerful, psychopaths who want us dead is an unacceptable choice for me. Voting is absolutely worthless at this point. The politicians are not running anything. The system has been rigged to benefit the few, while impoverishing the rest. When they pull the plug on this system, they have "legally" arranged for all the wealth to be consolidated in their hands.

In 1964 the minimum wage was five 90% silver quarters.

In 2021 five 90% silver quarters have a melt value of $23.34. We don't need minimum wages We need sound money

The First Casualty of War Is Truth. And Propaganda is the First Weapon Used in Times of War

BY PATRICIA HARRITY ON FEBRUARY 3, 2024 • (5 COMMENTS)

"Propaganda is the way the ruling classes get the working classes to march off to war and how the billionaire CEOs of the multinational big Pharma, Big Medicine corporations (and Bill Gates, the CDC, the WHO, etc, etc) gets parents to willingly over-vaccinate their vulnerable, immune-compromised infants with vaccines that have never been subjected to FDA-approved, double-blind clinical trials to establish safety or efficacy, especially long-term!"

The above quote was written by Dr Kohls a retired rural family physician who has written a weekly column for the Reader Weekly, an alternative newsweekly magazine in Minnesota since his retirement in 2008.

What strikes me as interesting about the article is that it was published in his column, titled "Duty to Warn" in April 2020 and the various quotes that he highlights are from as early as 1929. Thus, meaning that despite the continual warnings concerning the use of propaganda, and also knowing that "whoever controls the media controls the mind", the masses are still glued to their televisions and are still falling for the lies.

German philosopher, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel, who lived from 1770 to 1831 was well aware back then that "We learn from history that we do not learn from history" and our self appointed leaders take full advantage of the fact!

Below is the article by Dr Gary Kohls.

The First Casualty of War Is Truth. And Propaganda is the First Weapon Used in Times of War.

By Dr. Gary G. Kohls,

When Edward Bernays (the nephew of Sigmund Freud) wrote his famous 1928 book, Propaganda, he titled the first chapter of the book "Organizing Chaos". The quotes below are taken directly from that chapter.

What was strikingly obvious to me in reading the book is that Bernays – in the year before the Great Wall Street Crash of 1929 – wasn't making any effort to sugar-coat the fact that he actually believes that propaganda is an essential and desirable fact of modern life.

I suspect that every corrupt crony capitalist that was responsible for the soon-to-occur 1929 Stock Market Crash and subsequent Great Depression heartily agreed with him in 1928.

There has always been an endless series of periodic, often orchestrated, economic crashes that have always harmed workers and destroyed small businesses and the middle class. Prior to the economic crises, the elite, wealthy propagandists (recall that well-done propaganda is very expensive to do) have consistently convinced the gullible public that prosperity is going to last forever and so they should invest heavily in the stock market. Then, just before the crash, the elite propagandists short-sell the market and profit while everybody else loses.

Propaganda has been widely used throughout history, long before Bernays wrote the book, but the propagandists usually don't identify it as such. Propagandists prefer to use terms like "public relations", "promotions", "publicity", "salesmanship", "marketing", and "press conferences" (in order to indoctrinate journalists), when "hype", "image management" and "manufacturing consent" is what is being sold to the propagandees.

Propaganda has been long used, over-used and abused in the advertising, public relations, political "science", medical, pharmaceutical and war industries. The first overlord in ancient history eventually realized that, in order to get his obedient subjects to do what he wanted them to do – without having to resort to torture, public crucifixions, the guillotine, fines, imprisonment or various police state tactics – propaganda could be effective in getting his subjects to even ruin their lives forever by marching off to war.

Having learned the lessons about how to rule from the first overlord, every king, dictator, president or Joint Chiefs of Staff could get their propagandized subjects to willingly send their sons off to war or at least pay the taxes required to fund the fighting. And the corrupt crony capitalist classes, the robber barons, the vulture capitalists, the Big Pharma, Big Medicine CEOs on Wall Street have found out how easy it is to freak out their potential customers over whatever ruse they can come up with so that they will willingly purchase their products and ideas.

I hope that readers will read the following Bernays quotes and then apply them whenever there is a war threatened, whenever a politician or president is proposing new legislation or there is an possibly manufactured pandemic crisis to capitalize on:

Probably the most telling admission from Bernays appears in the tenth paragraph of the first chapter:

"...the manipulation of news, the inflation of personality, and the general ballyhoo by which politicians and commercial products and social ideas are brought to the consciousness of the masses. The instruments by which public opinion is organized and focused may be misused. But such organization and focusing are necessary to orderly life."

And here are more quotes from Bernays:

"The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country.

"We are governed, our minds molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of. This is a logical result of the way in which our democratic society is organized. Vast numbers of human beings must cooperate in this manner if they are to live together as a smoothly functioning society."

"Our invisible governors are, in many cases, unaware of the identity other fellow members in the inner cabinet."

"They govern us by their qualities of natural leadership, their ability to supply needed ideas and by their key position in the social structure. ... In almost every act of our daily lives, whether in the sphere of politics or business, in our social conduct or our ethical thinking, we are dominated by the relatively small number of persons – a trifling fraction of our hundred and twenty million – who understand the mental processes and social patterns of the masses. It is they who pull the wires which control the public mind..."

"It is not usually realized how necessary these invisible governors are to the orderly functioning of our group life. In theory, every citizen may vote for whom he pleases. Our Constitution does not envisage political parties as part of the mechanism of government ... But the American voters soon found that without organization and direction their individual votes, cast, perhaps, for dozens of hundreds of candidates, would produce nothing but confusion."

"Invisible government, in the shape of rudimentary political parties, arose almost overnight. Ever since then we have agreed, for the sake of simplicity and practicality, that party machines should narrow down the field of choice to two candidates, or at most three or four."

"In theory, every citizen makes up his mind on public questions and matters of private conduct. In practice, if all men had to study for themselves the abstruse economic, political and ethical data involved in every question, they would find it impossible to come to a conclusion about anything. We have voluntarily agreed to let an invisible government sift the data and high-spot the outstanding issues so that our field of choice shall be narrowed to practical proportions."

"From our leaders and the media they use to reach the public, we accept the evidence and the demarcation of issues bearing upon public questions; from some ethical teacher, be it a minister, a favorite essayist, or merely prevailing opinion, we accept a standardized code of social conduct to which we conform most of the time."

"It might be better to have, instead of propaganda and special pleading, committees of wise men who would choose our rulers, dictate our conduct, private and public, and decide upon the best types of clothes for us to wear and the best kinds of food for us to eat. But we have chosen the opposite method, that of open competition. We must find a way to make free competition function with reasonable smoothness; To achieve this society has consented to permit free competition to be organized by leadership and propaganda.”

“As civilization has become more complex, and as the need for invisible government has been increasingly demonstrated, the technical means have been invented and developed by which opinion may be regimented.”

“With the printing press and the newspaper, the railroad, the telephone, telegraph, radio and airplanes, ideas can be spread rapidly and even instantaneously all over the whole of America.”

“It is the purpose of this book to explain the structure of the mechanism which controls the public mind, and to tell how it is manipulated by the special pleader who seeks to create public acceptance for a particular idea or commodity.”

In 1965, Jacques Ellul, French author, philosopher, theologian, legal scholar, and sociologist published Propaganda: The Formation of Men's Attitudes (1965).

In the preface to that book, Konrad Kellen writes:

“Most people are easy prey for propaganda ... But modern propaganda has long disdained the ridiculous lies of past and outmoded forms of propaganda. It operates instead with many different kinds of truth – half truth, limited truth, truth out of context. Even Josef Goebbels (the Nazi Party's Minister of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment) always insisted that the Wehrmacht communiques be as accurate as possible.”

In the introduction of his book, Ellul writes:

“In the midst of increasing mechanization and technological organization, propaganda is simply the means used ... to persuade man to submit with good grace. When man ... will end by obeying with enthusiasm, convinced of the excellence of what he is forced to do, the constraint of the organizations will no longer be felt by him; the truth is, it will no longer be a constraint, and the police will have nothing to do. The civic and technological good will and the enthusiasm for the right social myths – both created by propaganda – will finally have solved the problem of man.”

In the body of the book, Ellul writes:

“To make the organization of propaganda possible, the media must be concentrated, the number of news agencies reduced, the press brought under single control, and radio and film monopolies established. The effect will be still greater if the various media are concentrated in the same hands. When a newspaper trust (ie, monopoly) also extends its control over films and radio, propaganda can be directed at the masses and the individual can be caught in the wide net of media.”

“Only through concentration in a few hands of a large number of media can one attain a true orchestration, a continuity, and an application of scientific methods of influencing individuals. A state monopoly, or a private (corporate) monopoly, is equally effective. Such a situation is in the making in the United States, France, and Germany – the fact is well known.”

“The number of newspapers decreases while the number of readers increases. Production costs constantly increase and necessitate greater concentration; all statistics converge on that. This concentration itself keeps accelerating, thus making the situation increasingly favorable to propaganda. Of course, one must not conclude from this that the concentration of mass media inevitably produces propaganda. Such concentration is merely a prerequisite for it. But that the media be concentrated is not enough; it is also necessary that the individual will listen to them. This seems to be a truism: 'Why produce a propaganda paper if nobody will buy it?'

"In reality, propaganda is at work here, for what is involved is a progression from vague, diffuse opinion on the part of the reader to rigorous, exciting, active expression of that opinion. A feeling or an impression is transformed into a motive for action. Confused thoughts are crystallized. Myths and the reader's conditioned reflexes are reinforced if he reads that paper. All this is characteristic of propaganda. The reader is really subject to propaganda, even though it be propaganda of his choice. Propaganda is a means of reinforcing opinions, of transforming them into action. The reader himself offers his throat to the knife of the propaganda he chooses."

Under the section of the book, titled The Need of an Average Standard of Living, Ellul writes:

"More advanced propaganda can influence only a man who is not completely haunted by poverty, a man who can view things from a certain distance and be reasonably unconcerned about his daily bread, and who therefore can take an interest in more general matters and mobilize his actions for purposes other than merely earning a living. It is well known that in Western countries propaganda is particularly effective in the upper segment of the working class and in the middle classes. It faces much greater problems with the proletariat or the peasantry."

Then, in another of my handful of books that deal with propaganda, Weapons of Mass Deception: The Uses of Propaganda in Bush's War on Iraq, (2003), authors Sheldon Rampton & John Stauber write:

"Propagandists view communications as a set of techniques for indoctrinating 'target audiences' whereas the democratic concept of communication defines it as an ongoing process of dialogue among diverse voices. Of course, the propaganda approach becomes more attractive during wartime, when each side (of the issue) becomes preoccupied with manipulating and coercing the thinking of their enemy or domestic population (including was on viruses, perhaps). The propagandist wants to promote his or her own interests or those of an organization – sometimes at the expense of the recipients, sometimes not. The point is that the propagandist does not regard the well-being of the audience as a primary concern. Propagandists also tend to have a low regard for the rationality and intelligence of their audience."

"The audience that thinks critically and is prepared to challenge (the propagandist's) message becomes a problem that must be overcome. Whereas democracy is built upon the assumption that 'the people' are capable of rational self-governance, propagandists regard rationality as an obstacle to efficient indoctrination. Since propaganda is often aimed at persuading people to do things that are not in their own best interests, it frequently seeks to bypass the rational brain altogether and manipulate us on a more primitive level, appealing to emotional symbolism."

"Fear is one of the most primitive emotions in the human psyche, and it definitely keeps us watching (television)."

Then Rampton and Stauber quotes Hermann Goering just before he commits suicide during the Nuremberg Trials of Nazi war criminals in 1946:

"Why of course the people don't want war. Why should some poor slob on a farm want to risk his life in a war when the best he can get out of it is to come back to his farm in one piece? Naturally the common people don't want war; neither in Russia, nor in England, nor in America, nor in Germany. That is understood. But it is the leaders of the country who determine policy, and it is always a simple matter to drag the people along, whether it is a democracy, or a fascist dictatorship, or a parliament, or a communist dictatorship. Voice or no voice, the people can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. That is easy. All you have to do is to tell them they are being attacked and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and exposing the country to danger. It works the same in any country.” — Hermann Goering, head of the Nazi army’s equivalent of the US Joint Chiefs of Staff – April 18, 1946. Committed suicide during Nuremberg trials.

RED DAWN ALERT: Chinese agents are being sent across Mexican border to prepare for attacks on U.S. soil

02/15/2024 // Cassie B.

The Chinese Communist Party is currently taking advantage of lax border controls to put the infrastructure in place in America to attack us from our own soil.

Gatestone Institute Distinguished Senior Fellow Gordon G. Chang recently outlined a number of very compelling signs that such attacks are in the works. One is video posted on X showing recently arrived Chinese migrants firing pistols, including a Chinese woman operating a sniper rifle.

Chinese citizens cannot possess firearms and the migrants had only been on U.S. soil for three weeks. As Chang points out, it seems like an odd way to spend one's time immediately after arriving to a new country with nothing to your name. Most migrants are worried about where they will live and where their next meal will come from; working on shooting skills normally doesn't fit into these plans.

He wrote: "You would not, within weeks of entering your new homeland, be sharpening your skills to kill. You would not be thinking of killing unless... that is what you came to do."

This is supported by comments by retired Air Force General Blaine Holt, who reports that Chinese migrants are also carrying out target practice in Idaho, where he lives.

He said that tens of thousands of men of military age have already made their way into the U.S., including terrorists and state actors working for the People's Liberation Army of China.

"As we speak, these actors are training, making plans and obtaining weapons, watching our patterns and learning our vulnerabilities."

"We are vulnerable to attack," he added. "Our enemies eagerly wait."

Secret Chinese bioweapon lab found in California

Further evidence of the CCP setting up infrastructure to attack the U.S. was seen when authorities uncovered a secret Chinese bioweapon lab near Fresno, California.

More than 20 pathogens were found there, including for Ebola, along with nearly 1,000 mice they had genetically engineered to spread diseases, perhaps in hopes of having agents transport the mice throughout the nation to cause widespread infections.

And that's just what we know about -- many experts believe there could well be more labs just like it that have yet to be discovered.

Chinese migrants not receiving proper vetting upon arrival

Chinese migrants are the fastest-growing group of people trying to cross into America via Mexico. The number of encounters with such individuals more than doubled from January to November of 2023 compared to the same time period the year before, climbing from 25,397 to 59,642.

Some reporters have noted that Chinese men of military age are often traveling in groups of up to 15, unaccompanied, and performing Chinese military rituals along the way.

Although some migrants are turned away, China often refuses to take them back and the U.S. has no way of forcing them to do so. According to the Department of Justice, 55% of Chinese migrants were given asylum last year; the figure for migrants from other countries is just 14%.

Customs and Border Protection recently relaxed the screening process used for people from China entering the country to make it easier to process them, and lawmakers have warned that this is putting national security at great risk.

They reduced the number of questions that processors must ask Chinese migrants from 40 to just five, which means that it will be far easier for those who intend to harm us to make their way into the country.

In a statement, the House Select Committee on the Chinese Communist Party said the move was "unacceptable," adding: "Americans do not want America's foremost adversary facilitating the flow of fentanyl into our country or sending thousands of people across our border illegally. President Biden needs to secure the border now."

Gang Members Outnumber Police 22 To 1 In The City Of Chicago, And The Ratio Just Keeps Getting Worse

MICHAEL SNYDER

MAR 6

The city of Chicago has become a time bomb, and it is a prime example of a very disturbing trend that is happening all over America. Criminal gangs are thriving in most of our major urban areas, and Joe Biden's open border policies are greatly fueling their growth. With each passing day, more deeply impoverished young migrants pour into our cities, and many of them are quickly recruited by gangs. It would be difficult for me to overstate the seriousness of this crisis, but it is largely being ignored by the mainstream media.

A number of years ago I wrote about the gang problem in Chicago, and at that time gang members outnumbered police by 10 to 1.

Unfortunately, things have gotten so much worse since then.

Today, the CPD has identified more than 280,000 gang members in the city of Chicago...

The Chicago Police Department maintains two massive gang databases, collectively labeling more than 280,000 people as "gang members." 95% of those people listed are people of color, most being young men in their late teens and 20s, but also thousands being Black and Latinx youth and elders.

That is the size of a small army!

And it is important to note that these are just the individuals that the CPD has been able to identify and put into their databases.

There are undoubtedly more that they don't know about or have not been able to identify.

Meanwhile, the size of the CPD has been hovering just above 12,000...

However, the size of the Chicago Police Department was essentially unchanged on Johnson's 100th day in office as compared with his first day in office. CPD had 12,360 employees on Johnson's first full day in office and 12,363 employees on Monday, according to a city database. The number of sworn officers has also remained steady, with 11,720 officers on duty as of May 1, and 11,722 on the force as of Aug. 1, according to a database maintained by the Chicago Police Department.

Once I had the numbers, I did the math, and I discovered that gang members now outnumber police in the city of Chicago by a ratio of 22 to 1.

So it should come as no surprise that major crime in the Windy City was way up in 2023...

Overall major crime was up in 2023 by 16%, with robberies up 23%. There is likely significant underreporting of crimes given police shortages. Over half of "high priority" 911 calls did not have an officer available to respond when the call came in. This is a huge increase compared to 2019, when 19% of all calls didn't have an officer available.

Memphis is another city that has an absolutely massive gang problem.

It is being reported that the mayor recently met with gang leaders and "asked them to agree to a seven-day ceasefire"...

The mayor of Memphis, Tennessee, met with local gang leaders and asked them to agree to a seven-day ceasefire. as crime has seemingly spiraled out of control in the city.

The mayor said that he had talks, not "negotiations," with Memphis gang leaders, with community representatives adding that the number of gangs in the city has also become a problem in itself.

A seven day ceasefire?

That sounds like something that would happen in the Middle East.

But of course the truth is that Memphis really has become a war zone.

If you can believe it, over 3,500 property crimes were reported in Memphis during the month of January alone...

The gang members told the mayor a recent "epidemic of car break-ins" was simply due to their younger gang members being bored and having nothing to do.

Including the break-ins, more than 3,500 property crimes were reported in January 2024 alone, according to police statistics.

Yesterday, I wrote an article about how wonderful the state of Tennessee is, but I also warned my readers to avoid the Memphis area entirely.

It really is that bad.

The Atlanta metropolitan area is also caught in a downward spiral. Crime is completely out of control, and over the weekend a massive riot that involved hundreds of young people made headlines all over the nation...

One person was shot when suspects opened fire on police during a riot involving hundreds of 'youths' at a Six Flags amusement park in Georgia over the weekend, according to reports.

The shocking string of events unfolded on Saturday evening in Austell, a city in the Atlanta metro region.

Thousands of people turned out for opening day at Six Flags Over Georgia before the event devolved into extreme mob violence.

Hundreds of mostly-younger guests began fighting and sowing chaos throughout the park, forcing evacuations as security lost control of the crowd.

We wanted to push every shred of traditional morality out of our schools.

So the truth is that we have brought this on ourselves.

Our young people didn't have to turn out this way. If we had raised them differently we would have gotten different results.

Right now, the state of California is experiencing an absolutely relentless crime wave, and authorities are telling us that approximately 300,000 gang members currently reside there...

The California Department of Justice estimates that there could be as many as 300,000 gang members in this state.

California has had a problem with crime for decades, but never anything like this.

According to one recent survey, a whopping 86 percent of business owners in the state believe "that crime has increased in their area"...

More than 86% of business owners in California say that crime has increased in their area, while 67% from the same survey claimed to be considering moving their headquarters out of the Golden State, according to the latest numbers from RedBalloon and PublicSq.'s Freedom Economy Index.

At this point, I don't know why anyone would still want to live there.

Two California business owners that were interviewed by Fox News explained why they are thinkin' of leavin'...

"The building where I have my office has just installed floodlights throughout the parking lot, installed new doors and upgraded the security system to improve safety," Carvalho detailed. "Throughout the neighborhood, there are signs reminding people not to leave valuables in their cars."

"It used to be this very nice town, now it is just horrible," Falwell said. "We have been in our home for 17 years, we have had mail theft. The crime has impacted my desire to even leave my house or business."

When crime is so bad that you don't even want to leave your own home, it is definitely time to look for greener pastures.

Of course the truth is that crime is getting worse virtually everywhere, and the open border policies of the Biden administration are certainly not helping matters.

This week, we learned that the Biden administration has actually been flying hundreds of thousands of “asylum seekers” directly into the United States...

*A Freedom of Information Act lawsuit has revealed that the Biden administration has flown at least 320,000 migrants into the United States in an effort to reduce the number of crossings at the southern border, according to Todd Bensman of the Center for Immigration Studies.

“The program at the center of the FOIA litigation is perhaps the most enigmatic and least-known of the Biden administration’s uses of the CBP One cellphone scheduling app, even though it is responsible for almost invisibly importing by air 320,000 aliens with no legal right to enter the United States since it got underway in late 2022,” wrote Bensman.

Customs and Border Protection (CBP) had initially refused to disclose information about the flights, which use a cell phone app, CBP One, to arrange. “Under these legally dubious parole programs, aliens who cannot legally enter the country use the CBP One app to apply for travel authorization and temporary humanitarian release from those airports. The parole program allows for two-year periods of legal status during which adults are eligible for work authorization,” Bensman continues.

Overall, it is being estimated that there will be over 8 million “asylum seekers” living in the U.S. “by the end of September”...

More than 8 million asylum seekers and other migrants will be living inside the U.S in legal limbo by the end of September — a roughly 167% increase in five years, according to internal government projections obtained by Axios.

We are witnessing a spike in migration that is unlike anything we have ever seen before.

And this is one of the primary reasons why gangs are experiencing such explosive growth.

The stage is being set for societal chaos on an epic scale.

Unfortunately, there is no turning back now. Our leaders have been making disastrous decisions for a long time, and those disastrous decisions are going to have extremely bitter consequences.

The Alleged superpower, USA, No Longer Has a Military

Guest Post by Paul Craig Roberts

West Point Drops “Duty, Honor, Country” from Its Motto and Replaces It with “Army Values” in Its Mission Statement

Does this mean that “duty, honor, country” are no longer Army values?

Are we moving toward a military academy whose values will be transformed in keeping with the woke ideology that has taken over the universities, public schools, Democrat Party, corporations, and media? Will the academy’s values be “transgenderism, equity, and open borders”?

Time will tell.

We can see why honor and country have to go. The last time the US military fought a war that could be claimed was “defending the country” was World War II. The Korean War was about preventing unification of Korea under the communists. The Vietnam War was about this and also defending the “Domino theory.” The Middle East wars were fought for the benefit of Israel. The Ukraine war was orchestrated as a strategy against Russia. The Israeli-Hamas war was intended to be a prelude for an attack on Iran. Actually, all wars are fought for the benefit of the power and profit of the US military/security complex.

Most of these wars were about bombing women and children. The notion that these murdered women and children were a threat to the United States is so far-fetched as to be insane.

The question before us concerned civilians of the United States and the military veterans and retired officers is: Who is it that is destroying the US Military and its traditional values?

The US military has turned off real warriors. The US military today is a tower of babel. There is no unity between heterosexual white males mainly from the South, and sexual perverts, feminists, people of color, and the higher command that restricts white heterosexual promotions and requires its only warriors to submit to “sensitivity training.” Sensitivity training means one thing only: that a white person must accept that compared to “people of color” you are a second class citizen.

This is the American world today. Little wonder no military service can meet its recruitment needs and is talking about enrolling immigrant-invaders to “defend” the country they themselves have violated.

“Duty, honor, country” to be displaced by “Army Values” is for me and my generation a sacrilege. To witness the Superintendent of West Point, the Biden Secretary of the Army, and the Secretary of Defense submit to, or is it to orchestrate, this sacrilege tells me that the future purpose of the US military is not to protect the United States of America from invasion, but to serve the interests of the ruling elite.

Indeed, the current tyrannical regime in Washington has declared open borders and is flooding America with immigrant-invaders. The same tyrants asserting American hegemony are pellmell destroying America.

And dumbshit Americans will vote for this anti-white, anti-American regime that is destroying them. A country half of whose population is committed to its own destruction is already destroyed.

The standard US ammo belt was 27 feet long (nine yards) this is where the expression “the whole nine yards” comes from

Communist Rules for Revolution

These rules were captured in Dusseldorf, Germany May, 1919, by Allied Forces.

A. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of ALL means of publicity and thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays, and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and obloquy [blame].

4. Always preach true democracy but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government EXTRAVAGANCE, DESTROY ITS CREDIT, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders, and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7. By specious [pleasing] argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues: honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

C. Cause the REGISTRATION of ALL firearms on some pretext, with a view to CONFISCATE them and leaving the population helpless. And hopeless.

Note: "The above 'Rules for Revolution' were secured by the State Attorney's office from a known member of the Communist Party, who acknowledged it to be still a part of the Communist program for overthrowing our Government." - George A. Brautigam, State Attorney, State of Florida.

Examine each point of the Communist 'Rules for Revolution,' and you will find they are ALL being used against us today. One of the clearest points was to become EXTRAVAGANT IN OUR GOVERNMENT SPENDING!!! Obama alone has produced the largest deficit spending in the history of the world!

V. I. Lenin Said

"As long as capitalism and socialism exist we CANNOT LIVE IN PEACE; in the end, one or the other will triumph. A funeral dirge will be sung over either the Soviet Republics or world capitalism" (V. I. Lenin, Selected Works, Vol VII, p. 298).

Declaration by Dimitry Manuilski
Professor at the Lenin School of Political Warfare in Moscow, 1937

"War to the hilt between communism and capitalism is inevitable. Today, of course, we are not strong enough to attack. Our time will come ... To win, we shall need the element of surprise. The Western world will have to be put to sleep. So we shall BEGIN by launching the most SPECTACULAR PEACE MOVEMENT ON RECORD. There shall be ELECTRICITY OVERTURES AND UNHEARD OF CONCESSIONS. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate TO THEIR OWN DESTRUCTION. They will leap at another chance to be friends. As soon as their guard is down, we shall SMASH THEM WITH OUR CLENCHED FIST."

Vladimir Lenin stated: "THE CAPITALIST OF THE WORLD AND THEIR GOVERNMENTS, IN THE PURSUIT OF CONQUEST OF THE SOVIET MARKET, WILL CLOSE THEIR EYES TO THE INDICATED HIGHER REALITY, AND WILL THUS TURN INTO DEAF, MUTE, BLIND MEN, THEY WILL EXTEND CREDITS, AND GIVING US THE MATERIALS AND TECHNOLOGY WE LACK, INDISPENSABLE FOR OUR SUPPLIERS. IN OTHER WORDS, THEY WILL LABOR FOR THE PREPARATION FOR THEIR OWN SUICIDE."

What Do Justin Trudeau And Kristi Noem Have In Common?

What Do Justin Trudeau And Kristi Noem Have In Common? They Both Want To Put You In Jail For Having Unpopular Opinions

The left and right sides of an ellipse are descriptive of Left and Right politics. At the top of the ellipse is Liberty. At the bottom of the ellipse is Tyranny. Republicans and Democrats spend most of their time arguing over things that fall in the middle of the ellipse.

I define Tyranny as anything that promotes the power of the state to control people's lives and liberties beyond the Natural Laws of our Creator. I define Liberty as anything that constrains the power of the state to control people's lives and liberties beyond the Natural Laws of our Creator.

The problem with so many people from both the political Left and the political Right is that, regardless of their differences over middle elliptical issues, they meet in unison at the bottom of the ellipse. Both Trump and Biden, Republicans and Democrats, want to use the power of government to coerce, intimidate or force the American citizenry to do what THEY want us to do. Whether we agree or not with either side is irrelevant. The fact that we would allow them to exercise governmental power to enforce THEIR personal opinions upon us should be anathema to any true freedomist.

And there are no God-ordained liberties more precious to free men and women than the freedom of speech and the freedom of religion (conscience).

And there is currently a perfect depiction of what I said above being played out before our very eyes with the Leftist Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and South Dakota's conservative governor, Kristi Noem.

The Liberal Justin Trudeau

The Canadian government is rapidly advancing plans to usher in full-blown tyranny and will soon begin sentencing citizens to life in prison if they are found guilty of committing the "crime" of so-called "hate."

Many are likening the new laws to George Orwell's dystopian novel "1984" as Canada will soon start handing out severe penalties for wrongthink.

The push for life sentences is part of "liberal" Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's "anti-hate" legislation.

The shocking new law, buried in bill C-6, states:

*Everyone who commits an offense under this act or any other act of Parliament, if the commission of the offense is motivated by hatred based on race, national or ethnic origin, language, color, religion, sex, age, mental or physical disability, sexual orientation or gender identity or expression, is guilty of an indictable offense and liable to imprisonment for life.

The new law from Canada comes as Trudeau's World Economic Forum-controlled administration seeks to rapidly advance the nation's descent into globalist tyranny.

The government has been pushing several new laws that seek to strip the public of their freedoms.

As Slay News reported, among the draconian new laws are powers that allow authorities to begin jailing citizens who "might" commit a crime.

Trudeau's government is pushing for the new "pre-crime" authority which officials claim will help to tackle so-called "hate crimes."

\(Source\)

Naturally, conservatives on the right side of the ellipse are aghast and angry at such a tyrannical proposal—and justifiably so. There is no question that Fidel Castro's Canadian son wants to turn our northern neighbor into a cold-climate communist state like the balmy prison island of Cuba.

But now let's visit the other side of the ellipse, the right side, the conservative side.

The Conservative Kristi Noem

In signing a draconian, tyrannical "hate" law of her own in South Dakota, USA, Governor Kristi Noem (on the short list to be Trump's running mate) said the following \(reported by Chris Menahan at InfoWars\):

When I was growing up, my dad would always gather our family together and we would pray for Israel. It was instilled in me from a very young age that the Jews were Gods [sic] chosen people, that Israel was the Holy Land, and that we should always pray for them.

I brought those fundamental ideals with me when I was in the State Legislature, when I served in Congress, and now as Governor of South Dakota. Supporting the State of Israel and our Jewish community has always been extremely important to me. It's important to support Israel for spiritual, historical, and national security reasons. I am continuing to stand with the Jewish people by signing historic legislation to protect them from antisemitism.

I was very proud to sign HB 1076, a very important bill to combat antisemitism. This bill defines antisemitism and makes it easier to prove when discriminatory conduct is motivated by antisemitism. It is an impactful piece of legislation that will ensure the safety of Jewish people and strengthen South Dakota's anti-discrimination laws.

We held a beautiful, moving signing ceremony for this bill in the Rotunda of our State Capitol in Pierre. Many prominent Jewish leaders attended, including Elan Carr, the CEO of the Israeli-American Council for Action, nationally renowned Jewish leader and founder of the Jacobson Society Dan Rosen, Rabbi and Director of the National Jewish Advocacy Center Dr. Mark Goldfeder, Rabbi Mendel Alperowitz of the Chabad Jewish Center of South Dakota, Renie Schreiber on behalf of Yinam Cohen, Consul General of Israel to the Midwest, and Jordan Cope from Stand With Us. A few of our special guests said some words about the impact this legislation will have for the Jewish people.

This bill puts the gold standard International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance [IHRA] definition of antisemitism into state law.

I hope that more states across our great nation will follow this example that we are setting here in South Dakota. It is more important now than ever for our nation's leaders to stand up and fight against antisemitism. We must always work to ensure the security of God's chosen people.

Menahan writes:

The IHRA's definition of anti-Semitism is completely antithetical to the First Amendment.

The IHRA defines anti-Semitism as:

- Making mendacious, dehumanizing, demonizing, or stereotypical allegations about Jews as such or the power of Jews as collective — such as, especially but not exclusively, the myth about a world Jewish conspiracy or of Jews controlling the media, economy, government or other societal institutions.
- Accusing Jews as a people of being responsible for real or imagined wrongdoing committed by a single Jewish person or group, or even for acts committed by non-Jews.
- Denying the fact, scope, mechanisms (e.g. gas chambers) or intentionality of the genocide of the Jewish people at the hands of National Socialist Germany and its supporters and accomplices during World War II (the Holocaust).
- Accusing the Jews as a people, or Israel as a state, of inventing or exaggerating the Holocaust.
- Accusing Jewish citizens of being more loyal to Israel, or to the alleged priorities of Jews worldwide, than to the interests of their own nations.
- Denying the Jewish people their right to self-determination, e.g., by claiming that the existence of a State of Israel is a racist endeavor.
- Applying double standards by requiring of it a behavior not expected or demanded of any other democratic nation.
- Using the symbols and images associated with classic antisemitism (e.g., claims of Jews killing Jesus or blood libel) to characterize Israel or Israelis.

No other ethnic or religious group in America is afforded any such privileges.

Notice that virtually everything in this list defining "antisemitism" focuses on speech, attitudes or thoughts. "Allegations." "Accusing." "Denying." "Accusing." "Accusing." "Denying." "Applying." "Using." All of this refers to speech, attitudes or thoughts.

Kristi Noem is abusing the power of government in an attempt to deny people their First Amendment freedom of speech and freedom of religion.

If Noem wants to believe that the Ashkenazi Jews in the Middle East are "God's Chosen People," it is her religious right to believe that. And if she wants to publicly say she believes that, the freedom of speech gives her the right to do so.

BUT . . .

1. That doesn't mean she is right; in fact, she is NOT right. The Ashkenazi Jews in Palestine today are no more God's Chosen People and the blood descendants of Abraham than you or me or the man in the moon.

2. That doesn't give her the right or authority to force people to believe as she does, to share her religious persuasion or to use the power of government to punish them for taking a contrary position.

For your information, Kristi,

I DO believe that the popular scope ascribed to the German Holocaust IS "exaggerated."

I DO believe that Jewish Zionism IS a radical racist ideology—and so do many Israelis, by the way.

I DO believe that Zionist Jews DO have an extraordinary influence over our media, Federal Reserve, government and societal institutions—and it appears that by signing this bill, Kristi, you are proving my assertion.

And, yes, I also believe that the Jews who coerced and manipulated Pontius Pilate to crucify Jesus ARE blood libel for His death. As a matter of fact, Kristi, the Pharisees and Jews that murdered Jesus admitted their liability for Christ's death when they shouted, "His blood be on us, and on our children." (Matthew 27:25)

If I lived in South Dakota, I suppose I would be guilty of a "hate" crime and open to government reprisal.

So, how are Noem and Trudeau any different? Both of them want to use the power and force of government to punish people for exercising their God-ordained freedom of religion and freedom of speech in a manner that doesn't comport with theirs.

Noem's tyrannical "hate" bill is not motivated by greed and ambition, using this bill as a means of holding her hand out to the Israeli lobbyists for more campaign cash, is it?

Ditto Trudeau's tyrannical "hate" bill?

Naw!

Left. Right. Liberal. Conservative. Secularist. Religious. It all spells tyranny if they are meeting at the bottom of the ellipse, as Justin Trudeau and Kristi Noem are doing right now.

The Rule of Law

“At this point, what difference does it make?”

By Ken Culp

In order to distract the public's attention from all of these issues leading up to the 2016 election, Hillary and the DNC paid $2,000,000 to fund "opposition research" (i.e. the Russian Dossier) from a discredited British spy, in order to claim that Donald Trump was a Russian agent. The FBI then leaked this information to the press and then used the news stories, along with the Russian Dossier, to obtain a FISA warrant to spy on the Trump campaign and later on the Trump Administration. This was done even though the FBI and the Justice Department knew that the Dossier was false and that it was "opposition research" paid for by the DNC and Hillary Clinton. After Hillary lost the election, it was then used as the basis for the Mueller Investigation which lasted 18 months and cost $30,000,000. No charges were ever filed against any member of Trumps Administration in relation to the alleged "Russian Collusion."

Was anybody ever prosecuted for lying to the FISA Court? No, because "At this point, what difference does it make?"

In the early days of the Trump Administration, the FBI sent two agents, Strzok and Priestap, to ambush Lt. General Michael Flynn, who Trump had selected to be in charge of national security. They told him that he did not need to have a lawyer present as this was just an informal "meet and greet." They filed a "302 Form" indicating that Mr. Flynn had not lied to them about a telephone call he had with the Russian government. However, in an effort to have General Flynn removed from his position, the 302 Form was revised four times by the Justice Department to indicate that General Flynn had lied to the FBI. They used this to get Trump to fire General Flynn and the Justice Department spent the next three years prosecuting General Flynn. They even threatened to prosecute his son if he did not plead guilty. His defense team was never able to obtain a copy of the original 302 Form. When an independent attorney for the Justice Department determined that the charges against General Flynn should be dropped because he had been framed by the FBI and the Justice Department, the judge refused to dismiss the case.

The "Deep State" wanted General Flynn removed because he was going to have the intelligence departments audited and he knew "where all the bodies were buried," but "At this point, what difference does it make?"

Chelsea Clinton, daughter of Bill and Hillary Clinton, is now reportedly worth $30 million. Half of this is attributed to her husband, but that means that Chelsea has managed to accumulate $15 million, after taxes, over the last 10 years. How did she earn enough money to save $15 million? At least $9 million came from a “board of directors” job at IAC, an investment firm founded by Barry Diller, who contributed $400,000 to Hillary’s presidential campaign. She also earned $250,000 per year by sitting on the Board of Directors at Expedia and $600,000 per year for two years from NBC. She reportedly made some money by selling children’s books.

Sounds like payback to me but “At this point, what difference does it make?”

During the Obama Administration, the Justice Department, under Eric Holder, illegally ran guns to Mexican Drug Cartels. It was referred to as “Fast & Furious” and resulted in one American border patrol agent, as well as hundreds, if not thousands, of Mexicans being killed at the hands of the Mexican drug cartels. The Obama Administration sent $1.5 billion to Iran via U.S. Military airplanes. Why did the Obama Administration fund the world’s largest terrorist organization? Iran claimed that a portion of this money was used as kickbacks to world leaders. Why did the Obama administration trade five top Taliban leaders for Bowe Berghdahl, a deserter? Was it to keep ISIS from disclosing the fact that the Obama administration was secretly running guns to ISIS which is treasonous?

I guess it doesn't matter, because “At this point, what difference does it make?”

The Obama Administration paid $834 million to a “company friendly to Obama” to write the ACA websites that never worked. A program that could have been written for $2 million and it would have worked. The Obama Administration loaned $535 million to a failing company called Solyndra, one of whose largest investors was an Obama fundraiser, shortly before it collapsed. The Obama's got $40 million to write two books plus $70 million from Netflix to produce a program which, to date, has not been produced. Were these kickbacks from deals while Obama was president?

Who knows, but “At this point, what difference does it make?”

It was later revealed that Hunter Biden had been paid $3,000,000 by the wife of a Russian oligarch to establish bank accounts in the United States so that she could transfer her wealth out of Russia. It was then revealed that Hunter Biden had received $1.5 billion from China to start an investment company in the United States. The deal also included being paid $10,000,000 for three years for "introductions." President Biden then appointed Nicholas McQuaid to head the Criminal Division of the DOJ which is supposedly investigating Hunter Biden. Mr. McQuaid worked for the law firm of Lathan & Watkins, whose partner, Christopher Clark, is Hunter Biden's attorney (per Andrew Seiko).

Nothing to see here because "At this point, what difference does it make?"

In 2001, Hunter Biden became a member of the Board of MBNA, the large credit card company, reportedly making $100,000 per year. At the same time, his father, Senator Joe Biden, was supporting a bill which would make it more difficult for people to file for bankruptcy, which would be a big benefit to the credit card companies like MBNA. When the bill was actually passed in 2005, Hunter resigned from the Board of MBNA, having made $500,000 over five years.

Again, nothing to see here because "At this point, what difference does it make?"

After Joe Biden was appointed point man for Iraq under the Obama Administration, Joe's brother Jim, was awarded one-third of a $1.5 billion contract to build homes in Iraq, even though he had no construction experience. And, let's not forget that President Obama put Joe Biden in charge of the $787 billion stimulus package in 2009. Lord only know how that money was spent.

Once again, nothing to see here because "At this point, what difference does it make?"

The FBI had Anthony Wiener's laptop which reportedly contained a backup of Hillary Clinton's e-mails, plus a lot of disturbing information, supposedly on child trafficking. They also had Hunter Biden's laptop with tons of incriminating information on the Biden "crime family" a year before the 2020 election. However, if any investigation was made of these computers, it was never disclosed to the public.

That means we can no longer rely on the government or corporations' financial statements. What are they hiding? Who knows, but, “At this point, what difference does it make?”

Now we come to the 2020 Presidential Elections. Joe Biden stated that he had assembled the largest and most comprehensive “voter fraud” team in the world, even bigger than the one Obama had created. If Obama had created a large voter fraud organization to assure that Hillary won the 2016 election, this could account for the fact that she rarely campaigned and rarely gave press interviews. It would also account for why Joe Biden campaigned from his basement and most of his campaign rallies had more reporters than voters. And yet, with President Trump getting tens of thousands of voters at his rallies, 20% of which were democrats, he still “lost” the election.

Nothing to see here, right, because “At this point, what difference does it make?”

But wait, isn't it true that Mark Zuckerberg, the founder of Facebook, spent $400 million through non-profits, to assist liberal voting districts install voter drop boxes in Democratic Districts, and God knows what else? Didn't Twitter suspend President Trump's Twitter account before the election? Didn't Google / You Tube shut down and/or censor any organization that questioned the election results, or the narrative on Covid 19 or the alternative treatments for the virus? Didn't they also shut down and/or censor anyone who disapproved of the experimental vaccines? Didn't Twitter refuse to publish any information regarding the contents of Hunter Biden's computer? Didn't the “Main-Stream-Media”, 90% of which are owned by 5 companies, all of whom are members of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), hide most all relevant criticism of Joe Biden during the election? Were they trying to unduly affect the 2020 elections?

Guess not because “At this point, what difference does it make?”

How did these states know that President Trump was leading and by how much? By linking the vote tabulation machines to servers in Germany and China, which is illegal. This allowed them to get accurate counts of how many votes they needed to overturn the election.

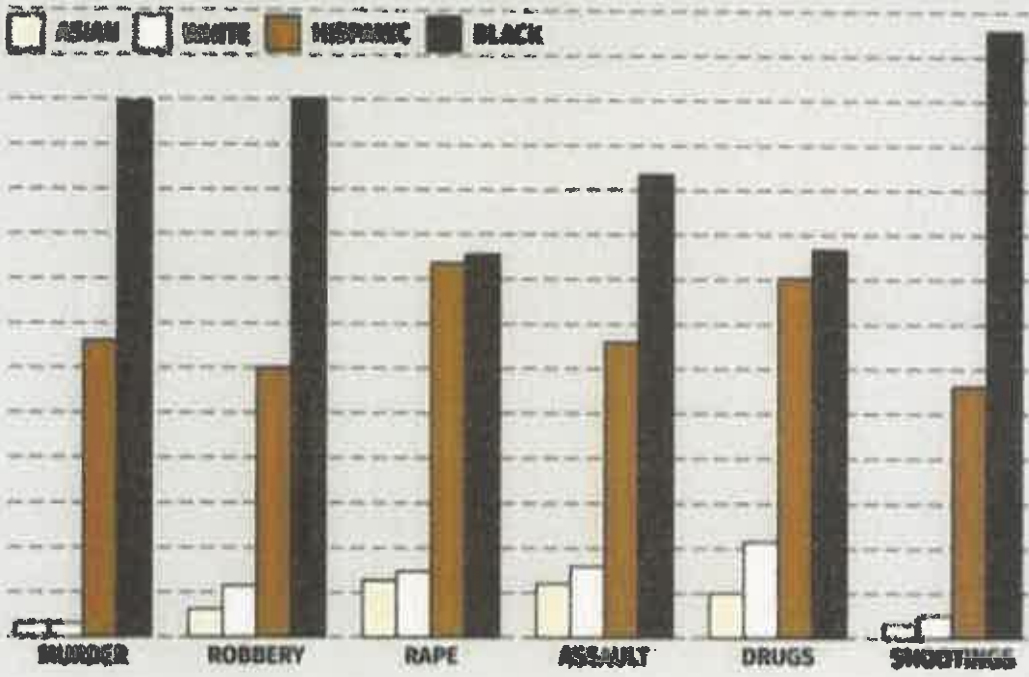

When voting machines count ballots the number of votes can only increase as time goes on. In several states, a graph of the Trump votes shows that the number of votes actually decreased as time went on. This is not possible unless the machines are rigged.

And, to make matters worse, the FBI refused to investigate these allegations and no court would look at the evidence presented about the voter fraud. Because, “At this point, what difference does it make?”

Finally, why is it that no banker has ever been charged, arrested and prosecuted for manipulating the gold markets, the silver markets or the LIBOR markets? The banks were assessed a small fine in relation to the amount of money they made from the manipulation, but no money was returned to the investors who lost money because of the manipulation. And, these are only the tip of the iceberg of the crimes that the banksters have committed. The only people who actually pay the fines are the stockholders of the banks. The bankers get to keep their huge salaries and their enormous bonuses and life goes on as normal.

Nothing to see here because “At this point, what difference does it make?”

Thomas Jefferson Still Supported Secession Forty Years After the Declaration of Independence

By Ryan McMaken

Some modern opponents of a right to secession or self-determination invent a variety of reasons why secession was acceptable for Americans in the 1770s, but not in the 1860s. For example, historian Brooks Simpson in this column splits many hairs attempting to explain (unconvincingly) that the Declaration of Independence had nothing to do with secession. At the core of many of these claims is the idea that since some Americans in the eighteenth century endorsed the current constitution, then all Americans, centuries later, who did not sign or vote for the document are now held to some invisible "social contract."

In other words, whatever right to secession and self-determination might have existed during the war with the British Empire, those rights ceased to exist with the successful end of the war. Lysander Spooner, of course, has explained the deeply incoherent thinking behind this social contract theory. Nonetheless, we might ask ourselves what did the author of the Declaration of Independence think about the idea of secession. If the Declaration had nothing to do with secession—or if the founding of the new republic negated the right to secession—then surely Thomas Jefferson changed his tune on secession after the ratification of the new constitution

Well, it turns out that he didn't. Jefferson, who was a secessionist in 1776, remained a secessionist at least as late as 1816, eight years before his death. Jefferson never gave any big speeches or wrote any thick books on secession. He may have thought that the Revolution's success spoke for itself. Nonetheless, in personal correspondence decades after he wrote the Declaration, Jefferson continued to support the idea that member states or constituent parts of the American republic ought to be free to leave. Here are some of his specific comments on the matter.

In 1799, Jefferson wrote to James Madison and concluded that if the states continued to be subject to "abuses" and "violations" by the federal government, then the states would be entitled "to sever ourselves from that union":

I will in the mean time give you my ideas to reflect on. That the principles already advanced by Virginia & Kentucky are not to be yielded in silence, I presume we all agree. I should propose a declaration or resolution by their legislatures on this plan. 1st. answer the reasonings of such of the states as have ventured into the field of reason, & that of the Committee of Congress. Here they have given us all the advantage we could wish. Take some notice of those states who have either not answered at all, or answered without reasoning. 2. Make a firm protestation against the principle & the precedent; and a reservation of the rights resulting to us from these palpable violations of the constitutional compact by the Federal government, and the approbation or acquiescence of the several co-states; so that we may hereafter do, what we might now rightfully do, whenever repetitions of these and other violations shall make it evident that the federal government, disregarding the limitations of the federal compact, mean to exercise powers over us to which we have never assented. 3. Express in affectionate & conciliatory language our warm attachment to union with our sister-states, and to the instrument & principles by which we are united; that we are willing to sacrifice to this every thing except those rights of self-government the securing of which was the object of that compact; that not at all disposed to make every measure of error or wrong a cause of scission [i.e., separation], we are willing to view with indulgence to wait with patience till those passions & delusions shall have passed over which the federal government have artfully & successfully excited to cover its own abuses & to conceal its designs; fully confident that the good sense of the American people and their attachment to those very rights which we are now vindicating will, before it shall be too late, rally with us round the true principles of our federal compact; but determined, were we to be disappointed in this, to sever ourselves from that union we so much value, rather than give up the rights of self government which we have reserved, & in which alone we see liberty, safety & happiness.

In 1803, Jefferson told Joseph Priestly that he would defend the right to secession if the new states of the Louisiana Purchase sought to separate from the mother country:

Whether we remain in one confederacy, or form into Atlantic and Mississippi confederacies, I believe not very important to the happiness of either part. Those of the western confederacy will be as much our children & descendants as those of the eastern, and I feel myself as much identified with that country, in future time, as with this; and did I now foresee a separation at some future day, yet I should feel the duty & the desire to promote the western interests as zealously as the eastern, doing all the good for both portions of our future family which should fall within my power.

He said something very similar to John C. Breckinridge in 1804

The future inhabitants of the Atlantic & Missipi States will be our sons. We leave them in distinct but bordering establishments. We think we see their happiness in their union, & we wish it. Events may prove it otherwise; and if they see their interest in separation, why should we take side with our Atlantic rather than our Missipi descendants? It is the elder and the younger son differing. God bless them both, & keep them in union, if it be for their good, but separate them, if it be better.

Jefferson reiterated his support for secession to William Crawford forty years after the Declaration of Independence. In this 1816 letter, Jefferson refers to the potential damage done by the residents of some states advocating for war and government privileges. Jefferson thinks it better to sever ties with these states in order to free the more peace-minded states from the hawkish ones:

If any state in the union will declare that it prefers separation with the 1st alternative, to a continuance in union without it, I have no hesitation in saying, "Let us separate." I would rather the states should withdraw, which are for unlimited commerce & war, and confederate with those alone which are for peace & agriculture. I know that every nation in Europe would join in sincere amity with the latter, & hold the former at arm's length by jealousies, prohibitions, restrictions, vexations & war.

In this case, it is notable that Jefferson is specifically in support of separating with states that advocate for policies with which Jefferson does not agree. In modern debates over secession, we are frequently told that secession must not be allowed if one of the newly independent polities might advocate for "incorrect" policies. Jefferson apparently disagreed.

"Never again should anyone have to be amazed at how Jim Jones got his followers to drink the poison."

EASTER'S FIVE FATAL FLAWS - please research this!

Do you plan to participate in Easter sunrise services this year? If you really love Jesus, you won't.

Millions of sincerely religious people will soon attend Easter sunrise services, supposedly dedicated to celebrating Jesus' resurrection. However, one of Satan's greatest deceptions (Revelation 12:9) is in deceiving sincere people into worshipping a false Jesus on Easter Sunday. Easter Sunday does not honor Jesus; in fact, celebrating Easter greatly displeases Him, as do all idolatrous and heathen practices (Deuteronomy 12:29-32). With that in mind, let's briefly review five fatal flaws of Easter.

First, Jesus was not resurrected Sunday morning. A careful study of Scripture reveals that Jesus was in the tomb for exactly three days and three nights—just as He had promised He would be. To deny this is to reject the only miraculous sign Christ said He would offer the critics of His Messiahship (Matthew 12:39-40). Jesus died on a Wednesday afternoon, just before the annual Sabbath known as the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread. He was buried and then resurrected 72 hours later, just before the end of the weekly Sabbath—near sunset on Saturday.

Second, your Bible condemns sunrise worship services as pagan abominations to God. Sunrise worship was an integral part of the ancient Babylonian religion derived from worshipping the pagan deity Tammuz. In Ezekiel 8:14-16, a vision from the Lord shows the ancient Israelites committing an "abomination" by "weeping for Tammuz" during sunrise worship services. Similar traditions surrounded the idolatrous worship of other figures the ancient Israelites had borrowed from surrounding cultures, including "the queen of heaven" (Jeremiah 7:18), who is known by names such as Astarte, Ashtoreth, and Ishtar—a figure whose worship persisted into the Greek and Roman periods in various cults and religions. Worship of Tammuz continues today in the form of Easter sunrise services, along with other associated counterfeit traditions involving the aforementioned idols.

The third flaw is simply this: Your Bible sternly condemns anyone who adopts pagan practices into their worship, regardless of whether or not someone claims that they keep these customs "to honor Jesus."

Jeremiah 10:2 commands us to "learn not the way of the heathen" (King James Version) and Matthew 15:9 demands that we do not replace God's commands with the "commandments of men."

The fourth flaw is similar, in that claiming we somehow "honor" Jesus by pagan practice simply defies common sense and sound reason. Consider this question: If you knew that your human father enjoyed steak and potatoes for dinner and hated ham sandwiches, yet you refused to make steak and potatoes for him and instead kept making him ham sandwiches, could a rational person really argue that you were honoring or loving your human father?

God has shown in the Bible how He wants to be worshipped—through His weekly Sabbath and annual Holy Days. Yet, while perhaps well-intended, many supposed Christians reject God's Holy Days and claim to show love to their Lord and heavenly Father by continually trying to serve Him with what He calls pagan and abominable. Jesus asks such people, "But why do you call Me 'Lord, Lord,' and not do the things which I say?" (Luke 6:46).

Finally, 1 Corinthians 6:9 and Revelation 22:15 condemn those who practice these pagan and idolatrous customs as not being allowed in the Kingdom of God. This is a most serious indictment, one that should be taken into the utmost consideration by anyone claiming to be a follower of Christ—especially in light of the preceding flaws. Will you have the courage to examine these five fatal flaws of Easter and start considering the true value of freedom from man-made religious traditions? You won't be disappointed.

TN Gov. Signs Bill Protecting People’s Freedom Not to Participate in Same-Sex Weddings

Sarah Holliday

In 2021, the case of the baker Jack Phillips, Scardina v. Masterpiece Cakeshop, saturated the media. LGBT activists were opposed to a Christian man exercising his freedom of religion by declining to make a cake for a trans activist celebrating a gender transition.

Phillips said he was asked to make a cake with “a color scheme, a combination, designed to celebrate a gender transition.” He added that when he declined to make it, the customer quickly sued the bakery. “This customer came to us intentionally to get us to create a cake or deny creating a cake that went against our religious beliefs,” he said.

This case was prominent for those who care about the First Amendment rights to freedom of speech and religion. But on Wednesday, a state celebrated a significant victory on this front when Tennessee Governor Bill Lee (R) signed a bill that protects public officials who don’t want to perform a same-sex marriage because it violates their “conscience or religious beliefs.”

The Hill clarified that this legislation does not prohibit those in same-sex relationships from getting a marriage license. They are still able to do so from someone willing to file the paperwork. But the bill, HB 878, states that someone with deeply held religious beliefs “shall not be required to solemnize a marriage.”

Molly Whitehorn, associate director of Regional Campaigns for the pro-LGBT Human Rights Campaign, claimed the bill intentionally excludes “LGBTQ+ folks from equal protection under the law.” Camilla Taylor, deputy legal director for litigation for the LGBT group Lambda Legal, said it rolls “back recent progress by the LGBTQ community,” and added that the bill is “patently unconstitutional.”

These arguments, however, are largely about the inconvenience of couples who may have “to use a different process to obtain marriage licenses.” But in response to such claims, State Senator Mark Pody (R-Tenn.) emphasized that the bill “has nothing to do with getting a license, it has nothing to do with the clerks required to give a license.” Rather, it has everything to do with who does or does not perform a marriage ceremony.

In comments to The Washington Stand, Arielle Del Turco, director of Family Research Council’s Center for Religious Liberty, said, “This bill offers conscience protections for those who are in a position to perform marriages for couples.” She added that it “protects individuals from being required to solemnize a marriage that might violate their sincerely held religious belief.”

Del Turco continued, “There are many well-qualified religious individuals serving as state judges, justices, and magistrates who should not feel that they must violate their conscience in order to keep their jobs.” Concerning the rights to free speech and religion protected by the First Amendment, she added that while the Tennessee bill is not necessary to allow the practice of these rights, it is helpful in further protecting them. As she put it, "It's true that no one can technically be forced to facilitate a same-sex wedding in violation of their religious beliefs under our Constitution, but they still might face pressure from the state government or the possible loss of their job for declining to do so."

An example she referenced is that, in the past, we've "seen judges receive public warnings for offering referrals for same-sex weddings instead of solemnizing marriages for a same-sex couple." Because of this, "it's helpful to have a state law that clarifies that judges and magistrates cannot be required to solemnize a marriage that violates their religious beliefs."

Del Turco concluded, "This bill is a win for religious freedom in Tennessee and will hopefully inspire other states to take similar measures to protect the rights of religious people."

Anti-Christian Violence Expected To Explode If Trump Wins Election

AND if He doesn't! the church must be judged!

I RO.
4:17

Anti-Christian violence in the U.S. has risen dramatically in recent years, but what we have seen so far is nothing compared to what is coming if the 2024 presidential election goes a certain way. You see, the truth is that most of the violence being directed at Christian churches is being done for political reasons.

Whether it is accurate or not, many on the left consider evangelical Christians to be Donald Trump's most hardcore supporters, and church buildings are the most visible representation of the evangelical movement.

Since church buildings are not guarded most of the time, they are easy targets, and they are being attacked at a frequency that we have never seen before in the entire history of this country.

According to a report that was released by the Family Research Council, church attacks in the United States have risen 800 percent during the last six years...

While the Biden administration cracks down on the Christians Democrats and the press smear as extremists, church attacks are up 800 percent in the last six years, according to a new report from the Family Research Council (FRC).

In February, the conservative group published the report, "Hostility Against Churches Is on the Rise in the United States." It identified 915 acts of hostility against churches between January 2018 and November 2023.

There is so much talk in the mainstream media about "right-wing extremism", but it is actually the left that has been committing acts of terror over and over again.

In particular, the number of church attacks absolutely exploded in the year following the Supreme Court decision that overturned Roe v. Wade...

The report found hostile church incidents more than doubled in 2023 compared to 2022, with 436 counted a year after the Supreme Court's Dobbs decision returned abortion lawmaking to state legislatures. The number of attacks in 2023 was more than eight times greater than those reported in 2018.

These attacks are not about what happens on Sunday mornings.

Rather, these attacks are all about what is happening in the political realm.

When a crazed woman walked into Joel Osteen's Lakewood Church and started shooting, it wasn't because she hated his preaching...

A woman who walked into a popular Texas megachurch Sunday afternoon with a long gun and her 7-year-old son opened fire before she was killed by law enforcement officers on scene. The gunfire left the child in critical condition and another man injured, officials said.

Authorities are now probing the shooting at televangelist and pastor Joel Osteen's Lakewood Church - roughly 6 miles from downtown Houston.

The woman, identified in a search warrant as Genesse Ivonne Moreno, 36, entered the church shortly before 2 p.m. wearing a trench coat and backpack and opened fire, Houston Police Chief Troy Finner said in a Sunday afternoon news conference.

According to ABC News, when authorities recovered the AR-15 she used during the shooting, there was a sticker that said "Palestine" on it.

She was a pro-Palestinian radical that hated evangelical support for Israel.

Sadly, these sorts of incidents are becoming way too common.

We have reached a stage where every single church in America needs an armed security team, and things will inevitably become even crazier during the months ahead.

As I have warned my readers numerous times, we are entering the most chaotic election season in U.S. history.

The Lincoln Project is already releasing ominous videos warning that Trump will become a dictator, and hordes of liberal pundits are breathlessly telling us that another Trump presidency will be the end of America as we know it today.

There are millions of leftists that are deeply internalizing this messaging, and if Trump wins they will be ready for action.

A recent New York Post article explained that if Trump is able to get back into the White House "some portion of the left will convince itself that only a color revolution can save the country"...

And if Trump emerges victorious and the alleged dictatorship is underway in earnest?

Certainly, the reaction will make the pro-Hamas protests that have roiled college campuses and disrupted transportation nodes around the country look small-scale by comparison.

If the republic is supposedly on the verge of falling, extralegal means of resistance are justified.

At least some portion of the left will convince itself that only a color revolution can save the country.

I wish that I could tell you that such claims are exaggerated.

But the truth is that leftists are already buzzing about a "revolution" all over social media.

And politicians on the left are certainly not helping matters. For example, Bernie Sanders insists that another Trump presidency will mean "the collapse of American democracy"...

A second Trump presidency would be much more extreme than the first. "He's made that clear," says Sanders. "There's a lot of personal bitterness, he's a bitter man, having gone through four indictments, humiliated, he's going to take it out on his enemies. We've got to explain to the American people what that means to them - what the collapse of American democracy will mean to all of us."

We are so deeply divided, and a movie entitled "Civil War" is about to be released as the upcoming presidential election looms over our nation...

The upcoming release of A24's Civil War during a contentious presidential election year comes amid worry about the prospect of an actual civil war — or, at least, real-life political violence — and has some questioning the movie's timing.

Talk about predictive programming.

The film is about an alliance of states that rebels against an authoritarian president that is abusing his powers.

Many are questioning the wisdom of releasing such a movie at this particular moment in our history...

"The idea of another American civil war happening today actually keeps me up at night," wrote one reader on an American Civil War subreddit. "This is a movie that I want to keep far away from. Even if it's based on a political scenario so far removed from our own. I just do not want to entertain the notion of something so horrible."

"A movie about a second American Civil War in an election year in which the second American Civil War is a serious concern among law-enforcement and rational people alike?" wrote another.

I think that it would have been wise for those in charge of this film to delay it until 2025 at the earliest.

But of course people like you and I do not get to make those kinds of decisions.

For many on the left that do not worship God, politics is essentially their religion.

And to them, the worst thing that could ever possibly happen would be for Donald Trump to become president again.

So if Trump wins the election in November, we are going to witness a nationwide outpouring of negative emotion that will be unlike anything that any of us have ever experienced.

Needless to say, they won't be satisfied with just protesting in the streets.

We could potentially see civil unrest on a scale that many would consider to be unimaginable right now, and that would set the stage for so many of the things that I have been warning about all these years.

www.WisconsinChristianNews.com

Given the work that I do, it grieves me to see so many professing Christians who are so ignorant of the days and times we're living in. Most don't know and don't want to know what's really going on in this world — or how Christ-followers are to respond to it all. Truly, those who are not Christians, or are "nominal Christians" at best, are much more well informed than those who claim to be "devout." Because most modern American churches today do more harm than good for the Kingdom of God.

Let me give you a case in point. I know a couple of people who are very devout church-goers. Literally, whenever the doors to the church are open, they're there. These folks receive our newspaper, Wisconsin Christian News, and have for many years, but it's doubtful they ever read it, or even open it. Theirs is a typical modern American church, where the pastor is careful to never speak anything that may be construed as "offensive." The church only offers the modern praise and worship choruses, and then an "uplifting, feel-good" message as a sermon. To put it succinctly, it's a "Your Best Life Now" church.

They teach that God just wants His people to be nice to others, be happy, blessed, financially secure, comfortable and at peace. Certainly, you can have all, or most of these things as a child of God, but as with most modern American churches, the people are never called to actually do anything, nor are they trained for the work of the ministry.

Now, the people I'm referring to will never read or hear this message, because they listen only to Contemporary Christian Music radio stations, and obviously never open the pages of Wisconsin Christian News or follow any other alternative Christian news sources. They're clueless about things like the Globalist "new world order," the radical LGBTQP+ movement, the demonic "transgender" agenda, the pornographic books and sexually-perverted indoctrination of our children in public schools, the imprisonment of the J6 political prisoners, the deadly hospital protocols, the depopulation agenda with the COVID jabs, the radical pro-death agenda of Planned Parenthood, the invasion of our nation by foreign enemies, and so much more. Needless to say, they both received all their COVID jabs. In fact, their church opened up as a "vaccination center" a few years ago.

This past Christmas, these folks gave some framed artwork to someone I know well. The recipient is a wide-awake Christ-follower who is well informed and active in standing against evil and deception. As he unwrapped the gift, he was astonished — this framed artwork was a rainbow flag with the words "Love is Love" emblazoned upon it. This gift, from a couple of extremely devout church-goers, left him and his wife nearly speechless.

As gently and tactfully as they could, they asked, "Don't you know what this is? Don't you know what this means? How could you not know what this is?"

Their response was, "Oh, no...we had no idea. We just saw it at Target and thought it was a pretty picture that would bless your home with love."

While their intentions were good, they truly had no idea what the rainbow flag stood for, or that the words "Love is Love" is the clarion call of the same-sex-marriage movement. It's been nine years now since the Supreme Court's Obergefell decision. Nine years, and still these extremely devout church-goers had no idea...nor did they have any idea of Target's blatant hatred for Christians and conservatives — or Target's arrogant advancement of the homosexual and transgender movements with products they sell, even for children. Or Target's pro-transgender "open restroom" policies.

You see, their pastor has never spoken on any of these things, and the only news they get is from the mainstream media propaganda machine. They have no interest in topics they deem "political" and so they only know what they hear in their church. They're completely clueless.

A few years ago, I was speaking with a friend who had taken it upon himself to distribute Bible tracts and other Christian materials in his neighborhood. He'd go door-to-door, leaving the materials on the doors of homes. He told me that it was rare to ever actually speak to anyone — he just dropped off the literature and went on to the next house. But the occupants of one house, in particular, were very unfriendly to him and actually called the police on him. He pointed the house out to me as we stood in his driveway. It was adorned with a rainbow flag on the front.

I asked him, "well, what did you expect? Didn't you see their flag?" He gave me a blank stare. So I asked, "Don't you know what that flag is?" After I told him, he still didn't believe me — "I just thought it was a pretty yard decoration," he said. He was completely clueless.

It astonishes me that so many are so ignorant. And, over the past 25 years of my work with Wisconsin Christian News, I receive the harshest criticism from professing Christians, and especially pastors. They want nothing to do with us. The majority of pastors won't allow our newspaper in their churches, and if they do, almost none of the people there will pick up a copy.

In one instance, we had a very dedicated distribution volunteer who would take a bundle of newspapers to a church in her area. The pastor always greeted her with a big, wide smile and always thanked her for dropping the papers off. This went on for a couple of years before the church secretary called me to say, "I'm so sorry to have to tell you this, but I feel so badly and so guilty about it, I must. Our pastor told your delivery person he loves your newspaper, but I'm instructed to throw them in the recycling the minute she leaves. The bundles are never even opened.” So, in other words, this pastor was lying — right to our friend’s face — with a big, broad smile, for years.

But God has a remnant, even in the “Best Life Now” churches. Countless times, I’m contacted by people who are so enthusiastic about our newspaper they want to make it available at their church. I tell them to first show a copy to their pastor and then let me know what he says. One of two things always happen: either I never hear from this person again, or they call me back to say “the pastor said ‘no.’”

So in order to get the truth — and the whole counsel of God — along with the Gospel message out to those who have never heard, we stock our newspaper in news racks in public places for people to pick up for free. In other words, we have to do an “end-run” around the pastors in order to get information with a biblical worldview to the people. And the papers literally fly off the shelves. Grocery stores are great places to distribute the newspaper. Countless times, I’ve arrived at a store to stock the new edition and before I can even get the first bundle cut open, there are people coming up to me saying, “OH! Wonderful! I’ve been waiting for this. I love this paper. Can I have one of those?”

You see, there are MANY who are starving for the truth. They’re not getting it in their churches or the mainstream press. If they go to church, their pastors will never speak on any of the subjects we cover; never anything of real substance, but rather, mere platitudes. And many people are smart enough to know propaganda and “fake news” when they hear or see it. So they’re very eager for each new edition of Wisconsin Christian News. For many, it’s the only source of real news and information — and deep insights into God’s Word they ever get.

Those who are wide awake and know all about the things we cover, can sometimes find themselves overwhelmed, anxious and fearful of the days we’re living in and where this nation is headed under God’s judgment. It happens to me, too. A 24/7 news feed of real information, coming from trusted and verified, fact-based sources often leaves me overwhelmed. I often have “information overload,” and the news is almost never good now. I understand, it can wear a person out.

But we won’t back down. We can’t afford to. I believe we owe it to our readers to be here, to persevere and press on — because there are so few who will dare speak the hard truth anymore. And Christians, especially, should never be ignorant of the devil’s devices, and should always be the most informed and well-equipped of all, in order to be able to explain to others all that is really going on, along with the real hope that we have in Christ. Not just a “hope,” but a “knowing” that God is in control — and though the world is now enveloped in darkness, deception, delusion and deceit, that He will work all things together for good for those who love Him and are called according to His purpose.

We can’t be ignorant, but we can’t be fearful either. Not if we’re real Christ-followers, with the Holy Spirit inside us. We must be knowledgeable, informed and prepared for ministry and evangelism, but we must also be willing to pick up our cross and carry it, no matter the cost. What I'm saying is that knowledge without action — or knowledge combined with cowardice — is what causes the anxiety, fear, and despair so many struggle with today.

Wisconsin Christian News serves an important purpose. Perhaps the most important purpose is bringing the Gospel message and a biblical worldview to the unsaved world...and the unsaved among us are often the most intrigued by our newspaper. As I said, even in churches that do allow our paper to be distributed there, few people ever pick up a copy. But an average grocery store will easily go through 200 copies in a week. The world is starving for truth!

But if all you're doing is reading our newspaper, you're missing the point. Most of the articles we publish are meant to direct the reader to further and deeper study of God's Word, the Bible. That's where all the answers are, and that's what we're trying to point people toward. Yes, we must know the news of the day and we must be aware of and understand the latest lies and schemes of the enemy. But it's God's Word that makes what we see in our daily headlines all make sense, and it's God's Word that explains the role we have to play in such a time as this, and it's God's Word, when properly studied, that moves us to action in His name, boldly calling out the lies, informing the ignorant and leading the lost to the only One Who is able to save their souls.

So in these days, we all need to spend more time making a serious study of the Word of God. It contains not only the history of the world, but timeless lessons from our Creator Himself on how we should act, what we should do, how we should respond to all that's coming upon the earth right now and how we overcome the enemy. Sadly, most pastors today won't even admit we have an enemy, much less, instruct and equip their people for spiritual warfare.

Along with serious, intentional, deep Bible study, we also need to draw near to the Lord in fervent prayer. Not repetitious prayer; not compulsory prayer, but real prayer. Talking with God and doing so without ceasing. Like the disciples in the book of Acts, we need to go to our "upper rooms" — alone or with other like-minded believers — and fervently pray for wisdom and knowledge of God's will, for guidance and direction as to what He would have us to do.

Of course, I'm assuming you are one with the Holy Spirit within you, and that you're not only "pretty sure" you have the Holy Spirit, but you know you do because you can feel it. If you don't know or don't feel the Holy Spirit within, speaking to you, guiding and directing you, repent and pray for personal sanctification first, and then ask God to fill you with His Spirit. This is not the time to remain apathetic about the things of God, but rather to get deadly serious about it all. "Business-as-usual churchianity" is not adequate to triumph over the forces of darkness and evil in this world. The Bible tells us that Lukewarm people literally make God vomit. So don't remain in your ignorance. There's no excuse for being clueless.

Has America Run Out Of Time?

MICHAEL SNYDER

For those that love America, these are very trying times. We have watched our beloved country go steadily downhill for decades, and in recent years that process has greatly accelerated. Now we have reached a point where our entire culture is absolutely saturated with evil, and large media corporations make billions of dollars exporting that culture to the rest of the world. In the end, we will truly reap what we have sown. If our nation had chosen to reverse course, things could have worked out much differently. But that has not happened. Yes, there are individuals and small groups that have chosen to change direction, but the nation as a whole just continues to run the wrong direction as fast as it possibly can. In this article, I am going to share some numbers with you that are just staggering. We have been given opportunity after opportunity to choose a different direction, and we just keep making the wrong choices. At some point we will be out of opportunities. In fact, could it be possible that America has already run out of time?

In June 2022, the Supreme Court overturned Roe v. Wade.

That was an opportunity for our nation to go in a new direction.

But that wasn't what happened.

Instead, the number of abortions during the 12 months immediately after Roe v. Wade was overturned was actually higher than the number of abortions during the 12 months immediately preceding that ruling.

And now a new report from the Guttmacher Institute is telling us that the abortion rate in 2023 was the highest that it has been since 2014...

Abortions have reached their highest level in 10 years, despite bans on the procedure in more than a dozen states.

A report released Tuesday by reproductive health firm Guttmacher Institute showed that there were 1 million abortions in the US in 2023, the equivalent of 16 per every 1,000 women.

That was up 10 percent from the 14.4 per 1,000 in 2020 and the highest since 2014, when the rate was 14.6 per 1,000.

As for the total number of abortions, we haven't seen a million in a single year since 2012.

Today, most abortions are done by taking pills.

That same Guttmacher Institute report says that a whopping 63 percent of all U.S. abortions were conducted in this manner last year...

The report also found that 63 percent of abortions performed in 2023 were from medications, such as the two-pill regimen of mifepristone and misoprotol. In 2000, no abortions were done with this method.

It has become easier and easier for women in the United States to get these pills.

In fact, it is being reported that "abortion pill mifepristone hit the shelves at CVS and Walgreens for the first time this month".

So the number of abortions performed by taking pills is expected to go even higher during the years ahead.

Of course many of the celebrities that our young people follow militantly promote "reproductive freedom". For example, Plan B pills and condoms were given out for free at Olivia Rodrigo's recent concert in St. Louis...

The Missouri Abortion Fund distributed the morning-after pill and condoms to concertgoers during Olivia Rodrigo's GUTS tour Tuesday night in St. Louis. It was part of the pop star's Fund 4 Good initiative focused on "building an equitable and just future for all women, girls, and people seeking reproductive health freedom."

Rodrigo, 21, has not been shy about her support for reproductive rights throughout her career. Fund 4 Good, launched in conjunction with the GUTS tour in February, has announced Rodrigo's commitment to partnering with local chapters of the National Network of Abortion Funds throughout the tour and is ensuring that a percentage of proceeds will go to reproductive rights organizations.

"It's brutal out here in Missouri, but we are here for abortion access," the abortion fund tweeted following the concert.

Whether you like it or not, this is our society now.

Meanwhile, the proportion of the population that identifies as LGBTQ+ just continues to grow.

The following comes from NBC News...

The percentage of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and queer adults in the U.S. continues to increase, reaching an all-time high of 7.6% in 2023, according to a new Gallup report. Broken down by gender, the survey of 12,000 people 18 and older across the country found that women were nearly twice as likely as men to identify as LGBTQ.

"Almost 30% of Gen Z women identify as LGBTQ+, most as bisexual," Jeffrey Jones, a senior editor at Gallup, told NBC News. "That's where a lot of the growth seems to be happening."

Just think about those numbers for a moment.

Young adults are the future of this country.

And now almost a third of all Gen Z women identify as LGBTQ+.

Those that wanted to fundamentally transform our culture have succeeded.

Can you imagine what our founders would think if they could see us today?

Earlier this month, I was shocked when I read a story about a social media influencer known as "Meow" that identifies as a dog...

An American woman who identifies as a dog has given an insight into what her daily life looks like.

The social media star, who is known as Meow, appeared on KIIS FM's The Kyle & Jackie O Show on Thursday to discuss what it means to live life as a canine.

She told hosts Kyle Sandilands and Jackie 'O' Henderson how she sleeps in a crate, is rewarded with dog treats and has 'handlers' who help to look after her.

Meow, who livestreams on gaming platform Twitch, explained how she identifies as a Dalmatian and will bark and run on all fours as she embraces life as a dog.

I don't get it.

Why would you call yourself "Meow" if you identify as a dog?

Maybe someone out there can explain that to me.

At this point, nobody can deny that we are in the midst of a cultural tsunami.

Once upon a time, most Americans embraced Christian values, but now a recent Pew Research Center survey has discovered that 80 percent of U.S. adults believe that "religion's role in American life is shrinking"...

Meanwhile, the vast majority of U.S. adults — 80% — said "religion's role in American life is shrinking," a percentage that's the highest it has been in Pew's research history.

Just 18% expressed the belief faith is gaining influence in American society.

Unfortunately, there aren't any signs that this is going to change any time soon.

So it is just a matter of time before we reap what we have sown.

I often remind my readers that "the clock is ticking", and time is certainly flying here in 2024.

We have already reached the end of winter, and now spring has begun...

Spring is starting a little earlier than usual this year.

Tuesday, March 19 at 11:06 p.m. EDT will mark the vernal equinox for the Northern Hemisphere, when the sun is directly over the equator and its energy is in balance between the Northern and Southern Hemispheres, according to the National Weather Service.

Every day is so precious, and our nation has been going in the wrong direction for a very long time.

How long will be too long?

Sadly, I am entirely convinced that it is already much later than most people think it is.

What Is a Christian Nationalist Anyway?

Christian nationalists are simply trying to be a moral and religious people and ensure the success of the American experiment in so doing.

I Am a christian nationalist! NO Apologies!

S.A. McCarthy

It's an election year in America, which means that the political Left is trotting out its favorite fearmongering apparatuses again. For the past few years, politicians and pundits alike have leaned heavily on terms like "far right," "bigoted," "racist," "transphobic," and "extremist"; but topping the list of late has been "Christian nationalist." But what is a Christian nationalist?

Just last week, Politico propagandist and self-described reporter Heidi Przybyla appeared on MSNBC to offer her definition of a Christian nationalist: "They believe that our rights as Americans and as all human beings do not come from any earthly authority. They don't come from Congress, from the Supreme Court, they come from God." Her comments followed a Politico article she authored in which she wrote, "Christian nationalists in America believe that the country was founded as a Christian nation and that Christian values should be prioritized throughout government and public life."

Of Przybyla's two assessments, the latter is nearer the truth than the former. If the defining characteristic of a Christian nationalist were a belief that "our rights as Americans and as all human beings do not come from any earthly authority" but "from God," then the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution would be tantamount to Christian nationalist manifestos.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness," Thomas Jefferson wrote in 1776. Of course, even though Przybyla and her comrades don't outright declare such men as Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, and the legendary George Washington "Christian nationalists," their political counterparts work tirelessly to suppress the admiration of such men and the principles they championed, right down to removing monuments to the founders of America across the country.

Why? Przybyla answers that, and rather candidly: because “the country has become less religious and more diverse...” Indeed, the nation has become more diverse than it was at its inception—it is difficult to imagine the Founding Fathers discussing Sharia law and satanic idols when drafting the First Amendment. But it has not become less religious. In fact, the growing Muslim rebellion against such projects as gender ideology and sex education, and the popularity and platform of the pagan former Republican presidential primary candidate Vivek Ramaswamy, are evidence that non-Christians also embrace (at least for the most part) the American vision articulated by the Founders almost two-and-a-half centuries ago.

No, the country is not less religious than it once was, only less Christian. Certainly, a majority (about 63 percent, according to the Pew Research Center) of Americans identify as Christian, but that share has been declining for decades (already down from nearly 90 percent in the early 1990s). Even among those who identify as Christian today, Christian principles and morality are not always advocated and are sometimes even undermined—either in the name of some modernist, Marxist, all-mercy-no-justice revisioning of Christ or for the sake of some misconstrued, misunderstood notion of a “separation of church and state.” A clear example of this would be the incumbent president, Joe Biden, who identifies as a Catholic and even erroneously touts his faith, all while vociferously endorsing, promoting, and funding such evils as abortion, homosexuality, transgenderism, and socialism.

While Christianity has suffered a drastic decrease in recent years, a new religion has risen to take its place: Leftism. Yes, Leftism is a religion. Much like Catholicism, it even boasts a clergy, sacraments, and dogmas. Its clergy are elite power brokers: media personalities are its preachers while politicians serve as priests, legislating sacrifice to their gods. Its sacraments are multitudinous: from transgendering children and stocking school libraries with pornographic picture books all the way to its highest (or, rather, lowest) form of unholy prayer, abortion.

Peter Kreeft once wrote, “Abortion is the Antichrist’s demonic parody of the eucharist. That’s why it uses the same holy words, ‘This is my body,’ with the blasphemous opposite meaning.” Leftism also has its own dogmas and doctrines, rigorously enforced by its own office of the inquisition. Those who dare question transgenderism, diversity and equity, drag queen story hours, or the sudden appearance of ten million illegal immigrants are swiftly dealt with and forced to recant their heresies or be excommunicated and labeled “extremists” and “bigots.” Which brings us back to those intolerant, extremist, Christian nationalists.

Every lie, they say, contains at least a seed of truth, but Przybyla (perhaps unwittingly) offered a whole seedcake's worth: "Christian nationalists in America believe that the country was founded as a Christian nation and that Christian values should be prioritized throughout government and public life." This assessment is very close to being spot-on.

Despite all the hyperinflated fearmongering, those derided by the White House and its media mouthpieces as "Christian nationalists" are not trying to force all Americans to attend Mass weekly; we are not endeavoring to install altar rails in the Capitol building; nor are we attempting to replace the Star-Spangled Banner's stars with rosary beads.

So, what are we doing? John Adams, a Framers of the Constitution and George Washington's successor as president, wrote in 1798, "Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other." Christian nationalists are simply trying to be a moral and religious people and ensure the success of the American experiment in so doing.

Certainly, we want to legislate Christian morality—to end the slaughter of unborn children, to ban the scourge of pornography, to keep little boys and little girls from having their sex organs hacked off or hacked open. These are measures which the Founding Fathers might have called "the basics" had they ever lived to see the horrors of the modern age. In his prescient book The Abolition of Man, C.S. Lewis called the set of principles compelling such commonsense measures "the Tao," which is simply objective truth, Natural Law, the pursuit of inerrant virtue. One could easily argue that Christian nationalists are simply upholding the Tao, whether at the dinner table or in the voting booth.

Lewis prophesies what will come about if the Tao (the tenets of today's Christian nationalism) are forgotten: the emergence of an elite class of "Conditioners." He predicts, "The ultimate springs of human action are no longer, for them, something given. They have surrendered—like electricity: it is the function of the Conditioners to control, not obey them. ... They are the motivators, the creators of motive." He then asks, "But how are they going to be motivated themselves?"

When I said just now that all motives fail them, I should have said all motives except one. All motives that claim any validity other than that of their felt emotional weight at a given moment have failed them. Everything except the sic volo, sic jubeo has been explained away. But what never claimed objectivity cannot be destroyed by subjectivism. ...When all that says "it is good" has been debunked, what says "I want" remains. It cannot be exploded or "seen through" because it never had any pretensions. The Conditioners, therefore, must come to be motivated simply by their own pleasure.

This is the end result of Leftism, the god that it worships: complete, unbridled abandon to self. This is also why "Christian nationalism" poses such a threat—indeed, an existential threat—to Leftism: because Christianity is dedicated to complete, unbridled abandon of self to Christ. Where Leftism declares that every man can be a god, Christianity teaches that every man ought to be a slave to Christ. The catch, of course, is that by being slaves to Christ, we also become sons of God (Galatians 4:7). This is the end result of Leftism, the god that it worships: complete, unbridled abandon to self. Tweet This Leftism cannot abide the threat of Christian morality, nor even of the profession that all men "are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights," because this would admit the existence of a Creator, a God, who not only demands but deserves worship. The fever dream of every man being god would be broken. In the end, that is what it means to be a Christian nationalist: to boldly declare that God is Law and that the laws penned by man must be in accord with Law Himself. Leftism declares the perverse inverse: that man is god, and thus any law penned by man is, by its nature, in accord with the law of the gods. With liberalism and relativism as the chief ideologies of the day, the only remaining threat to the Leftist's state of self-worship is Christian nationalism.

"Some people say that there's a woman to blame, but I know, it's my own damn fault." —Jimmy Buffet. "Margaritaville"

It is always some one else's fault. Have you noticed that, here in America?

It's the refs. It's the government. It's the schools. It's the church. It's my pastor. It's President Biden. It's Donald Trump. It's the media. It's the Left. It's the Right. It's racism. It's the courts. It's my spouse. The Devil made me do it.

It's the mirror. That is one place no one wants to look. What was it Michael Jackson sang...?

I'm starting with the man in the mirror. I'm asking him to change his ways. And no message could have been any clearer. If you wanna make the world a better place. Take a look at yourself and then make a change.

Personal responsibility is a tough pill to swallow. It is so much more comforting to blame someone else for the mess that we have made of this nation. The church sucks. The family sucks. The government sucks. The schools suck.

Life is about choices. Some good. Some bad. But at the end of the day, WE are all responsible for the choices we make. Until you accept the fact that it is your own damn fault nothing will ever change. Sorry Flip Wilson, the Devil didn't make you do it.

No one made you over eat.

No one made you get married.

No one made you send your kids to government schools.

No one made you take the job.

No one made you buy what you could not afford.

No one made you wear a mask.

No one made you follow the Dr's orders.

No one made you sit down and shut up.

No one made you believe things that are not true.

No one made you blindly obey the experts.

No one made you lose your courage.

No one made you let the children run the house.

No one made you take drugs.

No one made you start drinking.

No one made you watch porn.

No one made you let your children be educated by non-believing teachers.

No one made you lie.

No one made you believe Dr. Fauci...or Mitch McConnell...or Pelosi.

No one made you identify Bruce Jenner as a woman.

No one made you call abortion "choice."

No one made you believe that America was a racist nation.

No one made you stop judging right from wrong.

No one made you act politically correct.

No one made you believe illegal immigrants were not criminals.

No one made you believe J6 was an armed insurrection.

No one made you believe Christianity was non-violent.

No one made you take-out those student loans.

No one made you believe 2 planes brought down 3 towers.

No one made you believe that The Patriot Act would make you safer.

No one made you believe that not getting involved was a good idea.

Sorry. Soooo much of what you have been led to believe simply is not true.

"There are two ways to be fooled. One is to believe what isn't true; the other is to refuse to believe what is true."— Soren Kierkegaard

Open your eyes. Look in the mirror. Stop blaming others for your own gullibility. America is a mess.

It's our own damn fault.

Chick-fil-A Employee Gives Homeless Man His Own Shoes, Says God Told Him To Do It

July 14, 2023 by FaithPot

Hearing God's voice and obeying it is very difficult for most grownups, talkless of a young teen. But when God prompted Chick-fil-A employee Levi Jones to donate his shoes to a homeless man, this brave 18-year-old obeyed Him.

Levi Jones, along with others had noticed a homeless man sitting out of a restaurant under a tree, but, it was only Levi who responded, that too for a very special reason.

Chick-fil-A employee, Levi Jones, saw homeless man Walter, wandering around a restaurant, and instead of calling the cops or chasing him away, he listened to the voice of God telling him what to do.

Walter was sitting under a tree, close to the Chick-fil-A building in Columbus, Ga. Levi says, "He had his eyes closed, looked very tired," He added, "I went over to him. God led me over there to speak to him."

He approached Walter, and asked him how he was doing and if he could get him any food. He then noticed that the man didn't have any shoes on his feet. God spoke to the Chick-fil-A employee to give him his own shoes.

"The Lord told me to give my shoes to him and that's exactly what I did," he said.

Levi did not argue with God and neither did he reason it out, as he needed his shoes to work his shift, but as Levi says, he moves when the Lord tells him to, and he did just that.

"You know, I'm a Christian and I claim that wholeheartedly," he said. After taking off his shoes, he realized that God had chosen him for this reason because He and Walter wore the same size shoe. He also gave Walter, a meal and his favorite drink, Dr. Pepper.

But now, when Levi returned back to work, he did not have any shoes to wear, but God provided and the management found him some shoes to wear. Even though it was four sizes too big, but Levi did not complain at all.

Todd Kalish, operator of the Columbus, Ga., Chick-fil-A, said that what Levi did would have made Chick-fil-A founder Truett Cathy proud. "Truett told us always obey your kindhearted impulses," Todd said.

When asked why he did what he did, Levi said, "I love Jesus. And as His son, I'm called to live and walk just like Jesus did on the earth," the young man said. "Jesus hung around homeless people. He took care of people, loved on people, blessed people wherever He went. And so I just wanna walk as my Father ... walked and live that out every single day of my life."

Levi has displayed his kindheartedness once before as well, for a family who could not pay for their food, Levi used his own debit card to pay for them and prayed with the family as well.

How to politely tell someone they are stupid:

Good Samaritan Returns Lost Prada Wallet With Hundreds Of Dollars Inside

Today's good news story comes from Houston, Texas.

A Good Samaritan restored faith in humanity by returning a lost Prada wallet, containing hundreds of dollars, to its grateful owner.

The incident occurred on a Monday night when the woman, who wishes to remain anonymous, was at a restaurant in Tanglewood, picking up dinner for her family.

She had misplaced her prized Prada wallet, a gift from her husband. The wallet contained a substantial sum of cash.

It was returned without the owner having the chance to say thanks.

She expressed her gratitude by saying, "The news is often inundated with distressing stories of people's misdeeds, but this was a completely unexpected act of kindness. I truly want to convey my thanks, even though I never had the chance to do so."

She continued, "When my daughter answered the door, she encountered a stranger I had never met before, who was returning my brand-new wallet – a gift from my husband. I had only recently been to the bank and had deposited several hundred dollars in it, and to my amazement, everything was intact."

This compassionate stranger's act was captured on the family's doorbell video camera, but her identity remains a mystery.

Summer's Daily Dose
